Proposed New Flag Design

New Split on Flag May Force Election

Liberals Mum After Caucus

By Victor Mackie and Joyce Fairbairn
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Election talk was swirling around Parliament Hill today with the Commons in the throes of a new flag crisis.

Liberals emerged from an emergency caucus close-mouthed but determined to face a showdown with the Conservative opposition.

Two controversial questions were scheduled to be discussed at the Liberal caucus held before the Commons opened.

They were the new flag recommended by the Commons committee and the proposed formula for patriation of the constitution.

Several Liberals are alarmed over the adverse reaction in many sections of the press to the government's constitutional formula. They are convinced that Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker intends to make this a major issue in the Commons and in the election if a snap election is called.

Liberals grimly declared themselves ready to go to the country charging obstruction by the Tories if the official opposition persisted in parliamentary manoeuvres that would stall business in the House.

SURPRISE MOVE

The Liberals outmanoeuvred the Conservatives this morning, however, when Grant Deachman (L—Vancouver-Quadra), as soon as the House opened said that in view of the criticism levelled at him for his first-person account of the activities of the flag committee he requested the matter be referred to the privileges and elections committee. The Conservatives had been prepared to launch a new attack against Mr. Deachman and his request appeared to blunt that attack.

Liberals were taking heart from the head-on clash between Conservative Leader Diefenbaker and his Quebec lieutenant, deputy leader Leon Balcer. Thursday night the Quebec Conservatives held a caucus and Mr. Balcer issued afterwards a special communique calling for the immediate adoption of "this distinctive new Canadian flag."

At the same time Mr. Diefenbaker was speaking over the long distance telephone from his centre block office to Regina. He addressed the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Progressive Conservative Association. He denounced the flag committee report as just another two-flag policy.

WANTS PLEBISCITE

Mr. Diefenbaker contended that there had to be a plebiscite held on the flag issue. He said his party would not support any flag that did not recognize Canada's past. He said the Conservatives were the party of Confederation and the Conservatives would be the party to save Confederation.

Meanwhile, Social Credit Leader Thompson said he doesn't foresee a mid-winter election resulting from the latest flag controversy.

Mr. Thompson, who leaves

Liberal Requests Inquiry

OTTAWA (CP)—Grant Deachman, Liberal MP under fire in the Commons for breaking secrecy on the flag committee's recommendations, asked today for a special inquiry into the matter by the Commons privileges committee.

However, when the Commons was asked a few minutes later whether the matter should be sent to the committee there were scattered calls of "No". Procedural authorities said unanimous consent would be required for such an inquiry since no formal motion had been presented.

Conservative House Leader Gordon Churchill said the Opposition was under the impression it had been arranged to give unanimous consent. Before acting further, precedents for a formal motion would have to be examined.

Mr. Deachman, MP for Vancouver Quadra and a member of the Commons flag committee, made a brief statement on a question of privilege as the Commons met.

He said that in view of the fact that an article by him and been published before the committee's report was made to the Commons and that his actions had been attacked by the Opposition, he requested that the whole matter be referred to the Commons privileges committee.

Birth Control 'New Look' Protested

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Leading Conservative prelates argued today against a new look at birth control by the Roman Catholic Church. They told the Vatican ecumenical council that married couples should trust in divine providence.

Two Vatican curia cardinals—Alfredo Ottaviani and Michael Browne—rose in the council in St. Peter's Basilica to oppose demands by other prelates for fearless re-examination of all aspects of marriage morality. Cardinals and bishops, many of them leading progressives, said Thursday the problem must not be avoided in the current council debate on its schema on modern world problems.

6,000 CROSS

Crack Opens In Red Wall

BERLIN (AP) — Thousands of happy West Berliners streamed into the Soviet sector today to visit relatives after the Communists opened the Berlin wall for the second time in three years.

A few hours after Red guards raised the candy-striped steel barriers and unlocked the steel gates, the official East German news agency reported that 6,000 West Berliners had crossed over.

This was far more than expected. On the first day of last year's visiting period, the first the Reds had allowed since they built their anti-refugee wall in August 1961, only about 4,000 crossed all day.

The wall will remain open to persons with the necessary passes until Nov. 12—over the All Saints' holiday. It is the first of four visiting periods within the next 12 months.

Most of those crossing over were older people since today is a working day. Only persons working for government offices were given the day off.

The visitors carried big shopping bags filled mostly with such items as butter, coffee, cocoa and fresh fruit. They are scarce or very expensive in the East.

Passes through the wall were good for only one day, until midnight.

The East German guards, who usually have only sour looks for the West, were all smiles. But they were backed by huge propaganda signs.

WIRE BRIEFS

Cat Burglar Takes N.Y. Museum Jewels

NEW YORK (UPI)—A surefooted cat burglar broke into the American Museum of Natural History last night and made off with 22 jewels from the J. P. Morgan collection including the world's largest star sapphire and the renowned De Long ruby.

The museum said the jewels were not insured.

The gems were valued at $200,000 when the financier gave them to the museum in 1905. Museum officials were at a loss to know their present market value, but they probably would be worth many times their original evaluation.

'Far From Dead'

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's scholarship plan is "far from being dead," Prime Minister Pearson said today in the Commons.

COLUSA, Calif. (AP)—Seven elderly persons were killed today in a fast-moving fire that burned down the Oak Manor Rest Home for the Aged.

LBJ Threat Feared

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — President Johnson's motorcade was stopped for a short time here today when a man was discovered in the vicinity with a hunting rifle.

New Trade Treaty

PARIS (UPI) — France and Russia signed a new five-year trade pact today. It boosted trade between them by 60 per cent and granted Russia seven-year credits for heavy industry purchases.

Crash Kills Three

PINCHER CREEK, Alta. (CP)—Thre persons were killed Thursday when a small car was in collision with a road packer on Highway 3 near this community 60 miles west of Lethbridge. Killed in the accident were Mrs. Edna Razey, 45, of Naches, Wash., and Mrs. Maude Leakvold, 73, of Wildwood, Alta. Merle Razey, 56, of Naches, died in hospital.

Rapist Allowed to Talk Before Giving Self Up

35 Hours of Negotiations Climax Vancouver Hunt

VANCOUVER (CP) — Convicted rapist Larry Kanester protested his innocence to a newspaperman Thursday night then meekly allowed himself to be taken back to the mental hospital from which he had escaped Sept. 2.

Kanester's surrender to city editor Bruce Larsen of the Vancouver Sun came only a short time after he had eluded police by a matter of seconds.

And Wednesday he evaded two police stakeouts after boasting that he could not be caught.

He had been object of a search since he escaped from the British Columbia government hospital at Essondale, 40 miles east of here, Sept. 2 with two others. Two girls were forced to drive one of the escapees to Vancouver at knife point. The two others have been recaptured.

Erwin Swangard, managing editor of The Sun, said Kanester protested in talks with Larsen his innocence of charges of raping two Victoria university girls last January for which he was serving two consecutive 10-year sentences.

He was sentenced June 13 after Mr. Justice T. W. Brown said in Supreme Court that the attack on the girls was a case of "sexual savagery."

Kanester gave a detailed account of his 57 days of freedom. And he recalled a traumatic experience 22 miles west of Revelstoke, B.C., when he came upon a wrecked car and found David Aronitz, 27, of New Westminster, B.C., and Robert James Thomas, 29, of Toronto, dying inside.

He talked to Aronitz, who lay with bones sticking out of both arms near the shoulder.

"He asked me to pull him out," Kanester said. "I said I couldn't, it might hurt him more . . .

"I remember getting a real selfish thought. I looked at the guy and wished we could trade places."

To Appeal Convictions

Larsen, in a copyright story, says Kanester plans to appeal his two rape convictions. He also faces a charge of escaping lawful custody and of being a criminal sexual psychopath, which carries an indefinite sentence upon conviction.

Kanester was transferred to Essondale from Oakalla provincial prison last July after an apparent suicide attempt.

Mr. Larsen said Kanester telephoned the Sun Tuesday offering his story for $500 cash. He arranged another call for Wednesday and this time demanded $1,000.

"He was told we were not interested in buying any story but we were prepared to facilitate his return to custody," Mr. Larsen said.

"I said I did not believe the community would respect the Sun if it handed any cash to an escaped rapist who had been branded dangerous by authorities."

An agreement reached after 35 hours of dealing among Sun executives, police, Kanester and an unnamed woman friend of the escapee, proved that Kanester would give himself up at the Sun Building Thursday evening.

FOUND WINDOW CUT OUT BY ANOTHER INMATE

'I Stole Somebody's Way Out'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Larry Kanester, who fled a mental institution while serving 20 years for raping two Victoria co-eds, said in a copyright story in the Vancouver Sun today that he stole his escape from another man.

Kanester surrendered to Sun editorial employees Thursday, stating he plans to appeal his convictions.

Prior to his Sept. 2 escape from Essondale Hospital 40 miles from here — where he had been sent after an apparent suicide attempt in prison—he had been "cut in" on plans for two other escape attempts but turned them down.

"I knew about these other tries. I knew in advance they were going to be done and I was not interested. I did not want to run. I did not feel there was anything in it for me. I didn't want anything, really. I just wanted to sit in a corner," he wrote.

"The night I took off I did not know there was an escape on. I was not cut in on it. I don't know why, maybe because I'd refused the other ones."

Kanester wrote that he went into a mop room. Some mops were hanging out a window to dry.

"When I removed the last one, the window fell out. Somebody had cut it out already to go and I went.

"I actually stole some other guy's way out. I don't know whose."

Two other men fled Essondale the same night. They were recaptured almost immediately.

NEARLY CAUGHT

Kanester said he was almost caught at an RCMP roadblock on his way into Vancouver, but escaped into some brush.

Later, "I got a little bold and I started walking down the middle of the road and these three male nurses came up there and spotted me. I thought they were going to get me for sure because I couldn't run any more."

He stumbled between some houses, doubled back and lay behind a fence. The nurses kept right on going.

In Vancouver he picked up a

Achoo, Achoo, Achoo! Mail Must Go Through

CHICAGO (AP) — "Arf," "bow-wow," "woof-woof" and now "aaaacho." The canine vocabulary has been extended.

With weepy eyes, an explosive nose and a yellowing hide, dogs began avoiding Thursday that previously irresistable hunk of bag and bone—the mailman.

Equipped with a red-white-and-blue, five-by-one-inch aerosol tube loaded with a mixture of cayenne pepper and mineral oil, U.S. mailmen are spraying their way around their routes.

"Over 7,000 postmen are bitten by dogs every year," Chicago Postmaster Harry H. Semrow says. "We developed this repellent to give our men a fighting chance with unfriendly dogs."

According to an instruction pamphlet issued with the repellent, after the peppery liquid is sprayed at an attacking dog it will, "without a whimper, put his tail between his legs and retreat."

"The liquid also leaves a yellow residue on the animal's coat. "This will make for easier identification in case a postman is bitten," Senrow said.'

However, others are not happy with the method. J. J. Shaffer, director of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said: "We want our mail delivered too, but I don't think this is how to do the job."

Three-Leaf Designer Supports New Symbol

OTTAWA (UPI) — Commons amateur flag expert John Matheson, one of the original designers of the Liberal three maple leaf flag, is all in favor of the new single leaf design.

"No flag expert in the world can criticize this flag for design, concept or proportions," Matheson said today.

"It meets all the tests for a distinguished flag," he enthused.

Matheson was a member of the Commons committee that recommended to Parliament Thursday Canada's national flag be a single red maple leaf on a white background with red stripes on the sides.

"It is a flag of dignity and grace, worthy of a great sovereign nation," said the man who helped in the design of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's favored flag of three maple leaves on a white background with blue vertical bars.

UNIVERSAL SYMBOL

"On principle alone, what better could we do than fly our colors and our maple leaf, which is accepted universally as the symbol of Canada?"

He said that since 1868 the maple leaf, "in one form or another, has by overwhelming consensus been accepted as emblematic of Canada."

Matheson said that Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker was "rudely inaccurate" in saying the design looked like the flag of Peru.

Diefenbaker has been "entirely destructive and his influence upon his own followers demoralizing."

"In effect what he claims is the right to veto any choice not of his personal liking."

car and drove, with an unnamed friend, to Edmonton.

"I was in Edmonton a month I guess. I got a job there, worked for a co-op. I was working at the deep freeze, packing stuff in. It was the first job I ran into . . .

"I figured Vancouver was no good for me. It was so hot I was afaid to walk the streets."

WOMAN BLAMED

He thought about Calgary, where he had lived but rejected it as a hideout because "someone might spot me on the street."

"I left Edmonton when some woman tried to report me."

He believes she searched his suitcase and found pictures of his small son and daughter with his name on the back.

In Edmonton he used the name Brawn.

Kanester drove back to Vancouver, where he took a room near the city hall.

He stayed away from the east end and the west end, areas where he was known, but:

"I have been downtown to shows, drinking, public spots, bootleg spots but not the booze cans often. I have been to a couple of night clubs but I did not feel right there because the police dry squad might come through and recognize me."

He set up a false identity as Donald Moriarty, a name he "borrowed" from someone he had once met.

"I went to the unemployment office here in Vancouver as Moriarty. I did not have to show them any papers and when they asked where I last worked I said I was in the navy for five years. They didn't check. All I needed to know was his name, his father's Christian name and his mother's surname. I got an unemployment insurance card."

Twice, police were close to Kanester. Once he was stopped for jaywalking and released with a warning.

Again, a car in which he was riding was stopped for making an illegal turn.

Two houses where he had been were staked out.

'NO FIGHT'

Kanester said he would not have resisted had he been taken — "there would have been no fight. I don't want a hole in me."

"I don't know why they (the police) always do this 'armed and dangerous' bit. I've never shot anybody and I've never had any armed robbery charges. I've never carried a gun around . . . and I don't pack a knife."

Kanester said he felt that with police close behind him:

". . . If I couldn't move, if I couldn't go downtown and see a show, then there was no sense in my being out.

"If I had to stay cooped up in a room, I might as well be back inside."

... RAPIST TALKS

In return the newspaper would publish his story, supply him with trial transcripts and a copy of the Criminal Code, refer him to legal aid, have the transcripts read by a lawyer, ask Attorney-General Robert Bonner to read the same transcripts to satisfy himself that justice had been done, and ask Mr. Bonner for a public statement.

Kanester was driven to the Sun by a woman at 10:23 p.m., PST, met by Mr. Larsen, escorted to Mr. Swangard's office, and police were called.

After an interview with Mr. Larsen, Kanester was driven, under police escort, to Essondale where he was handed over to authorities. At Kanester's request a Sun employee drove the car.

Kanester sprang back into the headlines this week when he telephoned radio columnist Pat Burns to say that he would surrender to Essondale authorities Monday.

He said: "The cops can't get me—I'm just too smart for them."

With police listening on tracing devices, he told Burns: "I can stay free for as long as I like."

Then he said he had been living in Edmonton but a girl friend had reported him to police.

Later police staked out two houses but Kanester did not fall into the trap.

The same day a 14-year-old girl thought she saw him in the house next door to her home. But, said Theresa Castelan, she was called to the telephone as she went to tell her father and forgot all about it.

Thursday police arrived at the house next door to make a routine enquiry. Kanester slipped out the back door as a detective ran upstairs to his room.

Mr. Larsen was involved with convicts in a far more dramatic way in 1956 when he was city editor of The Province, now Vancouver's morning newspaper but then The Sun's rival in the evening field.

An Oakalla prison guard, Ernie Loveless, was held for almost six hours with a razor at his throat and shears pressed against his back by three convicts.

They agreed to release the guard after Mr. Larsen promised that their charges of wrongful conviction as attempted murderers would be carried in an extra edition of The Province.

The newspaper appeared on the street at night with the headline: This Story for a Life!

Two lines of type under the headline said: "Province city editor frees kidnapped guard."

Another Sun city editor was involved earlier this year when Charles Heathman confessed to slaying a 10-year-old Vernon, B.C., newsboy then repudiated the confession.

Jack Brooks, then city editor and now the newspaper's Washington correspondent, and reporter Simma Holt heard Heathman say that he killed Donald Ottley for whose murder he had twice been sentenced to hang and twice set free.

He was paid $500 for the story

'This Story for a Life' Recalled by Surrender

VANCOUVER (CP)—"This Story For A Life!"

The headline blazoned across an extra edition of the Vancouver Province newspaper eight years ago was recalled Thursday night.

The newspaper told how city editor Bruce Larsen, then 29, had bargained the extra edition in exchange for the life of Oakalla prison guard Ernie Loveless, 38.

Loveless was held prisoner by three desperate men for six hours, a razor at his throat and shears pressed against his back.

Thursday night Mr. Larsen, now city editor of the Vancouver Sun, was involved with another convict—convicted rapist Larry Kanester surrendered to him, pleaded his innocence and then allowed himself to be returned to the mental hospital from which he had escaped last month.

On May 7, 1956, Mr. Larsen received a far more serious assignment. Three convicts, Bob Tremblay and Marcel Frenetee, both of Montreal, and Charlie Talbot, seized Loveless. Their action followed dismissal of appeals of convictions of attempted murder.

'NOTHING TO LOSE'

As they held their hostage in the barbering space at the end of a corridor they shouted to other guards: "Stay back, we have nothing to lose through cutting his throat. We've got 20 years and another charge waiting."

Tremblay demanded to see Mr. Larsen and for five hours the editor talked to the prisoners.

Mr. Larsen agreed to put out the Province's first night extra since the Second World War. It would contain the prisoners' charges of wrongful conviction of attempted murder.

Mr. Larsen said today he lost track of the three men after the incident.

He said they were all serving lengthy terms and after the incident were split up and sent to separate penitentiaries across Canada.

Indonesian Invasion Collapses

SUNGEI RAMBAI, Malaysia (AP)—Indonesia's latest invasion of the Malaysian mainland collapsed today when 25 shaken guerrillas surrendered less than 36 hours after they landed.

A strong Commonwealth task force hunted for a half dozen other guerrillas still believed at large from a force of 56 men who landed by boat Thursday near this village on Malaysia's southwest shore.

The guerrillas emerged from the swampy jungles with no resistance after being pinned down by British, Australian and New Zealand troops.

Malaysian police rounded up 25 other invaders Thursday.

It was Indonesia's third raid of the mainland since August. Only three days ago Malaysia had broken the back of the other two raids.

A foreign ministry spokesman said Malaysia planned to protest to the United Nations. Australia, whose troops went into action against the Indonesians for the first time, said it would report the action to the international organization.

RELATIONS CUT; NEW VIOLENCE

Czechs Blamed for Bolivian Riots

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Accusing the Czechoslovak embassy of arming its opponents and inciting them to rebellion, President Victor Paz Estenssoro's embattled government broke diplomatic relations Thursday night with the East European Communist country.

Clashes continued. As many as 48 persons may have been killed in the past week.

Army troops were in Oruro, a tin mining centre 143 miles south of the capital, and the rebels there reported heavy fighting.

New violence broke out in La Paz and Cochabamba, a city 310 miles southeast of La Paz.

Paz Estenssoro ordered military units into Oruro after miners and students there proclaimed a rebellion against his regime.

Oruro radio stations held by the miners said a force of miners and students battled soldiers 18 miles from Oruro on a road leading to the big Catavi tin mine.

The broadcast said possibly 30 persons were killed in the battle. Ten persons had been reported killed Wednesday at Oruro, and two civilians were reported killed and 17 wounded in disorders Thursday night in La Paz.

$50 MILLION FOR TRAINING

Ontario Starts Health Plan

TORONTO (CP)—A $50,000,000 program to provide expanded medical, dental and nursing training facilities in Ontario was announced Thursday by Premier John Robarts.

The premier said an additional $64,000,000 to assist university teaching hospitals will be spent during the next five years.

The program calls for the establishment of a medical school at McMaster University in Hamilton, a dental school at the University of Western Ontario in London, and the expansion of medical facilities at University of Toronto and at Queen's University in Kingston.

The hospitals affected by the program are at the University of Ottawa, Toronto, Queen's and Western.

Education Minister William Davis, who is also minister of university affairs, said the $50,000,000 represents only capital construction costs. No target date was set for completion of the four construction programs, but university officials indicated the facilities should be in full operation between 1968 and 1970.

The program, designed to offset the growing shortage of qualified personnel in the medical and dental professions in the province, will make room for about 900 additional medical students and 400 dentistry students.

Mr. Davis said at present there are about 2,400 medical students and 500 dentistry students registered in Ontario universities.

Three regional nursing schools to accommodate 100 students each are planned but their locations have not been decided, the premier said.

He said it has been estimated nursing schools in the province will have to graduate 5,000 registered nurses a year by 1969. He also announced the establishment of a planning council on nursing education to report to Health Minister Dymond.

Financing of the projects would be carried out by the Ontario Universities Capital Aid Corporation, a Crown corporation established by the government earlier this year.

Mr. Robarts said all the projects were outlined in the Hall royal commission report, which recommended they should be financed jointly by the federal and provincial governments. He said Ontario is prepared to go it alone, but he hoped the federal government would contribute 50 per cent.

Fears Expressed For Salmon Run

EPHRATA, Wash. (AP) — Future salmon and steelhead runs on the Columbia River will be endangered by increased water temperatures when the upper river is bottled up between the High Arrow Dam in British Columbia and Priest Rapids Dam, according to a report issued Thursday.

The report was prepared by Dr. F. A. Davidson, biologist fo the Grant County Public Utility District, and Prof. J. Raphael, engineering consultant for the PUD.

It includes a study of present temperature changes in the river from Priest Rapids Dam to the Canadian border and what they may be after the High Arrow Dam is built.

When High Arrow is built the river could absorb so much heat during summer months that it could raise "downstream temperature in the vicinity of Priest Rapids to a point where it could become critical to the survival of the salmon and steelhead," the report said.

The report said the bottom of the reservoir behind the Canadian dam is expected to be 19 to 24 degrees below that now flowing out of the upper lakes during late summer. It suggested installation of a siphon to draw off this cooler water in order to lower the temperature of the river.

There's No Place Like Home

PROVINCIAL WELFARE DEPARTMENT officials have placed before the public the urgent need for more adoption homes. Here is a cause which very nicely links concern for the public purse with concern for humanity. For while a child remains a ward of the government its upkeep must be paid for by the taxpayers. When it is adopted, its expenses become the responsibility of the new parents. That is the economic view.

But a much more important aspect is the effect on the child. An infant adopted within a few days or weeks of birth becomes an integral part of a family and absorbs all the psychological and other benefits to be derived from that close association. But a child who must suffer the mental and emotional upsets of moving from one foster home to another, perhaps over a period of years, will probably carry the marks of these dislocations for life. This can entail a far greater cost than any mere subsistence allowance, and it can be avoided through a successful adoption placement program.

Miss Mary King, the superintendent of child welfare, has mentioned the changing factors in modern life which pose difficulties in the search for adoption homes. Younger marriages, apartment dwelling, fewer couples in the age group which normally provides the most adoption parents—these are adverse factors. And they are augmented by an increase in the illegitimate birth rate which will contribute to the need to find adoption homes for some 2,000 children a year for the next five years. The provincial welfare department and private agencies last year placed 1,000 children.

This is a problem involving the lives of future citizens, the very life-stuff of our nation. Government and private agencies can do much to solve it, but in the last analysis it must be the homes of citizens, the family groups formed by husbands and wives, which provide the answer. There are few more urgent humanitarian needs today.

Buying In Tomorrow's Coin

FOR A NUMBER OF YEARS there has been a growing demand from consumers' groups, labor unions and others that legislation be passed requiring lenders in the retail credit field to state the costs of loans in terms of true annual interest rates rather than in terms of dollars repayable as most now do.

At the present time two bodies are studying the subject, a Commons-Senate joint committee and a select committee of the Ontario legislature. Both hearings have brought forward the usual protests from spokesmen of consumer credit granting organizations. These claim that the true annual interest rate disclosure would be impractical, costly and complicated.

This argument has been demolished many times and was again thoroughly discredited in these hearings by testimony from economic and accounting experts. The experts showed that interest rate disclosure could be handled easily and inexpensively through the use of tables which could be made available to all credit granters.

However, a new argument was advanced against interest rate disclosure by the executive council of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce before the Commons-Senate committee. This, while it has the same basic premise as the credit granters' thesis, carries with it far graver implications for the Canadian economy.

The Chamber argues strongly that the practical effect of true annual interest rate disclosure on consumer loans and financing might be to frighten off potential customers. Realization that repayment of the debt involves interest rates of 12, 15 or 20 per cent annually might be enough to make a person decide to forego purchase of a luxury item.

Recognizing this fact, the Chamber executive submitted that, "Credit is the vital bridge that links mass production to mass consumption and undue tampering with its delicate mechanism can have a serious adverse effect on our economy—an effect that will be felt not only by producers and retailers who are directly concerned but throughout the whole economy."

What the Chamber is saying, in other words, is that Canadians are on a credit treadmill. If they are told the truth about the cost of retail credit some of them might get off the treadmill, slowing it down and harming the economy.

There is a certain validity to this argument, of course, but the full implication of it is, or should be, thoroughly frightening to all Canadians who stop to think it through. If our economy is so thoroughly dependent on consumer credit as the Chamber of Commerce seems to believe, what happens when the treadmill begins to revolve so fast that people are thrown off?

Massive borrowing against future income cannot expand indefinitely at either the individual or national level. If the expansion of mass production is tightly meshed with mass consumption based on expanded credit then it would seem that Canadians are borrowing not only against future income but also against future production.

The argument that Canadian consumers cannot be told the truth about the cost of borrowing is fallacious. Would it not be better, for the sake of simple honesty in business as well as the more orderly growth of the economy, to encourage consumers to look more closely at the price they pay when buying on credit?

Certainly mandatory disclosure of true annual interest rates by lenders will not bring the credit spree to a halt. But it could slow it down to more manageable proportions.

Heavy Bidding

ONCE AGAIN A VICTORIA firm will bid on a federal government contract for a heavy water plant, with the intention of establishing it in one of the three western provinces, possibly British Columbia.

Heavy water—with a more complex molecule than ordinary water — is used in producing nuclear power by the method that Canadian scientists have pursued. When bids for a similar production plant were called last year, the contract was awarded to a company organized to build it in Nova Scotia. Promised provincial government subsidies permitted a lower bid than would normally have been possible, and the federal government, in awarding the contract, had regard to the desirability of establishing a new industry in an economically depressed area.

Whether this consideration will be influential in the current case cannot be foreseen. But the federal government should have in mind the need to keep costs to a minimum, and the realization that a subsidized plant does not represent a more economical operation. The local firm will ask no more than a fair and impartial assessment of the bids. It seems a reasonable basis on which to make an award.

TV and the Delinquent

A UNITED STATES SENATE sub-committee studying juvenile delinquency has found that "a relationship has been conclusively established between televised crime and violence and anti-social attitudes and behavior among juvenile viewers." It has warned the industry to do something about it unless the industry wants Congress to step in.

The warning comes as the result of the committee's findings that the self-policing promised by television interests has produced no noticeable results in cutting down shows of crime and violence. Desirable as self-policing is, in the committee's opinion, if it is not effective, some other forceful action will be taken.

Less promising is another proposal of the sub-committee: that television stations be required to poll the public annually to determine what viewers think of the suitability of their programs. Good as some American television programs are, many of the men who seek sponsors for presentations accepted a long time ago the principle of the lowest common denominator in content for mass viewing. And unhappily, they have reason to believe that a large portion of the potential audience likes crime and violence.

"Comfy?"

FROM LONDON

By RICHARD PURSER

Mounting a Longer Economic Attack

NO ONE here, least of all Prime Minister Wilson, is under any illusion that the newly imposed import surcharges and export tax rebates are the answer to any but Britain's most immediate problems. The entire public relations exercise which launched the measures sought to place them in the framework of Britain's underlying economic needs. There are two grave drawbacks to the surcharges: One is that they cannot be allowed to last long or GATT (which they contravene) and Britain's restive trading partners will make their objections stick.

Purser

The second is that they could be interpreted by easy-going British manufacturers as a cushion against competition.

Mr. Wilson hit the second point head-on in his television address: "It must be absolutely clear that they (the surcharges) are not applied in any protectionist spirit. For any industry or group of workers, still more for the country, to think that they provide an easy way out is a recipe for industrial and for national suicide."

Anxious to Set Pattern

In other words, under the brief cover of the temporary measures, other long-terms measures to strengthen Britain's competitive position must begin to take hold. The Labor government is desperately anxious to establish a pattern of steady economic growth, both to pay for its social program and to avoid the frequent bouts of economic stagnation under the Conservatives.

The renewed imposition of restrictionist policies, if they ever come, will be a confession of Labor's failure. And "to avoid a restrictionist approach," as Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan said, "we must have more exports—it's as simple as that."

The economic white paper's passages on long-term policy promised consultations with both sides of industry (which have already begun) "on the outline of a plan to increase productivity and to ensure that an incomes policy which covers all forms of income and is related to productivity becomes effective."

A price review board was promised: A policy to encourage labor mobility by softening the economic consequences of technological layoffs; development in unemployment areas; and a strict review of government expenses.

Union Handicap

The Labor Party's habit in the past has been to stress the shortcomings on the management side of industry. Great as these are, belief is strong here that restrictive union practices are the greatest menace to productivity but that the Labor Party is hampered from stressing this because of its union connections.

Mr. Wilson's television speech was an encouraging departure from this reticence. He said Britain could not afford monopoly practices of overmanning jobs, demarcation disputes and wildcat strikes.

Trades Union Congress General Secretary George Woodcock knows this as well as anyone. His reaction to his initial talks with the prime minister was moderately encouraging. "Moderately" because he is well aware of the emotions of unionists. Fashioning an incomes policy is going to be a delicate business.

Industrial spokesmen were less encouraging after their first talks at No. 10 Downing Street, mostly because of their objection to a price review board. This would interfere with what they see to be management responsibility, but the government despairs of any hope of restraining union wage demands unless the cost of living is held down.

Whatever the difficulties, the government is at least trying hard. It remains to be seen whether it can achieve an incomes policy to keep the wage element of export costs in line.

Can They Do It?

It also remains to be seen whether the creation of new ministries of economic affairs and technology will achieve their respective goals: "To develop those sections of the economy which are needed to expand exports, replace avoidable imports and to strengthen our industrial base," and "to accelerate the process of modernization and innovation by stimulating a more rapid application of scientific and technological advances to British industry."

The government is anxious to get ahead with the essentials of its social program without waiting for the revenue from a revived export economy, but without raising taxes. Hence the review of government expenditure.

A number of costly "prestige" projects are under close study. The scrapping of many of them to divert money toward projects of higher social priority will be politically unpopular in the quarters affected. The white paper unfortunately mentioned one specific project under review: The Anglo-French supersonic Concord airliner. Ending this vast exercise in European co-operation could be the one thing to prove to Frenchmen that what President de Gaulle said about Britain in 1963 was true.

A LITTLE LESS VIGOROUS

Khrushchevism Without Mr. K.

ONLY a few days after Khrushchev's fall from power, it is already for readers of the Soviet press as though he never existed. Pravda failed to report even the short but decent praise of the East European Communist leaders for their old senior colleague. A Pravda article commemorating the 20th anniversary of the liberation of the Ukraine did not mention Khrushchev once, although he was head of the Ukrainian party throughout the war.

On the other hand, no one member of the remaining Soviet leadership has been pushed forward to fill the gap. Pravda, reporting the Moscow welcome for the latest cosmonauts, printed across its front page a vast picture of the space heroes with all the nine active members of the party Presidium on top of the Lenin mausoleum. Collective leadership is once again the order of the day.

The leader-writers are now calling collective leadership "the greatest political achievement of our party," but at times like the present it is also pure political necessity. The removal of Khrushchev has thrown power back to the Presidium as a group, because no single member has even half the power that Khrushchev had.

It is easy to forget how long it took Khrushchev to reach this position of power. There were three main stages. First he took the party leadership from Malenkov, within days of Stalin's death, leaving Malenkov with the premiership. The principle of collective leadership was made much of after this.

Increasing Strength

Then in 1956, a "Russian bureau" of the Central Committee was set up with Krushchev at its head, and staffed mainly by men who had served under him in Moscow and the Ukraine. The bureau's job was to run the party of the Russian Republic, the largest republic party in the Soviet Union. Direct control over it obviously greatly increased Khrushchev's strength.

Finally, in March, 1958, while keeping the party leadership, Khrushchev succeeded Bulganin as prime minister. There was no longer any public talk of collective leadership.

The essence of Khrushchev's position was that he was the only Presidium member to exercise power both in the Secretariat, the central party "civil service" which executes the decisions of the Presidium, and in the Council of Ministers, or government proper. His colleagues either had power as secretaries of the Central Committee or as deputy prime ministers, but not both.

The same is true today. The new First Party Secretary Leonid Brezhnev, is undoubtedly the most powerful man in the Soviet Union because his is the senior party job, and it is the party which ultimately runs the country. But he will not be able to control the execution of economic policy to anything like the degree Khrushchev could. This will be the job of Andrei Kosygin, the new prime minister.

The most important result of the return to collective leadership could be a far greater degree of immobility in Soviet policies at home and abroad. There are extraordinarily strong conservative groups in all parts of Soviet society—in the party itself, among the industrialists and economists, the army, the intelligentsia.

Secretariat Disbanded

Khrushchev was strong enough to tackle them, even if he had to make tactical concessions to one or the other of them every so often. He was also helped by having a skilled secretariat of his own which provided him with expertise independent of the powerful pressure groups. This secretariat has now been disbanded (as was Stalin's very different one immediately after his death), but there is little doubt that it greatly helped Khrushchev in his energetic decision-making.

Without Khrushchev to come down on one side in an argument, or to win a majority to his own point of view, the Presidium is far more likely to be deadlocked. This makes it all the more important to know as much as possible about its individual members.

The leaders' portraits displayed in Moscow for the cosmonauts' welcome-home celebrations suggested a senior grouping of five Presidium members: Brezhnev, Kosygin, Mikoyan, Suslov and Podgorny. This makes sense. Brezhnev, Suslov and Podgorny are all party secretaries. Mikoyan is president. Kosygin is prime minister.

Suslov Opposition

Reports from Moscow that Suslov made the major speech against Khrushchev are also easy to believe. Although Suslov was one of the three Presidium members who supported Khrushchev against the anti-party group in 1957, he seems never to have been close to Khrushchev. His tall, gangling figure, reminiscent of an academic who likes long walks, always looked uncomfortable beside the bouncing Mr. K. But it is hard to see Suslov, whose speciality is party theory, making a bid for the control of the party, which is the key to Soviet power.

The curious thing about the current Presidium is that it seems to be more pro-Khrushchev than at any time in the past. Brezhnev and Podgorny have both generally been regarded as Khruschev men both worked under him when he ran the Ukraine during and after the war.

The same is true of the four apparently "junior" Presidium members. Shvernik, a veteran trade union leader of little political weight, was brought into the Presidium by Khrushchev after the anti-party group's defeat. The three youngest members, Voronov, Kirilenko, and Polyansky have all, one way or the other, been closely associated with Khrushchev. Ironically, the Presidium member most generally connected with opposition to Khrushchev, Frol Kozlov, has been paralyzed since last year.

The obvious guess, then, is that Khrushchevism will broadly be continued. But it is now likely to be pursued far less vigorously at those points where it has met most resistance in the past, or seemed most risky and controversial.

Voices Of Quebec

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste

Solicitor-General Claude Wagner's report apparently has ended the series of incidents surrounding the Queen's visit to Canada. Despite the exaggeration of certain episodes by politicians, observers and even government officials are concluding from it all that this trip should never have been made. It is even surprising that Prime Minister Pearson is not deposed by his own party for having allowed such an unfortunate event . . .

Mr. Wagner has gone to much trouble to show that not one drop of French-Canadian blood ran in the streets of Quebec City. The night-sticks two feet long that crashed down on the faces and shoulders of the students and journalists had this particularity: they did not cause blood to flow. Police techniques have made progress . . .

Mr. Wagner had proclaimed at the time of his appointment to the cabinet that he would attack the underworld and that it would get the treatment once he stepped down from the bench. The only ones he has found to attack as underworld types are school children . . . He has made himself the advocate of those who dole out truncheon-blows.

His report is too absolute to satisfy anyone. It seems partisan and that will not serve to reassure the calm, sincere population of Quebec. He will have to offer more than the haughty disdain he heaps on the journalists who were the objects of his men's truncheon attacks . . .

Newspapers have been accused of having created a climate of fear at the time all these events took place. But didn't the 1,200 bobbies Mr. Wagner used to keep Quebec City under his heel also contribute to that climate? Mr. Wagner should therefore examine himself before accusing the journalists of throwing the population into a panic. The report is long enough, but it is very incomplete.

Montreal Le Devoir

Mr. Lesage said of the Wagner Report on the Queen's visit that "the press had prepared the ground for a riot." This statement calls for many reservations. First of all, the report did not establish definitely that there was imminent danger of a riot . . .

Even supposing that there was real danger of a riot, could all responsibility be thrown on the newspapers? This explanation can be only part of the truth. Because if Quebec was ready for a riot that day, it was first of all due to the presence of the Queen, whose visit was inopportune in the circumstances . . .

Mr. Pearson has said the royal visit showed many Canadians our divisions and our discords. These are the real causes of what happened, even if certain newspapers amplified or exaggerated the discontent. And Mr. Pearson and Mr. Lesage know these difficulties.

In staying away from royal visit events, the population of Quebec acted with logic and dignity. It thus underlined our complaints about the federal system. It is not the fault of the Queen, who did not come on her own initiative, but it is principally that of the two prime ministers that she came here at a badly chosen moment.—Paul Sauriol.

Ottawa Le Droit

The question can be asked quite legitimately: Are the English-Canadians going to be less civilized, less generous, less liberal than the Russians, the Poles, the Czechs and the Slavs, the Austrians, the Bulgarians, the Hungarians, the Indians, the Romanians? The question can be asked because in these countries two or more languages have equal status from an educational point of view while not always being considered official languages. But, everyone knows, this is not the case in Canada, except in the province of Quebec . . .

Outside Quebec, the French-speaking groups are peacefully working, in order and legality, for the defence of what they properly consider as elementary rights guaranteed by the spirit, if not the letter, of the British North America Act. Nothing will be gained by provoking the French minorities indefinitely. Why then act as though wanting them to become aggressive? . . .

Why do we have to use examples of other countries? As has often been said to English-Canadians of good faith and goodwill, we are only asking for the French minorities of Ontario and the other provinces the same treatment that the English minority receives in Quebec. Could we be more reasonable, more moderate?

It is up to the leaders of the country and of the provinces to grant these requests which conform to all the definitions of the rights of men and to the will of most, if not all, of the Fathers of Confederation. And time is pressing.

THE HIGHER VIRTUE

INSIDE POLITICS

With Douglas Fisher, M.P.

There has been a desperate quality in the willingness many MPs have shown this past month to forget the flag issue. I know many members have behaved like myself in hardly daring to speak to the men on the Commons Flag Committee. Not until last week were there even any rumors about the activities of the committee. Certainly, the committee members can be credited with a circumspect restraint.

Of course, time has been running out and the news-gatherers' pressure has been mounting. There's been a revival of speculation on strategy. Some suspect that the leader of the Official Opposition has been privy to every move of the committee and has been piping advice through several of the Conservatives. This suspicion is the explanation for the retreat to the Gatineau last weekend. Or so the story goes.

My Predictions

These are my guesses on the future of the flag question:

(A) Mr. Pearson won't get his flag by Christmas; (B) Mr. Diefenbaker won't give up his fight for the ensign or a near replica; (C) The issue will lead to another long debate in the House; (D) The frustrations thus created will lead, either to closure brought on by the government or the dissolution of this Parliament and an election.

It has been my assumption from opinion gathered everywhere I have gone that the public interest on the flag issue has shifted noticeably from being divided into three camps: pro-Pearson flag, pro-Red Ensign, and the neutrals who think it is a silly or time-wasting nuisance. Now it seems to me that the pro-Pearson group is smaller and less militant for that particular solution but still ready for a new flag. The Red Ensign boosters are less numerous but even more fervent and bitter. It is the third group which I find much larger.

I believe it is clearly a majority and that most of these people are certain that the much more crucial matter of Confederation's future has made the flag question one for kids and odd-balls.

However, these assumptions of mine are not shared by many here, particularly among the Conservatives. It was their resistance that began the flag filibuster. Despite furtive carping about the obduracy of their leader's position from a few Conservatives, the majority of them are as set as ever.

Despite this stubborness on the flag issue there are open indications that the Conservatives have changed or are shifting their positions on the new constitutional arrangements.

Take It, Leave It

In the House Judy Lamarsh was queried on what indications she had on the intentions of the provinces, other than Quebec (which has opted out) on the Canada Pension Plan. She gave a little homily on the reasons why she could not give an exact reply, including the suggestion that since this was federal legislation and within the federal jurisdiction there was no federal responsibility to guarantee or to argue all the provinces into it. A sort of "they can take it or leave it" attitude.

This sounded fearless and straightforward. What is federal is federal. But this is an over-simplification. While each province may have to negotiate into arrangements under the Canada Pension Plan, it is obvious from all the dickering that has gone on and from the three drastic alterations in the plan since first propounded that provincial opinions and objections have been all important.

On the same day Mitchell Sharp gave a bland answer to a question on whether he had taken any steps to apprise the government of Quebec of his views on the bad features of any acts by that government which would restrict or penalize the exchange of goods between other provinces and Quebec.

Mr. Sharp was sure that the authorities in Quebec had read his remarks on the subject. He knows as well as you and I do that it will take something stronger than public speeches to stop such erection of provincial trade barriers.

The Great Issue

These two rather frivolous examples are typical of the restiveness and the facetiousness that surround the shifts in power towards the provinces. Each day the Conservative prodding, especially by Mr. Diefenbaker, suggests that he is sensing that here is the great issue. It will require a lot of care in turning to take it up since his own government, through Davie Fulton, had worked up much of what became the accepted result at the federal-provincial conference. It seems to me that this will be the Diefenbaker issue that will follow upon the flag and gradually overshadow it. There's no question about it. It is made to order for a Diefenbaker-on-the-hustings.

France to Build Bigger A-Bomb

PARIS (UPI) — France's 1965 military budget called Tuesday for bigger and better atomic bombs.

The budget, placed before the National Assembly, calls for a total defence expenditure of $4.2 billion starting on Jan. 1.

It amounts to slightly more than 20 per cent of the total government spending.

Military experts will build an atomic bomb even more powerful than the one designed for its Mirage IV nuclear bombers, the budget report said. The Mirage bomb, tested May 2, 1960, is a plutonium device with a strength of 50 to 60 kilotons — three times more powerful than the Hiroshima weapon.

Housewives Protest

TOKYO (AP) — About 1,500 persons, mostly housewives, attended a pro-Communist sponsored rally Wednesday to oppose calls to Japanese ports by U.S. nuclear submarines. After listening to speeches by Communist and socialist party leaders, they approved a protest resolution to be delivered to the government of Japan and the United States.

WITH DOCTORS NOW WILLING TO CO-OPERATE . . .

Door Wide Open for Medicare—Strachan

The B.C. government can afford to provide medicare immediately, Opposition Leader Robert Strachan said Thursday.

He challenged the Social Credit regime to act, saying it would be solely responsible for any further delay.

Mr. Strachan based his contention on a statement by Dr. Peter Banks of Victoria, president of the B.C. Medical Association.

Dr. Banks said Monday that if the people of B.C. decide they want the government to pay their medical bills, the doctors will co-operate.

Mr. Strachan called this a complete reversal of previous medical policy.

"It is also an indication that the majority of the doctors have rejected the anti-medicare politicians within their own ranks who have in the past created for the whole profession a money-grubbing image," he said.

"I have said in the past that a majority of B.C. doctors were not opposed to government financing and I am pleased to see them now accepting our NDP policy."

Mr. Strachan said there has never been any difference of opinion on the medical aspects of medicare.

Financing has been the sole issue.

"As Dr. Banks now admits, this is a matter for the patient to decide, not the doctor," Mr. Strachan said.

"Now that the doctors have agreed to co-operate and accept complete government financing of medicare in B.C., any decision to further delay the extension of medicare to every citizen or to impose a deterrent fee, described by the Hall Royal Commission as a tax on the poor, will be the sole responsibility of the Social Credit government."

Mr. Strachan said it is completely within B.C.'s ability to finance medicare immediately, as was done in Saskatchewan.

He said B.C. could have its scheme in operation within six months.

He said it could go ahead before the federal government agreed to participate, as recommended by the Hall Commission.

"The statement by Health Minister Eric Martin that this would mean people would flock to B.C. for medicare is, as Saskatchewan has proved, a feeble excuse for doing nothing.

"The minister must act now or accept full responsibility for denying proper care to our citizens."

'DUMMY' CLEARS BEACHES

HONOLULU (AP)—The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Bearing Strait accidentally released a practice torpedo at sea Thursday and the projectile ended up on Waikiki Beach. No one was injured, but the dummy weapon all but cleared the beach area of tourists before a navy demolition squad declared it harmless.

JEWELLER TAKES MONEY FOR BUSINESS

A Vancouver jeweller is going to invest $1,000 he won from the New Democratic party, in his business.

Wolfe Klebe chose the money rather than a trip to England for the opening of Parliament when he won a contest on the result of the Britisn election.

The NDP offered the prize in a contest open to purchasers of a $1 pen.

The proceeds of the pen sale are going to the NDP's treasury.

Mr. Klebe's guess for the election was 316 for Labor, 304 Conservative and 10 Liberal. The result was 317, 304 and nine.

'COPTER candidate in Puerto Rico's general election for governor, Robert Sanchez Vilella, smiles from beneath the helicopter helmet he wears in the campaign. He uses a helicopter to keep a promise to visit every community in the country as a candidate for the Popular Democratic Party.

Tariff-Cutting For Own Bloc British Goal?

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's new import curbs have raised a storm in parts of Europe with the result that the Wilson administration now must defend its action much the same way Canada defended its import curbs during the 1962 currency exchange crisis.

The allegation against Britain, as expressed by Foreign Minister Trygve Lie of Norway, and echoed in other European quarters, is that a specific tax on imports, instead of using import quotas, is a violation of international trade obligations since the higher specific duty tends to nullify existing tariff contracts.

Reducing imports through quotas, however, tends to be a slow and complicated process, compared with the swiftness of an immediate higher duty. And a higher tax gives a government the prospect of added revenue, whereas a quota on volume of imports yields a government nothing.

Amid the heat of debate and criticism, there also is the prospect that Britain may use the temporary tariff wall as a means of providing special deals with certain European partners with the result that the split will widen between the six-country European Common Market and the seven-country European Free Trade Association of which Britain is a member.

To offset the criticism of the 15 per cent duty among EFTA partners, Britain is reported ready to accelerate tariff-cutting within this trade bloc. About 60 per cent of the tariffs already have been cut with the remaining 40 per cent to be stripped by 1966. The next 10 per cent cut is due in January and Britain may unilaterally agree to make a bigger cut.

SHADOW CABINET

Home Returns Rebels to Fold

LONDON (AP) — Sir Alec Douglas-Home reshuffled the Conservative leadership in Parliament Thursday to emphasize the party's younger leaders and bring two Torry rebels back into the fold.

The defeated prime minister remains leader of what is officially called "Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition."

His shadow cabinet of Conservative leaders will act as spokesmen for the party in Parliament and contains figures the party likes to regard as its "modernizers."

Reginald Maudling, former chancellor of the exchequer, became deputy leader in all but name. He will take charge when Douglas-Home is away from the Commons and co-ordinate home and financial policy.

Edward Heath, Britain's negotiator in the abortive European Common Market talks, will handle economic affairs and become chairman of the party's policy committee. He replaces R. A. Butler as the party's chief idea man. Butler will continue as spokesman on foreign affairs.

Back into the party's top ranks came Iain Macleod and Enoch Powell, two former ministers who refused to serve under Douglas-Home last year.

Macleod will be the party's chief spokesman opposing Labor's plan for nationalizing steel. Powell, former health minister, will shadow Labor's spokesmen on transport.

Ernest Marples, former transport minister, will be the party's spokesman on technology.

Douglas-Home dropped former home secretary Henry Brooke. Brooke almost lost his seat in the Commons in the Oct. 15 general election. The new spokesman on home affairs is Sir Edward Boyle, 41-year-old former education minister and youngest in the shadow cabinet.

Douglas-Home did not use the term shadow cabinet in announcing his team. He said he prefers the title "leader's consultative committee." By avoiding the traditional name—which no doubt will remain in popular use anyway—he was said to feel he would not be tied down to any particular man, especially if the party is returned to power in a new election.

Also dropped from the Tory leadership were Frederick Erroll, former minister of power, and William Deedes, formerly in chareg of the government's information programs.

FAMILY FILES HUGE AIR SUIT

MONTREAL (CP) — A $275,652 suit for damages was filed in Quebec Superior Court Thursday against Air Canada by the family of Howard Frederick Dixon, Montreal, one of the 118 victims of a jetliner crash at nearby St. Therese de Blainville last year.

3 Men Burned In Pipeline Station Fire

CROWS NEST, B.C. (CP) — Three men were burned, one seriously, Thursday in a fire in a compressor station on the Alberta-California natural gas pipeline.

Joseph Pozzi, 40, of Bellevue, Alta., was in serious condition in Michel, B.C., hospital. Norman H. Janzen, 31, of Coleman, Alta., was in good condition, and Searle E. Hornby, 35, also of Coleman, was treated for burns and released.

Cause of the fire was undetermined.

New temporary Family Court facilities will be in old Coldharbor Road juvenile detention home. (Times photo.)

FAMILY COURT A MAKESHIFT

Will It Command Respect?

By MARGE GILROY

There was standing room only at Family Court the other afternoon. And that standing room, for many, was on the lawn outside the crowded Cook Street waiting room.

Next month the Family Court will be moved to the old juvenile detention home on Coldharbor Road. There it is expected that the dozens of juveniles and adults who now wait on the lawn will be able to crowd into a 200 square foot waiting room.

Court will be held in the 13 by 16-foot dining room, with the old built-in buffet and mirror still in the background.

On Wednesday many juveniles were waiting to appear before the law with an air of nonchalance. The crowded Cook Street basement quarters, with the overflow scattered on the lawn, did not give the impression of law and order.

Will the dining room of an old private home command more respect?

SKEPTICAL

Probation officers, clerks and other officials connected with the court view the move to Coldharbor Road with skepticism.

The move to the old detention home is regarded by municipal officials on the family court committee as temporary. But no one knows how long "temporary" will be.

In 1957 the family court was removed from the magistrate's court, and since 1960 it has been located in the basement quarters of the Welfare office. Interviews have been conducted in the corridors, or in the washrooms when privacy was needed. Probation officers have shared offices and clerks have spent the day in windowless rooms.

In the new location probation officers will have offices of their own on the second floor but the judge's chambers have been eliminated to make way for a small detention room off the kitchen.

Cost of renovating the old building, which is the joint property of the municipalities, is $4,800. Estimated cost of a new family court if located on municipal property in the welfare complex on Cook Street is $125,000.

The municipalities would not consent to the expenditure of this money at this time and as a result another temporary court is being set up.

Charles Etchells, who is in charge of the detention home, said rehabilitation for a delinquent should begin the moment a youth is apprehended. He said it is important that the juvenile should be impressed with the law from first contact with it. He hopes someday to see the family court in a new, dignified building.

This year it is estimated 1,300 juveniles will pass through the family court, plus many more adults. Approximately half of the juvenile cases involve traffic offences.

If the provincial government removes the traffic cases from the family court the case load would be drastically reduced, and this is one reason why the municipalities are hesitant to approve construction of a new building.

Another reason for hesitancy is the possibility that Saanich court will be left vacant once the renovated magistrate's court is completed in the city next year.

City manager Dennis Young said the present move is merely an attempt to improve the lot of the family court officials while the other problems are being settled. But no one knows how long that will take.

COLISEUM PLEBISCITE SLATED

Smythe Plan Up to Ratepayer s

VANCOUVER (CP) — City Council has decided to ask ratepayers whether they want to donate land to Stafford Smythe for construction of a downtown coliseum.

Council Thursday voted to have a plebiscite during the December civic election on the offer of Smythe, president of the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs.

Smythe has offered to build an $8,000,000 coliseum only if the city donates the land for it. It is estimated that the site is worth about $3,000,000.

Under the plan proposed by Mayor Bill Rathie the city would pay about $1,300,000. The rest would be paid by the provincial and federal governments.

The plebiscite will ask ratepayers if they favor turning over two blocks of property to Smythe for $1.

Smythe would have to agree to complete a 20,000-seat structure within two years of receiving the land. He would have to post an $8,000,000 performance bond and guarantee to meet all city bylaws.

The plebiscite is expected to be a major issue in the mayoralty campaign.

Mayor Rathie, seeking re-election, supports an affirmative vote.

There is blazing action all the way in this big-scale horse opera, but just what it's all in aid of I'm not quite sure.

We are told that a Confederate major in the American Civil War (Richard Boone), hates all Indians because one of them killed his wife and daughter; so he embarks on a campaign to massacre every Indian who comes his way.

This seems like exterminating all the bees in creation because one of them has stung a favorite relative.

* * *

However, Major Boone is true to his aboriginal feelings and runs riot until he is arrested by a United States cavalry officer (Stuart Whitman). To avoid prison, he agrees to help the officer find the man who sold him the death-dealing rifle.

A bandit (Tony Francoise) accompanies the cavalry expedition which vanquishes Mexican bandits and captures a lovely Indian girl (Wende Wagner).

From the Indian girl he learns that a former Confederate (Edmond O'Brien), has a mad dream of setting up his own empire by trading rifles to the Indians for gold.

The Mexican bandit tries to double-cross the expedition, and the old Confederate kills him.

This violently active, but not very thoughtful film, was produced by David Weisbart and directed by Gordon Douglas from a script by Joseph Landon and Clair Huffaker.

Football star Jim Brown has a leading part in the film and is a decided asset in the action scenes.

Nelsons Never Give Up?

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If Hollywood has a first family, it's got to be the Nelsons, now celebrating 25 years in radio, movies and television.

Ozzie, Harriet, David and Rick and their brood have spent 21 of those years as a family show on radio and television. There's no end in sight.

"As long as David and Rick keep giving us pretty grandchildren," says Oz, "there will always be a Nelson show."

David's wife, actress June Blair, has been a mainstay of the Nelson TV show for several years.

Now Rick's wife, blonde Kristin Harmon, is to become a regular.

"We've got a lot of scripts this year featuring Rick and Kris," says Ozzie. "We'll work the grandchildren, too."

David and June have a son. Rick and Kris have a daughter.

"And, of course," adds Ozzie, "Harriet and I are always available."

The Nelsons are an unusual show business family. No scandals, no divorces, no lurid headlines. And all completely down-to-earth, real people.

In person, they are much as they seem on television—with one exception. Ozzie is no patsy.

If Hollywood has an authentic genius, it's Ozzie.

He is a man who has excelled in everything he ever tried — including the job of being a good father.

'The Chief' Wins Television Award

MONTREAL (UPI) — "The Chief," a 60-minute profile of Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has been named the best television film of the year by the seventh annual Vancouver film festival. The CBC production was entered in competition with TV films from the U.S. and Britain.

Two other CBC films won mention. They were "The Open Grave," which roused a controversy last Easter, and "The Education of Phyllistine" seen in the weekly series known as "The Serial."

U.S. Election Impact on Canada, Topic of Address

Former parliamentary secretary in the Conservative government, Jean Casselman Watts, PC member for Grenville-Dundas, will speak at University of Victoria Tuesday at 12:30 p.m.

Her subject will be the impact on Canada of the U.S. elections next month.

Mrs. Watts is invited by the Political Scence Forum, which this week heard Uvic Prof. Stephen Lesser, of the political science department, on the subject of civil rights in the U.S. south.

Saanich Sets Sewer Survey Cost Limit

Central Saanich Reeve Gordon Lee has written Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell that his municipality is prepared to pay $1,299 but not a suggested $5,197, as its share of a metropolitan sewer survey.

Cost of the proposed survey is estimated at $102,300 to cover the Saanich Peninsula and unorganized area as far west as Langford.

Reeve Lee said the $1,299 amount was based on a 50-50 percentage formula using population and assessment to calculate the share. This is the usual formula used by Greater Victoria intermunicipal committee in dividing joint projects.

However, the reeve added in his letter, Central Saanich would agree to pay part of the difference if the Greater Victoria municipalities agreed to do the same.

Drugs Stolen From Doctor; Man Questioned

City police picked up a man for questioning several hours after a doctor's car was broken open and a quantity of prescription drugs stolen Wednesday night.

Dr. J. R. Flanagan, 1730 Richmond, left his car parked at St. Joseph's Hospital and when he returned at 9 p.m. a window had been forced and his bag, containing instruments and medical supplies, was missing.

At 2:30 a.m. Thursday a clerk at the YMCA reported to police a man who appeared to be showing the effects of a large dose of drugs.

He was taken to the police station and RCMP narcotics detail was called in. Charges are being considered.

254 Ships Lost

LONDON (AP)—Lloyds Register said Thursday the world's merchant navies lost a total of 254 ships totalling 496,805 tons in 1963 in marine accidents. Greece headed the list with a loss of 2 ships, 89,732 tons. Britain lost 16 ships, 32,175 tons.

SPEAKING TONIGHT to Vancouver Island section, Chemical Institute of Canada, will be Dr. W. G. Schneider, director of division of pure chemistry, National Research Council. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. at the University of Victoria. Dr. Schneider holds a MSc degree from University of Saskatchewan and a Ph D from McGill. He has been awarded three scholarships from the NRC and has worked in the U.S. and England.

'Come West' Campaign

$10,000 advertising campaign to bring prairie dwellers to Victoria this winter will be launched in prairie newspapers this weekend.

The advertisements will show picture of Victoria's sunlit Inner Harbor and evergreen parklands over the message:

"Escape from Winter — It's the Mild Season in Victoria.

Victoria's Visitors Bureau launched a membership drive last week to raise funds for the prairie campaign. It had hoped to raise $15,000, but the actual return in $25 memberships and donations produced only $6,208.

This sum is being supplemented with funds from the original membership to raise $10,000 for prairie advertising.

The bureau has also gained 198 new members, raising its total membership to around 350.

'Union Cuts Costs'

MONTREAL (CP) — George Elliot, president of Allied Chemical Canada Limited, said Wednesday Canada must ultimately consider and discuss openly the prospect of economic union with the United States. He was addressing a meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers of Chemical Specialties convention. The president of the U.S.-owned subsidiary said economic union could cut high Canadian costs caused by too large a land area and to small a population.

NDP HALL OFFER REJECTED

Victoria New Democrats have turned down a $23,500 offer for their party headquarters on Courtney Street.

An unnamed firm planned to tear down Woodsworth Hall for a parking lot.

The firm's offer, which had a Nov. 1 deadline, was rejected at an NDP meeting Wednesday night.

The hall was up for sale at a price of $25,000.

The local executive recommended acceptance of the $23,500 offer, but was outvoted.

Light Glare 'Harmful,' Says Expert

Too much glare is just as detrimental to the human eye as too little light, lighting expert Sylvester K. Guth said Wednesday.

Mr. Guth was speaking to a meeting of Vancouver Island branch, Illuminating Engineers Society.

He is manager of the radiant effects laboratory of the General Electric Co., Cleveland, O.

"A good light should be used for close work, but don't use it as a spotlight in a darkened room," he said.

OTHER LIGHTS ON

"Have other lights on so the eye doesn't grow used to bright light then have to face blackness."

For this reason, he says, all room light should be on while watching television.

Decorator color lights are hard on eyes because they don't give as much light as a white light of the same wattage. All bulbs should have glare-preventing shades.

Mr. Guth says a good working light is equal to the light in the shade of a tree on a summer day.

Actress Has Son

DUNCAN — Duncan and North Cowichan have jumped on the band wagon of municipalities discussing amalgamation.

The suggestion that "now might be a good time to look into the question" was made this week by Reeve Donald Morton, of North Cowichan, in an address to Duncan Jaycees.

He declined to make a firm statement "until it has been thoroughly investigated".

Questioned today, Reeve Morton made it clear he isn't pushing amalgamation "at this time".

He said he's not convinced it would be wise right now.

"There are a number of services which should be operated jointly for the benefit of the people in the city and surrounding area."

'PREMATURE'

"But full amalgamation would not necessarily be of advantage to either party.

"I think it is premature."

Duncan Mayor Jack Dobson agreed.

"We in the city have been concentrating on providing services and amenities.

"When the other area gets into line will be time enough to get together regarding amalgamation," he said.

He said there is an unfortunate duplication of services which multiplies the cost to ratepayers.

"I'm not saying amalgamation can't be discussed. We are negotiating in several fields and this is a step in the right direction.

"However, after months of negotiating regarding an extension of city water into the municipality and joint operation of Pioneer Park, we can't seem to reach agreement.

"Amalgamation would certainly not be easy."

BROADER OUTLOOK

Present negotiations with Cowichan Indian band regarding land development south of the city are advancing far more rapidly than those with North Cowichan, said Mayor Dobson.

He added: "I don't want to throw cold water on it, but for successful amalgamation both parties must take a broader look at the issue and forget parochialism."

Discussions are going on over a proposal to merge North Cowichan and the unorganized area of Saltair.

Other places discussing amalgamation include Nanaimo and nine outlying districts, and Courtenay-Comox. Port Alberni and Alberni have already voted to amalgamate in 1967.

Funeral Today For Former Magistrate

NANAIMO (CP) — Funeral services were held today for William Henry Jones, 85, a Boer War veteran who had lived here for 58 years.

Mr. Jones died Wednesday.

He was a member of the Third King's Own Hussars Cavalry Regiment and served with Lord Kitchener in the Sudan and the South African War.

He worked on the spiral tunnels at Field, B.C., before moving to Nanaimo where he was for many years coroner and stipendiary magistrate. He was also magistrate of small debts court here.

He is survived by four sons.

CAMPBELL RIVER

$750,000 In Motels Proposed

CAMPBELL RIVER — Two new motels costing an estimated $750,000 are planned here.

Working drawings have been completed for the motels, providing a total of 82 rooms, at opposite ends of the downtown area.

One set of plans, being studied by Village Council, calls for construction of a $200,000 double-deck 32-unit motel overlooking the Government Wharf. The site formerly housed oil storage tanks.

Plans provide for parking at the front and all units to look out over the parking area to the waterfront. A dining room is included.

Other plans call for a 50-room, three-storey motel to be erected on the Island Highway about one block past the main shopping area.

Costing between $450,000 and $500,000 it will feature an outdoor swimming pool and ramped parking, something new here.

It would have a cocktail lounge, dining room and other facilities as well as a view of Discovery Passage.

Local businessmen behind the projects own both pieces of property and are expected to reach a decision in the next few days whether or not to proceed with the larger of the two motels now, and the other at a later date, or to push ahead with both.

CAMPBELL RIVER — Estimates for the Cortez Island ferry and landings will be included in the next provincial burget, Highways Minister Gaglardi told a delegation from Cortez and Quadra Lslands and Campbell River recently.

The delegation met with Mr. Gaglardi in Victoria and were assured that surveys for the landing approaches at Heriot Bay on Quadra Island and Whaletown on Cortez had been completed and costs compiled.

The new ferry will give the 400 residents of Cortez Island a direct link with Campbell River and the Island for the first time.

4th Floor 'Shell' Definite

DUNCAN—Ken Noton, administrator of King's Daughters' Hospital, said Thursday a $39,000 fourth-floor "shell" for the new Cowichan District Hospital will be built whether or not the provincial government pays its $19,500 share.

The administrator said he discussed the matter recently with Health Minister Eric Martin but got no indication of whether the province will share the cost.

Mr. Noton said the construction division of the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service has almost completed its review of plans for the $3,500,000 building.

He said initial capacity of the hospital will be 125 beds but a further 25 could be added at little cost. After the shell had been fully developed it would house 187 beds.

Crofton Men To Go Hairy

CROFTON—"Mirror, mirror, on the wall, who is fairest of them all?"

The men looking hopefully to the looking glass are the bearded members of the newly-formed Crofton Hotel Beaver Club.

And while they hardly expect the mirror to choose them as world beauties, they hope it will help Vancouver Island's crippled and retarded children have a happy Christmas.

Club members—beards compulsory—place dimes and dollars in a kitty, which is then stuck to the mirror in the hotel beer parlor.

Price of opting out of the club and taking a shave, is $10.

The campaign will end Christmas Eve, by which time the "boys" hope to have raised $1,000.

The cash will be handed over a week or two before to several Island associations.

Nanaimo Indian Trials Held Up

NANAIMO—At least two trials are being held up here by a long awaited decision of the B.C. Supreme Court.

Wilson Bob, Jr., pleaded not guilty Thursday to a charge of being illegally in possession of salmon at Nanoose Creek Oct. 17.

Magistrate Eric Winch adjourned the case until February, in hopes the Supreme Court decision, regarding the aboriginal rights of Indians, will be handed down by then.

Another case pending in Nanaimo is that of Samuel and Emily Bob who face charges of having deer meat out of season.

Juveniles Sentenced For Theft

GANGES — Two Brentwood juveniles were sentenced to indefinite terms at Brannen Lake School recently when they appeared in juvenile court here.

The boys pleaded guilty to theft from homes on Pender and Mayne Islands.

Meanwhile, RCMP are investigating recent reports of break-ins at two summer homes on Galiano Island.

They are also looking into first reports on Salt Spring Island of car thefts.

One was taken from the Cenotaph parking area in Ganges and later found abandoned with minor damages at Fernwood. Owner was Larry Cruikshank, of Ganges.

And Mrs. B. Davis, of Ganges, reported the attempted theft of her car from the ferry parking lot at Long Harbor.

Prices to Rise

TORONTO (CP) — Manufacturers of evaporated milk, whole milk powder and other milk products say they are examining price structures with a view to increasing them. Labor costs, greater use of additives and greater shipping costs are contributing factors in the expected increase.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Small Gains Scored

The stock market scored fractional gains today at Toronto.

Prices climbed higher in Montreal and a New York selective investment demand produced a slightly higher trend.

AT TORONTO among industrials, Alberta Gas Trunk A, CPR and Moore Corp. each rose ½ to 34¼, 52¼ and 56½, while B.C. Telephone added a point to 66½ and Interprovincial Pipe Line ½ to 93 ¼. Levy Industries was ahead ⅝ to 16⅞.

Among smaller winners, Price Brothers, Industrial Acceptance and Imperial Oil each advanced ¼ to 46, 24½ and 56⅛, while Aluminum and Anthes Imperial A each tacked on ⅛ to 32 and 28.

AT MONTREAL speculative mines were lower. Industrials were up. Asbestos gained ¾ and Imperial Tobacco ⅛.

Banks also made slight gains. Nova Scotia added ⅛.

In food and beverage issues Canadian Breweries and Walker-Gooderham both advanced ⅛.

Utilities were fractionally better. Trans-Canada Pipe Lines advanced ¼.

In primary metals Stelco picked up ¼.

Papers were slightly off. Fraser lost ½. MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River advanced ¼.

AT NEW YORK most gains and loses of key stocks were small.

Bethlehem, alone among the top four steelmakers, showed a fractional gain following its profits report. The others were down fractionally.

Pre-election caution combined with the normal pre-weekend dullness.

Among Canadian issues, Canadian Pacific was up ⅞, Granby Mining and Hudson Bay Mining ¼ each.

Distillers Seagrams was down ½, Dome Mines ¼ and Walker Gooderham ⅜.

AT LONDON stock markets ended the week on a quiet note. Incentive was lacking today and there was a general disposition to hold off in advance of the speech from the throne next Tuesday when parliament resumes.

Gilt-edged issues were down at first as a precaution against possible selling but, when this failed to materialize, there was some recovery.

Steels were generally easier while engineering shares were mixed, with Babcock and Wilcox and John Brown showing small gains. Tube Investments and Vickers were among those to ease. British Aluminium was a firm market, and ICI was firm on good chemical sales reports and news of booming nylon sales.

AT VANCOUVER trading was moderate. Bethlehem Copper was up at $8.20, and Copper Soo at .33. Utica was up at $2.16 and Futurity at .44. Torwest dropped to .37, and New Imperial to $1.67.

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most prices moved fractionally on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange in moderately active trade which saw futures spreading involving today's closing of October contracts.

Flax captured much of the action, rallying from slight recessions under the influence of strong Chicago soybean prices.

Foreign Control Outlined

OTTAWA (CP) — Thirteen of the 38 Canadian life insurance companies have already fallen under foreign control, the Commons banking and finance committee was informed Thursday.

With another 13 companies mutualized, that leaves only 12 to be affected by Finance Minister Gordon's proposed legislation setting limits on the sale of company shares of non-residents.

The status of the Canadian life companies was outlined by the superintendent of insurance, Richard Humphreys, as the committee began detailed study of the bill.

TURBINE - DRIVEN BEAVER — A new model of the famed Beaver bush plane has been built by de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Limited. Shown on a trial run in Toronto harbor, it is powered by a Pratt and Whitney turbine engine driving a three-blade reversible pitch propeller. The company says turbine power provides faster cold-weather starts and reduced maintenance in the Canadian north. With a capacity of eight passengers and a pilot or a corresponding freight load, it cruises at 157 miles an hour. The Ontario department of lands and forests and Richfield Oil Corporation are early customers. (CP photo.)

Labor Law Protested

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia maritime industries have protested to the federal government about the new Canada labor standards code introduced in the House of Commons by Labor Minister MacEachen.

Spokesmen for towboat, coastwise shipping, stevedoring and wharf companies said in an interview Thursday that implementation of the code would increase costs by a fantastic amount and could drive many companies out of business.

The act says no man may be employed in specific industries under federal jurisdiction for more than 40 hours a week without a special permit and that he must be paid time and a half for overtime.

Protests sent to the federal government from the Vancouver Merchants Exchange, the Board of Trade, the B.C. Shipping Federation, the Towboat Owners Association and Wharf Operators Association says that the ruling cannot be applied to maritime industries. They also protest that maritime trades were not consulted about the act.

The act would make illegal the present practice in the towboat industry of seamen working six hours on and six hours off for 15 days and then being entitled to 15 days off with pay. The act would make it necessary for towboats to carry extra crews.

THIRD OF ALL PROFITS WENT TO INCOME TAX

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal corporation income tax claimed about 34 cents out of every $1 of business profits reported in the 1962 taxation year.

The figure is drawn from the revenue department's "green book" of corporate tax statistics, published Thursday.

Latest figures show that in 1962 there were 142,859 companies of which 83,919—approximately 59 per cent—were profitable.

These companies reported profits of $4,021,900,000. They declared $1,383,200,000 in income tax.

The 58,940 unprofitable corporations declared losses totalling $692,900,000.

However, these figures include about 7,300 tax-exempt companies as well as some 18,033 corporations classed by the revenue department as inactive—that is, mainly those with a gross revenue before deducting expenses of less than $2,000.

NATO PULLOUT FRENCH PLAN?

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle is considering pulling France not only out of the European Common Market but also out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), the usually well informed afternoon newspaper Le Monde said Thursday.

In an article by its diplomatic correspondent Andre Fontaine, Le Monde said De Gaulle might announce this as a new "diplomatic bombshell" at a news conference in January.

Double Launching At Yarrows

Two champagne bottles smashed across two steel bows Thursday as Yarrows Ltd. launched its return to the towboat construction business.

The tugs christened were La Belle and La Dene, built at a cost of $600,000 for Vancouver Tug Boat Co.

They were the first tugs built by Yarrows since the Kingcome (for Kingcome Towing) in 1952.

Yarrows Ltd. now is actively pursuing this market.

General Manager John Wallace said his firm is just starting construction of a 140-foot deep-sea tow boat worth $1.2 million for Straits Towing of Vancouver.

And the firm has submitted tenders for another Vancouver Tug Boat Co. job for a 120-foot, 3,000 hp tug.

Yarrows recently launched the Straits Logger, largest barge on the west coast, which has a hauling capacity of two million board feet of lumber.

J. R. A. Lindsey, general manager of Vancouver Tug Boat Co., said La Belle and La Dene were the second and third of a series of four sister tugs.

The first has already been delivered and the fourth is under construction in Vancouver.

These all-steel, 65-foot tugs are powered by Caterpillar diesel engines which turn out 750 hp to their single screws.

PLIB Strike Could Bring 'Hot' Lumber

VANCOUVER (UPI) — The British Columbia Federation of Labour has urged six unions to consider what it called the possibility of a "grave strike situation" in the lumber industry.

The International Woodworkers of America, Longshoremen, Pulp and Sulphite Workers, Masters and Mates, Marine Engineers, and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers would be affected if lumber inspectors go on strike against the Pacific Lumber Inspection Bureau. Their dispute is before a conciliation board.

The inspectors seek a strike vote if the board rules in favor of the inspection bureau's demand that it be allowed to lease the lumber grading stamp to lumber operators. The inspectors say this would lower the grade standards for Canadian lumber.

The six unions would declare the stamped lumber "hot" if the strike is called.

Boo, Old Cats!

Laycoe and Co. Coming 'Home'

Portland Buckaroos have picked an appropriate date for their first argument with Victoria Maple Leafs at Memorial Arena.

They'll be here for Halloween, a night when people expect cats to prowl and ghosts to appear from the past.

To many fans at the arena Saturday night it will indeed seem as if the ghosts of bygone Western Hockey League days are cruising the ice. Eight players and coach Hal Laycoe of the Buckaroos formerly toiled for the defunct Victoria Cougars and the old Cats will be trying to perform a few pranks without handing out any treats.

For both clubs, the Saturday battle will be the mid-point in a rugged three-games-in-three-nights schedule.

BIONDA INJURED

Leafs are at Vancouver tonight while the Bucks are at Seattle. The clubs will then tangle here Saturday and at Portland Sunday.

Old Cats returning to Victoria ice will be defencemen Jim "Red Eye" Hay and Jack Bionda, and forwards Larry Leach, Gerry Goyer, Andy Hebenton, Art Jones, Arnie Schmautz and Bill Saunders.

Bionda, however, may not get into action because of a knee injury.

'IRON MAN' MARK

Biggest favorite among the enemy forces as far as city fans are concerned will probably be Hebenton, the Victoria resident who this season ended a nine-year National Hockey League career.

Purchased by New York Rangers from the Cougars in 1955, he played eight years with the Rangers before being drafted by Boston Bruins after the 1962-63 season. He was acquired by Portland last summer.

During his time in the NHL, Andy set an endurance record that may never be broken. In his 21st game as a Bruin, he set a new "iron man" mark by playing in his 581st consecutive game, cracking Johnny Wilson's former record of 580.

TIED FOR LEAD

Completing the season before moving to Portland, Hebenton, who won the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy in 1957, stretched the record to 630 games.

Buckaroos, who go into tonight's game tied for the WHL lead, have been spreading their scoring around and don't have a player in the top eight goal-getters.

Here are the scoring leaders and records of all Victoria players:

FERRY JOINS MAPLE LEAF BANDWAGON

The Black Ball Ferry officials are "routing" for the old home team this weekend by running an extra ferry to Port Angeles Sunday morning for the Victoria Maple Leafs, and anyone else heading that way.

The ferry will leave the Victoria dock at 9 a.m. and arrive at Port Angeles at 10:30 a.m. Regular ferry will leave as usual at 1 p.m.

Maple Leafs will play Portland Buckaroos at Portland Sunday night in a Western Hockey League game.

THE FAIR AND THE FATIGUED

Conditioning is an important asset around badminton courts, as exhausted Charlie Keenan will testify. First-of-season match left him winded and weary, but earned consoling pat from Rosalind Midgely during South Vancouver Island Badminton League action. Bird-belting season shifts into high gear this weekend with Racquet Club's ninth annual invitational tournament. Star-studded field includes entries from Calgary, Seattle and Vancouver. Play starts tonight, continues through Saturday and winds up Sunday with finals at 1 p.m. (Times photo by Strickland.)

Tourney Starts Tonight

Canadian champion Wayne Macdonnell of Vancouver and a flock of other visiting stars will swing into action Saturday in the annual invitational badminton tournament of the Racquet Club of Victoria.

Two doubles matches will get the tourney under way tonight and the shuttlers will be facing a busy schedule Saturday in order to advance play in open events to the semifinals by 7 p.m.

Finals are scheduled at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Berra Ponders Offer To Dress With Mets

NEW YORK (UPI) — Imagine Yogi Berra coming off the bench and hitting a game-winning home run for the New York Mets in the ninth inning.

Don't laugh it could happen.

George Weiss, general manager of the Mets, revealed Thursday he had talked with the unfrocked manager of the Yankees about joining the Mets and will talk to him again.

The Yankees have offered Berra a two-year contract as a special field assistant to GM Ralph Houk. However, Yogi hasn't signed yet, explaining "I'll have to see how I feel being out of uniform."

That's the catch.

Yogi has spent 22 of his 39 years in a Yankee uniform. He wouldn't mind leaving the Yankees, but he's not ready yet to surrender a uniform for a business suit.

"I'll have to wait to see how I would feel being out of uniform," Berra said today before leaving on a golfing vacation. "I imagine it would be kind of hard."

New York baseball fans already are ecstatic over the possibility of Berra being reunited with Casey Stengel, who, like Yogi, was dumped by the Yankees after winning a pennant and losing the World Series.

"Yogi is my assistant manager," Stengel used to say when he was bossman of the Yankees and Berra was setting records as the greatest home run hitting catcher in the majors.

PINCH-HITTER ROLE?

If Berra does sign with the Mets, it will probably be as a coach. Considering his age, it is doubtful if Yogi could contribute much as a player. But this is a thought that Weiss surely is considering.

The Mets could use many things, including a left-handed pinch-hitter like Berra.

During his one year as a Yankee manager last season, Berra went to bat only twice—in an exhibition game against Denver (he struck out), and in an exhibition against the Mets (he hit into a double play).

Tie for Top Spot Chinooks' Target

The highest Victoria Chinooks can climb if they win their second straight game Saturday night is into a tie for first place in the Inter-City Junior Basketball League.

Owning a win in their only start this season, Chinooks intend to extend their perfect record when they tackle Vancouver YMCA at Central Junior High School.

YMCA made sure of holding at least a share of the top spot when Saturday's firing ends by collecting a second successive win Thursday night at Vancouver, tripping UBC Braves 69-58.

FULL-COURT PRESS

Braves pulled into a 11-11 deadlock midway in the first half Thursday, then faded as the "Y" crew applied a full-court press. Six-foot-six centre Howard Knapel paced the winners with a 16-point performance.

Chinooks will have an extra reason for wanting to thump the YMCA squad. It was the "Y" that handed the Victorians their only defeat in league play last season.

Game time Saturday is 8:30, following a preliminary at 7:30 and a parade of youngsters in Halloween costumes at 8:15.

Thursday's scoring:

UBC—George Kennedy 1, Jack Turpin 17, Mike Inman 2, Dave Rice 7, Bob Dugas 8, Ken Kern 7, R. Blumenscheit 5, Allan Quinn 2, Neil Murray 3, Vic Rahn 3, and John Klassen 3. Total 58.

YMCA—Bob Hucul 9, Dick Joyner 11, Howard Knapel 16, Dave Morgan 2, Bob Yorston 14, Rick Myers 10, and Dave Steele 7. Total 69.

MIAMI, Fla.—Gordon Lott, 153, Savannah, Ga., knocked out Dwaine Simpson, 152, Miami, 2.

U.S. SQUAD TO TANGLE WITH CADETS

Royal Roads cadets will test their rugby talent against American visitors Saturday.

They'll tangle with the University of Washington at the Canadian Services College grounds in the first match of a home-and-home series.

Rated one of the top rugby clubs in the U.S. Pacific Northwest, Washington will meet the cadets at 2:30. The Royal Roads grounds will be open to the public.

Bruins Just Go Blankety-Blank

Crozier Scores Third Shutout For Red Wings

By The Canadian Press

There's nothing wrong with Boston Bruins that a few goals wouldn't cure.

But no one on the club appears to have the right medicine.

The Bruins have been impotent around the net so far this season, a factor that has contributed heavily to their seven losses and one tie in eight games.

Entrenched deeply in the National Hockey League cellar, Boston has managed only eight goals in eight contests. The Bruins get enough shots on goal—currently averaging more than 26 a game—but they can't get the puck into the net.

SAME STORY

It was the same story Thursday night as Detroit Red Wings blanked the Bruins 2-0 on Bruce MacGregor's first two goals of the season and rookie Roger Crozier's third shutout in the only NHL game played. The win moved Detroit into a three-way tie for first place with Toronto and Montreal.

Boston had 32 shots at the Detroit net, but Crozier has their number. The young goalie also blanked the Bruins 4-0 last Sunday and has allowed just one goal in his last four games.

Boston's trouble seems to be a major collapse among their corps of veteran forwards. Of their eight goals, four have been scored by newcomers (reg Fleming and Ron Shock) while defenceman Ted Green has one marker and two assists, a team high.

OLIVER'S OUTPUT DOWN

Murray Oliver, the club's top scorer last season with 24 goals and 44 assists, has two points to date on a goal and an assist. Dean Prentice had 23 goals last year, but just one this season and Johnny Bucyk, an 18-goal man, has a single.

Youngsters Orland Kurtenbach and Gary Dornhoefer, who each had 12 last year, have yet to score. The same is true of Ab McDonald and Murray Balfour, expected to accomplish mighty feats after being traded from Chicago.

The Bruins tried hard enough, pumping 15 shots at Crozier in the first period before tiring as the effects of their second game in two nights began to tell. Goalie Ed Johnston stopped 36 Red Wings drives to keep them in the game.

MacGregor struck within a nine-minute span during the second period. He tallied first when the teams were playing five men a side and rubbed salt in the wound by breaking up a Boston power play and scoring while Gordie Howe was in the penalty box.

FIRST PERIOD

Lions Have Their Woes

By The Canadian Press

Player trouble at home and abroad rocked B.C. Lions' camp as the Western Football Conference entered the final weekend of the regular league schedule.

The Lions, who need a tie against last-place Winnipeg Blue Bombers in the last regular-season game Sunday at Vancouver, also have a tough injury problem.

Edmonton Eskimos travel to Regina for a game against third-place Saskatchewan Roughriders and besides a victory, the Riders hope more than 13,000 fans will cram tiny Taylor Field for the game and push the club's 1964 attendance above 130,000.

Riders already have attracted a record 117,207 fans this year, surpassing the previous mark of 111,550 set last year.

While the Eskimo-Riders game has little at stake except several individual marks, the B.C.-Winnipeg game is vital to the final league standings.

The Lions want a victory to clinch first place for the second consecutive season and gain a bye into the WFC's best-of-three final while the Bombers want to snap a record 12-game losing string. Calgary, which has completed its 16-game schedule, holds a one-point edge over second-place B.C.

The Lions' player troubles involve guard Willie Taylor, declared ineligible by commissioner G. Sydney Halter for further play with B.C. this season, and suspended tackle Bill Frank.

Taylor was dressed by mistake Wednesday when the Lions fell 26-14 to Calgary. He replaced injured Tom Hinton.

General manager Herb Capozzi said it was an oversight. The Lions picked Taylor up from Saskatchewan as a free agent after Oct. 15 and players can not be signed by a club after Oct. 15 and used in the same season.

Frank Centre of Three-League Hassle

Frank, a 260-pounder who lost his job for disciplinary reasons, upset B.C. plans to trade him to Dallas Cowboys of the National League by signing with San Diego Chargers of the American League.

The three pro leagues have no trade agreements as such, but honor each other's contracts. Halter and AFL commissioner Joe Foss were reported conferring on the Frank question.

Milt Woodward, AFL assistant commissioner, said Foss had not approved Frank's signing by San Diego, but Foss likely would make a ruling within 24 hours.

There was some question whether the Lions still have a contract binding on Frank as well as whether Frank's contract with San Diego was legal within the realm of the CFL.

Dallas officials would not comment on the San Diego action.

Frank originally was drafted in 1962 for the 1963 season by both the Chargers and the Cowboys but went to Canada instead. However, he remained on the reserve list of both U.S. clubs.

B.C.'s injury problems included Hinton and defensive half Neal Beaumont, who also doubles as the club's punter. Whether either would dress for the game against the Bombers was a question.

Winnipeg has had a 12-day rest since their last game.

Hurd's One Reason Vikings Lead Herd

Ted Hurd has been drawing full marks for his play in goal and that's one very good reason why Victoria University Vikings are flying high, wide and handsome atop the Esquimalt District Hockey League standings.

The portly Viking netminder has been a stickout as the Collegians reeled off victories in their first two starts this season.

Hurd has given up only three goals in the two games and has stopped 40 of the 43 shots hammered at him for a glossy .930 stopping average.

In contrast, Ron Griffis of Pontiac Chiefs, last year's top goalie, has given up eight goals.

Hurd and his Viking mates step out tonight in search of victory No. 3. They'll meet still-winless Queen's Own Rifles in the opening portion of the weekly doubleheader at the Sports Centre.

Chiefs face Navy in the nightcap.

BOXER BOPPED

New System Worked Fine —In the Gym

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Boxer Dwaine Simpson tried something new Thursday night when he lay flat on his back between rounds instead of sitting on the corner stool. It didn't help.

Simpson, 152, of Miami, was knocked out in the second by Gordon Lott, 153, of Savannah, Ga. The fight had been scheduled for 10.

Instead of putting a stool in his corner, Simpson's seconds spread a robe for him to lie on between the first and second rounds.

Simpson said a friend had told him about an article in which a doctor said 30 seconds of lying down had the recuperative power of four minutes sitting up.

"I tried it this week in the gym," Simpson said. "I went seven rounds and stretched out between rounds. It was great."

AVERAGE PLAY: 4.5 SECONDS

Football Violent—For 12 Minutes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—College football, generally considered 60 minutes of wild violence consisting of knocking people about with abandon, isn't quite all concentrated combat.

In fact, the cute chorines who open some television shows probably expend more energy in their four-minute uninterrupted routine than a football team does in an entire game—and they do more kicking, too.

All of which is deduced from the findings of a pair of Associated Press stop-watches which divided last Saturday's Wisconsin-Ohio State game into split-second segments.

Take a look:

Ohio State rushed 66 times, passed 18, punted twice, missed two field goals, booted four extra points and ran three plays nullified by penalties. Wisconsin had 28 rushes, 23 passes, seven punts, a field goal and five plays nullified by penalties. Between them there were seven kickoffs, on which the timing starts when a defender touches the ball.

There were 159 times the ball was put in action by centre snap—95 by Ohio, 64 by Wisconsin. Each play was timed—from the centre snap until the ball was dead.

The game consumed two hours and 15 minutes over-all. Actual playing time was one hour, but the ball was in action only 12 minutes and six seconds—an average of 4.56 seconds a play. Rushes averaged 4.26 seconds, passes 5.60.

The other 122 minutes and 54 seconds were consumed by such things as returning to the huddle, times out, the half-time show by the band, repairing injured players, walking off penalties, incomplete passes and out-of-bounds plays, measurements by the officials, and shifting the ball to the other end of the field after the first and third quarters.

Willard Sander, Ohio State's fullback who carried 23 times for 67 yards and two touchdowns, had his hands on the ball just about a minute as his bursts into the line averaged just over three seconds—including the ball snap and the handoff from the quarterback.

Longest play of the day was the last one when Badger Gary Pinnon intercepted a pass by Nick Yonclas on the goal line and ran it back 37 yards. That manoeuvre consumed 11 seconds.

BOWLER OF WEEK

Winner of an auto in 1961 bowl-a-car tournament, Jack Goldie is this week's Times' Bowler-of-the-Week in men's fivepin category. Another repeater from last year, Jack hit for his 286-209-368—863 series in Men's Commercial League at Gibson's Lanes.

Cardinals Won After Trouble 'Cleared Up'

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—The St. Louis Cardinals became world champions in 1964 because "there was serious internal trouble in the club, and it was cleaned up."

Bushy-browed Branch Rickey, who organized the first baseball farm system, resigned last week as Cardinal senior consultant. His resignation became the last in a string of front-office shake-ups, beginning with the firing of general manager Bing Devine in August.

Propped back in a blue suit, with a blue-and-red striped tie, Rickey tapped a cane on the floor and said Devine was fired "for petty reasons."

"I would not have fired Devine," Cardinal owner August A. Busch, Jr., "issued two statements saying I didn't have anything to do with it, and that's the truth."

Busch "called me into his office when the Cardinals were slumping," he said. "He was unhappy with (John) Keane and had a manager pending. He asked me to recommend a manager, and I said Bob Howsam."

Howsam, an ex-minor league organizer and club owner from Denver, took Devine's place.

The juggling continued with business manager Art Routzong being released. The shocker came when manager Johnny Keane piloted the Cardinals to the world championship and then snubbed a new higher-paying contract.

Rickey said, "You know Keane said he resigned for a lot of little reasons. But some of them were not so little."

Keane went to the Yankees, and coach Red Schoendienst was promoted to Keane's spot.

KEEN ON KEANE

"I'm a Keane man," Rickey said.

Rickey was asked why former Cardinal great Stan Musial had not been considered for the job. "I don't know, I really don't know," he said.

"He's really a pretty well-to-do gentleman," he said. "He never had experience managing, and I doubt if he wants to manage or would manage."

After his talk, a newsman asked Rickey why he resigned as Cardinal consultant. He said, "For the same reason as Keane, because of a lot of little things."

BEST BETTING CITY

Turf Fans Boost Edmonton's Claim

By LORNE BRUCE

EDMONTON (CP)—Flat-racing fanatics in 1964 shored up Edmonton's claim as the best betting city in North America.

Edmonton's betting public poured an average $32,460 into the pari-mutuel machines in each 1964 race, an increase from $30,041 in 1963.

Racing officials claim Edmonton has the highest per capita betting figure for any major track in North America. A major track is one that has a pari-mutuel figure of more than $200,000 daily.

A. J. Anderson, general manager of the Edmonton Exhibition Association, reported that in Edmonton the per capita average bet was $54 compared with just over $51 for Toronto and with less than $30 in Calgary and Winnipeg.

Mr. Anderson is vitally interested because the exhibition associations in Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon and Regina own the Western Canada Racing Association which operates flat-racing in those four cities.

ALL-TIME RECORD

While officials here did not have 1964 figures for United States tracks, informants said figures for previous years supported Edmonton's claim.

Calgary bettors wagered an average of $22,315 in 1964 compared with $20,409 in 1963. Regina had a race average of $19,911 in 1964 compared with $17,894 in 1963 and Saskatoon's figures were $18,243 in 1964 and $16,533 in 1963.

The WCRA reported an all-time betting record for the four cities of $18,444,887 in the 90 racing days in 1964. This compared with $16,937,632 for 90 days in 1963 and the previous high of $17,202,425 for 86 days in 1960.

PURSES HIGHER

The 1964 betting total was $9,508,048 in Edmonton in 37 days. Calgary bet $6,783,543 in 38 days, Regina $1,314,120 in nine days and Saskatoon $839,176 in six days.

Because of the high betting, purses were higher. The WCRA guarantees to the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association that 57½ per cent of the WCRA's nine-per-cent share of pari-mutual betting goes into purses.

A WCRA spokesman said the 1964 purses were the highest ever provided to horsemen. The 1964 bonus was $99,266 added to the $854,256 given previously boosted minimum purses $143 to $1,143. The $99,266 bonus boosted to $322,480 distributed in bonuses in the last seven years.

Cricket Test Ends In Tie

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters)—The five-day cricket test match between Pakistan and Australia ended in a tie Thursday.

Scores were Pakistan 414 and 279 for eight declared. Australia 352 and 227 for two wickets.

Australian Capt. Bobby Simpson scored 115 in the second innings to become the first Australian to hit a century in each innings in a test against Pakistan. He made 153 in the first innings.

Pakistan started the day 248 for seven in its second innings and declared at 279 for eight.

Australia, needing 342 runs in 290 minutes, made a bright start with Simpson and Bill Lawry getting 50 in 41 minutes. But the visitors slowed their pace and finished 115 runs short at the close.

Grass Hockey Tournament On Saturday

Players on Vancouver Island's women's grass hockey teams can be expected to try a little harder Saturday.

They will be watched closely by selectors who will be taking notes on candidates for Possibles and Probables teams to represent the Island.

Ten teams will compete in the club tournament at Lansdowne Junior High school starting at noon.

Besides two teams each from Greyhounds, Mariners and University of Victoria, there will be single teams from Victoria (Grasshoppers), Nanaimo and Cowichan.

Early Counter By Stambridge Beats Oak Bay

Victoria High pulled ahead in the Inter-High Girl's Grass Hockey League race Thursday by defeating Oak Bay 1-0.

Left winger Ann Stambridge squeezed in the game's only goal half-way through the first session. From then on, defences of both teams took over.

It was the first loss of the season for Oak Bay, reigning Maytully Shield holders. Victoria has 11 points and Oak Bay has eight with one game in hand.

In Thursday's other game, Esquimalt blanked Mount Douglas 5-0.

Centre forward Heather Seymour paced Esquimalt with three goals and inners Elba Smith and Karen Green scored one each.

BOOTING BEN STARTING NEW GRID LIFE AT 45?

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Booting Ben Agajanian, a 45-year-old place-kicking specialist, may be activated by the American Football League champion San Diego Chargers, coach Sid Gillman said today.

Gillman had Agajanian work out with the Chargers Thursday and Ben appeared to have lost little of the ability that made him one of the top three-point men in pro football.

Should he join the Chargers, it will be Agajanian's second tour of duty with the club. When the Chargers were located in Los Angeles he played with them in 1960. Agajanian in the past kicked for Los Angeles Rams, Pittsburgh Steelers, Philadelphia Eagles and New York Giants.

UNITED EXPERIMENTS

Grealy Searching For Better Punch

Bert Soutar gets a chance Saturday to hit it off big with Victoria United of the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

Soutar, one-time Scottish professional who was signed by United on a tryout basis two weeks ago, draws a starting assignment Saturday when the Coast League side meets the District League all-stars in an exhibition match at Royal Athletic Park.

"Bert has shown us a very good touch during workouts," coach Frank Grealy said Thursday. "More important, he's got a good shot. He hasn't had an opportunity to play very much, and I want to give him a fair chance.

"He'll start at inside right."

STOTHARD SHUFFLED

Soutar won't be the only one to move as Grealy desperately seeks to instill a scoring punch into the United lineup.

United has scored only three goals in four games.

Taking full advantage of the friendly match, Grealy will experiment by moving George Paul from the half-line to centre forward. The coach also will shift slick Dave Stothard from fullback to the half-line.

Barring the unforseen, Grealy will start this lineup Saturday: goal, Larry DeCosta; fullbacks, Tony Quinn and Len Anderson; halfbacks, Stothard, Ron Jenkin and Bill Hamilton; forwards, Russ Ball, Soutar, Paul, Marty Taylor and Dunc McCaig.

Game time is 2 p.m.

SMOOTH MOULDED HIP LINE
PERMASET CREASE LASTS LIFE OF TROUSER

Contour Cut is a unique method of tailoring developed by Savile Row. When Contour Cut is combined with the amazing workability of pure wool, the result is a ready-made suit that always holds its body shape.
In a Contour Cut suit, the various parts of outer and inner fabrics are temporarily basted and rebasted and then underpressed to form and preserve a permanent silhouette. These careful basting operations unify the various layers of fabrics into one predetermined, Contour Cut shape.
Only then do we begin hand-sewing where flexibility is essential: at the collar, the sleeveheads, and other vital areas. Finally, due to wool's unique character, the shape is in for life to give you "comfort you can feel". And to all this add the elegance of permanently creased trousers. Priced about $79.50 to $125.00 at leading men's stores.

Master Joins Great Ship; St. Roch Captain, 65, Dies

LARSEN
. . . north explorer

VANCOUVER (CP)—St. Roch and Henry Larsen—the great ship and her greatest master—are at rest.

Henry Asbjorn Larsen, 65, retired RCMP superintendent and first master of the vessel that navigated the Northwest Passage twice, died in hospital Thursday.

His last move before illness struck in September was to travel from Nova Scotia to rejoin the ship he loved, now part of a maritime museum here.

"He says he's going to live here permanently," an RCMP friend said then. "I guess he wants to be back with his ship."

He had come to Canada in 1923 after service in the Norwegian navy and a Norwegian shipping line.

JOINS IN 1928

After many years on Arctic trading ships, Henry Larsen joined the RCMP in 1928 and was posted aboard the newly-built St. Roch, an 80-ton motor schooner specially strengthened for northern work.

He became captain of the ship in 1935 and commanded her until 1949, spending a total of 12 winters on patrol in the western Arctic. He commanded St. Roch when she was the first ship ever to make a west-to-east trip through the Northwest Passage.

Supt. Larsen won medals from the Royal Society and the Royal Canadian Geographic Society for a west-to-east passage accomplished in 27 months in 1940-42 and east-to-west passage in 86 days in 1944.

His crossing in 1940-42 was not the first time the Northwest Passage had been navigated—the great Norwegian explorer, Raold Amundsen, did it in 1907.

But the Larsen-St. Roch trip was the first west-to-east crossing ever made and his 86-day return trip was the first passage crossing completed in one year.

SHIP ICED IN

Supt. Larsen told of being iced in at Pasley Bay for 11 months, of times when huge icebergs appeared suddenly and it looked as if the 104-foot schooner would be lifted out of the water.

Supt. Larsen was born in the same Norwegian town as Amundsen, and at 12 went to sea because, as he said, "it was only natural—everybody went to sea where I came from."

And like Amundsen, Henry Larsen had an adventuresome spirit.

He has been reckoned among the world's great navigators for guiding the St. Roch from Vancouver to Sydney, N.S., and back again.

Vancouver archivist Major J. S. Matthews, who finally succeeded in getting the St. Roch settled as a monument in suburban Kitsilano, once ranked the ship with Columbus' Santa Maria and Capt. Vancouver's Discovery.

When he retired at age 60, he was commanding a northern RCMP division he had set up himself. He lived in Lunenberg, N.S., before coming to Vancouver.

Supt. Larsen is survived by his wife, two daughters and a son.

Funeral services will be held here Monday with burial at the RCMP cemetery at Regina.

YUKON RECEPTIVE TO KIERNAN 'PITCH'

WHITEHORSE, Yukon (UPI)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett took another step this week in his plan to merge the Yukon with B.C. when his minister of recreation and conservation, W. K. Kiernan, outlined Bennett's merger proposal to a crowd of about 250 Yukoners at a Whitehorse high school auditorium.

The audience appeared receptive and interested in the minister's two-hour presentation that was accompanied by colored slides.

He came, the minister said, "to offer the same kind of progressive leadership that has developed the province to the south."

$150,000 Suit Faces Tire Firm

CALGARY (CP)—A $150,000 suit against Dunlop Tire of Canada and Woodward's Stores Ltd. was launched Wednesday in Supreme Court by four Calgarians and John Phelps of Colorado Springs, Colo.

The action by Mr. Phelps and Mr. and Mrs. George Schinkel and their two children was for injuries suffered in an accident near Edson, Alta., three years ago.

Mr. Phelps, a former Calgary resident, said he purchased a set of five tires from Woodward's in August, 1961. Later that month he and the Schinkels were on a trip when a tire blew and the car overturned and burst into flames. The fire destroyed the tires. Mr. Phelps said the tires had been used for less than 400 miles.

Mr. Phelps said he suffered a blow to the base of the skull and back injuries as a result of the accident.

. . . FLAG

today on an African tour as part of a Canadian government mission, expressed personal disappointment with the flag design.

NDP SUPPORT

New Democratic Party leader Douglas said Thursday he will support the proposed new flag.

George Muir (PC—Lisgar) asked this morning what the government intended to proceed with in parliament next week. Prime Minister Pearson said this would be presumably decided at the meeting of the party leaders he had called for Monday.

Thursday night Liberal House leader George McIlraith assured Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) that the government was anxious to bring forward the Canada Pension Plan. However, it must give first priority to interim supply. Accordingly interim supply was to be considered today. After interim supply then the pension plan would have top priority.

The new flag proposals have been sucked into a whirlpool of controversy and dissension even before the next round of the six-month old debate begins.

The flag committee report, which gave a 10-4 majority to a single red maple leaf on white wedged in by two wide red borders, hit the Commons table gently in comparison with the related incidents surrounding it.

The biggest surprise, if indeed speculation had allowed surprise at all, was the inclusion of the Union Jack as a commonwealth flag by a count of 8 to 1 with five abstentions among the 15-member committee.

Both the red ensign and Prime Minister Pearson's three maple leaf flag were rejected. Again the Commons was asked to deal with a two-flag proposal. And in final votes for both flags it was Conservative members who either opposed or abstained.

As the document was read by Speaker Alan MacNaughton the Liberals set up a chorus of desk-thumping applause.

Before the report was tabled, Deachman's blow-by-blow account of the committee's activities had been published. The copyrighted article hit the streets before the House even opened.

Bedlam broke loose on the floor of the Commons.

The most composed man of the lot was flag committee chairman Herman Batten (Humber-St. George's), who thought the proposed flag was a "strong design" and felt the committee had done a sincere and conscientious job.

In the committee's 45 meetings in six weeks a concentrated effort had been made to reach a unanimous compromise, Batten said.

BACKS EXPERTS

He upheld other rules experts who have said that should the Commons approve the flag reports — which it probably will after much debate — its approval is final. The government's old resolutions will automatically be scrapped, he said.

This is the point on which Diefenbaker disagrees.

He has said that a majority report of the committee is meaningless and the whole debate should revert to the original flag resolutions and the Conservative amendment calling for a national plebiscite during the next election.

POLL SAYS IT'S LBJ 36 TO 10

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson is leading in 36 states and The District of Columbia with 433 electoral votes and Sen. Barry Goldwater is ahead in 10 states with 71 electoral votes, according to a United Press International survey.

In doubt are four states with 34 electoral votes. These are Indiana, Florida, Vermont and North Dakota.

This outlook for next Tuesday's election is based on statewide polls, interviews with political leaders and the findings of veteran correspondents throughout the nation.

B.C. Can't Go Alone On Medicare—Martin

B.C. cannot afford medicare on its own, Health Minister Eric Martin said Thursday.

He was answering Opposition Leader Robert Strachan's challenge to the provincial government to immediately launch its own health scheme. Mr. Strachan said B.C. can afford it. (See story page 5.)

"No province can afford it on its own," Mr. Martin replied.

"Not even Saskatchewan."

Saskatchewan, first to go alone on medicare, has already increased premiums and is vigorously seeking federal government is to establish a program of medicare based on a cost-sharing agreement with the federal government," Mr. Martin said.

Mr. Martin declined to predict how soon such a plan could be in operation.

"You'd better ask the federal government," he said.

"They have made no definite commitment. There is a great deal to be worked out based on the nature of the agreement to be made."

Mr. Martin said Mr. Strachan's statement was "very interesting."

Mr. Strachan had said B.C. could have a scheme in effect within six months.

Mr. Martin at first said he had no comment on this, but later in a television interview he said it would be possible if the federal government shared the cost.

Piano Rap Hits Responsive Chord

Many top-flight Victoria musicians would gladly give their services towards buying a new concert piano for Victoria, a well-known local singer suggested today.

Mrs. Margaret Abbott concurred with criticism from Times music critic Audrey Johnson of the piano used by Sviatoslav Richter in a Wednesday night concert as "wretched, aging."

Mrs. Abbott quoted the opinion of the internationally-known pianist, Alfred Brendel, who was guest artist with Victoria Symphony Orchestra last March.

He felt the piano had been a good one but time and circumstance had caused deterioration in the wood, steel and felt structural parts beyond rectification.

The piano on which the famous Russian pianist Richter gave a brilliant performance is owned by a downtown department store.

The Steinway is maintained by the store for rental purposes and shuttles forward and backward between its resting place in a warehouse and the Royal Theatre.

225 Quebecers To Be Feted In City Homes

A reception committee at City Hall Thursday decided final details for the three-day visit here by some 225 Quebec mayors and their wives beginning Nov. 14.

They will arrive at Patricia Bay airport on the Saturday afternoon and will be brought to City Hall for a short reception.

The same evening, the Greater Victoria municipalities will tender them a civic banquet. Sunday the party will attend mass at St. Andrew's Cathedral in the morning and will be entertained in the afternoon at a reception by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes in Government House.

Sunday evening the party will be spread around a large number of private homes for more contact with Victorians.

Monday the French-Canadian mayors will hold a business session of their Quebec Union of Municipalities.

They will be hosts at a luncheon which will be addressed by John Fisher, chairman of the 1967 Centennial Committee. That evening they will be entertained at a dinner by the provincial government.

The following day, the party will tour the Parliament Buildings before leaving. On their way home, they will be given a civic reception in Vancouver.

CONCILIATION NEXT

Teachers Reject Final Board Offer

Negotiation between Greater Victoria teachers and school trustees for a 1965 salary agreement collapsed Thursday night and will go into conciliation next week.

The sides were unable to compromise between a Greater Victoria Teachers' Association request for salary increases ranging between 5 and 8 per cent and a board offer of between 2.6 and 4 per cent.

School board chairman Mrs. A. B. Thompson and GVTA negotiations chairman Norman Preston both expressed regret that discussion failed to reach common ground.

Trustees Tuesday night made a 3 per cent across the board offer, which was rejected by teachers.

Teachers then came down to 6.7 per cent on original asking of 9.41 per cent average increase.

This was taken back for examination by trustees who then made a revised offer of 2.6 to 4 per cent or 3.1 per cent average to make increases more uniform on the scale.

Mr. Preston said after a caucus of teacher representatives Thursday that no time was needed to reject this offer.

"What took time was trying to fathom your purpose in making such an offer," he told the trustee representatives.

He told board finance and salary chairman John Porteous, and bargaining agent Frank Reder, that University of Victoria mathematics professor H. Paul Smith would be teachers' conciliator.

Referring to teachers' reference to salaries in comparable areas, Mr. Porteous said, "We are not interested in what is happening in Rhode Island, Miami, Regina or Calgary."

"Well, we are, the teachers are," Mr. Preston replied.

It had been pointed out, said Mr. Porteous, that a principal of Central Junior Secondary School, a woman, earns $5,000 a year more than the provincial director of social welfare and $6,000 more than Royal Jubilee Hospital superintendent of nurses.

Mr. Preston replied such a comparison only points to low pay for the other occupations.

He accused the board of showing "two faces to the public," telling them on the one side that to the average taxpayer with $15,000 home, education costs 30 cents an hour for two children in school.

On the other side the board cries it will cost $600,000 for teacher salaries, or 1.5 mills, when teachers ask for a "reasonable settlement."

It would have meant a starting floor of $3,100 for minimum qualifications and a maximum of $9,330 for top professional classification.

At a press conference later, teachers accused the board of not bargaining in good faith.

"It is obvious they are forcing us into arbitration," said Mr. Preston. "It is a dereliction of responsibility to taxpayers."

School board members had been absent for most of the meetings and the teachers said the board cannot make a decision when it is not hearing evidence.

In a statement, the teachers said the greatest disservice they could do was accept the board's offer. This would be "disastrous" to teacher recruitment and quality of education.

Meeting Proposed By UN Committee

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The UN special committee on colonialism proposed Tuesday night talks with the new British government on the "gravity of the situation" in Rhodesia.

The committee acted in response to fears voiced by the 32-nation African group that Rhodesia's white regime is on the verge of declaring independence.

The orangutan now is almost extinct with less than 5,000 surviving in the jungles of Sarawak, Sumatra and North Borneo.

VICTORIA, B.C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1964—PAGE 19

CPR WON'T RENEW CRYSTAL GARDEN LEASE AT YEAR-END

City to Take Over Swim Pool; New Recreation Plan Proposed

By JOHN MIKA

Victoria city will take over the $600,000 Crystal Garden Jan. 1.

City council today was informed that the Canadian Pacific Railway will not renew its lease on the city-owned 2.10-acre property when it expires Dec. 31.

Under terms of the agreement this means the building—erected by the CPR at a cost of $200,000 and now conservatively evaluated at $425,000—automatically reverts to the city. Land values bring the figure up to $600,000.

The building contains a swimming pool, two large ballrooms, a mezzanine tearoom, wax museum, Turkish baths, kitchens and offices.

Although city council could try to lease the swimming pool to some other interests, it is expected to incorporate it into its own recreational program and operate it as a civic enterprise.

CHAIN REACTION

The takeover is expected to have a chain reaction that will result in city council completely reorganizing its recreational administration.

A plan has been suggested under which a standing committee of aldermen—similar to the works, parks and finance committees—would be set up to oversee all recreational activities. This would supplant the Memorial Arena Commission.

Arena manager Jack Morgan likely would become a department head within the city administration to operate the arena, swimming pool and possibly other facilities.

SALT WATER ONLY!

The change-over likely will result in one tangible difference for swimmers—Mayor R. B. Wilson is known to be very keenly interested in seeing that salt water is used again in the pool. It was replaced with fresh water by the CPR in 1955.

The Crystal Garden was built on city land by the CPR in 1925 with the company paying a token $1 fee annually and being exempt from taxation.

The first 20-year lease was re-negotiated in 1944. R. A. Mackie, manager of the CPR hotels, wrote the official letter announcing a third lease would not be sought.

"This is to confirm that Canadian Pacific does not wish to renew the lease on the Crystal Garden property which expires on Dec. 31, 1964," he said.

"We, of course, recognize that by not renewing the lease, the Crystal Garden building will become the property of the City of Victoria.

'LITTLE VALUE'

"As I explained (in an interview Oct. 23 with Mayor Wilson) the Crystal Garden is now of little value to the Empress Hotel and its main purpose seems to be to provide a recreational facility for the citizens of Victoria."

Mr. Mackie said the CPR would co-operate fully with the takeover and would release staff now working in the Crystal Garden that the city might wish to employ. He also offered to sell the furnishings and equipment at depreciated values.

Presumably, city council will try to renew sub-leasing arrangements with the London Wax Museum, Turkish Baths and catering services which helped pay the pool's expenses.

$30,000 PROFIT

A detailed profit and loss statement supplied by Mr. Mackie showed that in the past four years the CPR netted a total of almost $30,000 profit but it was unevenly distributed.

The Crystal Garden lost $2,5[illegible] in 1960, made profits of $1[illegible],079 and $23,036 in 1961 and 1962 respectively, and lost $4,727 last year.

The decision to let the Crystal Garden go could be a hint of drastic changes impending for the Empress Hotel, but City Hall sources indicated they did not think the CPR would drop the hotel, although major renovations might be undertaken.

MEETING HERE NOV. 9

The CPR board of directors is scheduled to hold its first meeting, as a board, in Victoria Nov. 9, and there is a possibility that it may announce changes for the hotel then.

(Some sort of changes have been expected ever since Leslie Parkinson, a trouble-shooter for the CPR chain, was posted here to manage the Empress.)

Takeover of the Crystal will satisfy one of the longest-sought pet projects of several aldermen—a civic swimming pool, preferably using salt water.

Previous proposals have included expropriating the Crystal Garden, building an entirely new indoor pool or creating an outdoor pool by laying a breakwater across either Gonzales Bay or Horseshoe Bay at the foot of Beacon Hill.

ALL-INCLUSIVE

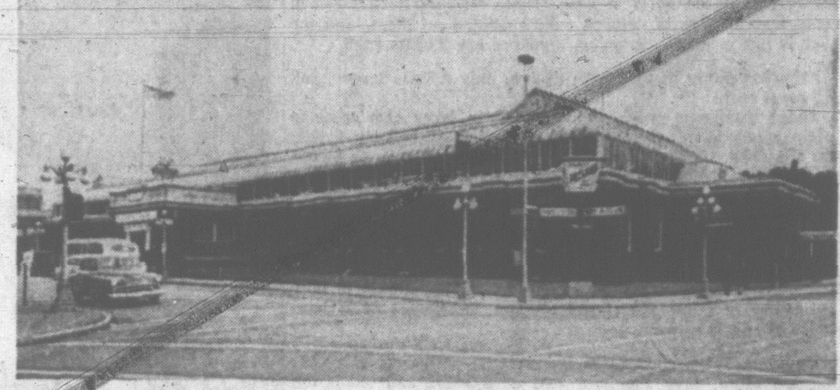
If council decides to abolish the arena commission and set up a standing recreation committee, it likely will amalgamate all recreational activities, physical and cultural, under the committee including:

All sports activities now supervised by the parks department, the arena, swimming pool, McPherson Playhouse, senior citizens' activity centre, possibly public library and others.

Such co-ordination of the whole broad field of recreation likely would enable the committee to obtain existing provincial grants to help defray salaries of recreational supervisors which have gone begging so far.

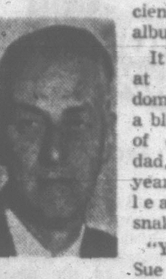
The CPR decision was not entirely unexpected because negotiations towards renewal of the lease have gone slowly and fitfully for more than a year.

Earlier, the CPR relinquished control of part of the grounds so that the city could keep a lawn bowling green operating and also landscape a corner to serve as park rather than let the CPR kill the bowling green.



Always a community asset, Crystal Garden is due to become a civic operation next year.

Arthur Mayse



One Sunday afternoon not long ago, all four of us happened by some miracle to be home at the same time. This pleased me. It inspired a feeling of family solidarity. The roast was in the oven, potatoes and carrots browning around it, and here we were, relaxed under our own roof, with a doggone good dinner in prospect.

Presently Susan, who hopes to be an archaeologist when she finishes growing up, came over with one of our more ancient snapshot albums.

It was open at a page dominated by a blurry photo of dear old dad, about 19 years old, and lean as a snake.

"You know," Sue observed thoughtfully, "you had quite a good figure in those days."

"Men," Ron said in the superior tone of first year university correcting Grade 12, "don't have figures. Anyway, people thicken in the middle when they get old."

"Middle-aged," I substituted. "You see that fish I'm holding. It weighed 38 pounds three ounces . . ."

"How much did you weigh, Pops?" Sue asked.

"Don't call me that!" I told her, automatically. "I weighed 140 pounds, soaking wet, in a Cowichan sweater. I stayed skinny as a rat until your mother married me."

★ ★ ★

Ron joined us on the sofa. He studied the picture, deadpan. Then he looked me up, down and crossways. He didn't speak, but apparently a message was conveyed, because he and his sister began to cackle like idiots.

Win put her book aside and went out to inspect the roast.

"How long till dinner?" I asked when she came back.

"Not long," she said. And to the children, "When we were first married, Daddy had the appetite of a bird."

This touched off another display of moronic mirth.

"Don't pay any attention to them," Win said soothingly to me. "They're just being silly. I wouldn't want you looking half starved." She reflected a moment, then said, "On the other hand, you do seem to have plumped out a little. What do you weigh now?"

I subtracted five, and told her, "Hundred and eighty."

Win said to our young, "Let me see that picture."

★ ★ ★

Ron and Sue perched each on an arm of her chair. Studying the album, they made a charming group. An appetizing scent drifted in from the kitchen, and I leaned back in solid contentment, letting my thoughts stray to years that the locust has eaten.

That's how our kids used to sit—naive little creatures content with their old man as he was—while Win read them a story.

"Yes," Win said presently. "I see. Perhaps you have a point." She closed the album with a brisk snap, and got up to lay out our dinner.

I said grace, a custom we observe on Sundays. Then I looked down at my plate. On it was a slice of roast beef the size of an oak leaf, one nicely-browned potato of the smaller sort, a nub of cauliflower and a runt carrot.

Everyone else had two or three potatoes, generous servings of carrots and cauliflower, and three meat slices.

"Hey," I protested. "What is this? I'm not on a diet!"

Sue and Ron grinned like monkeys. Win smiled.

"Of course not," she said. "We just decided you could do with a few vitamins less."

Ron got a second helping approximately the size of his first. I didn't.

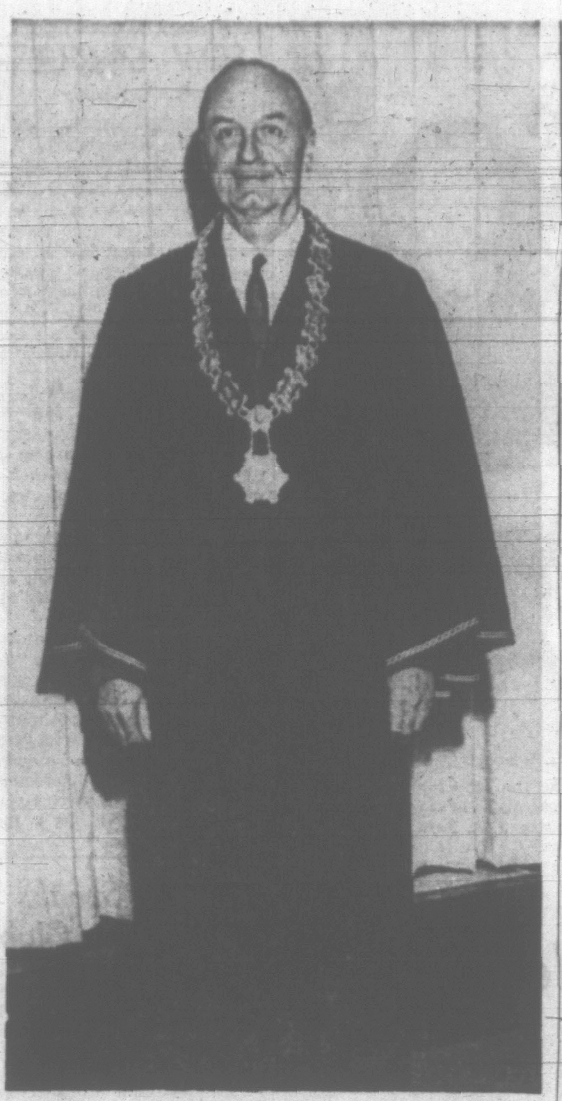
"And I think," Win said, "that tonight we'll take our coffee black."

★ ★ ★

That was three Sundays back. Soon I'll go home to one midget chop with the fat trimmed off, half a baked potato, and probably a wad of spinach.

What my dear ones can't seem to understand is that I haven't a thing in common with the skinny kid in the picture. He and I parted company a long time past, and I wouldn't be him again for anything you can name, not even a heaping basket of pork chops with the fat left on.

That's why as I write this, I'm munching on a large, nutty chocolate bar that fairly oozes vitamins. And when it's gone, I may just rack myself up another!



MAYORAL ROBE of black silk with gold and scarlet trim—the city's official colors—will be worn formally for the first time by Mayor R. B. Wilson Wednesday at the opening ceremonies for the new City Hall. City council decided some time ago to make the robe the mayor's ceremonial dress, adding to the gold chain of office adopted during ex-Mayor Percy Scurrah's tenure. (Strickland photo.)

Doctor Charges Gov't Coercion On City Hospital

By FRANK RUTTER

A Victoria doctor today accused Health Minister Eric Martin of "disgraceful" attempts to exert political pressure on Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Dr. G. Scott Wallace made the charge in a speech to the Lions Club.

Dr. Wallace said Mr. Martin's attempts followed statements about a large number of vacant beds at the hospital.

The result, said Dr. Wallace, was that the hospital board published "pathetic" advertisements in local newspapers.

His charges brought an immediate denial from Joseph Casey, chairman of the board.

"I don't know where political pressure has been put," Mr. Casey said.

NO 'PRESSURE'

"I have never had anyone attempt to put political pressure on me."

Dr. D. M. Whitley, the chief of medical staff at Jubilee, told the Times Thursday that doctors are concerned about beds which have been unused for a year.

Said Dr. Wallace:

"Disclosure by an individual doctor of facts about the bed shortage at Royal Jubilee Hospital, facts unfavorable to the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service, immediately led to blatant and disgraceful attempts by Eric Martin, minister of health, to exert political pressure on the hospital and certain members of the staff."

Dr. Wallace said later he was not at liberty to disclose any details.

However, he told the Lions: "The fear of political reprisal in the form of hatchet work on the hospital's budget led the hospital board to the pathetic extreme in attempting to placate Mr. Martin of inserting expensive display advertisements for several days in the local newspapers, assuring the public that although the beds stand unusued, lack of government money was in no way a reason.

"Certainly there is a shortage of nurses, but even if we had all the nurses we need the beds would remain unused since government, from its customary maze of cold but inhuman statistics, has refused to finance the operating costs of any more beds than are now in use."

IMPROVEMENT PROMISED

However, some improvement was promised at a meeting of the hospital board Thursday night.

Mr. Casey said another ward will be opened "in the near future."

Dr. Whitley said he was pleased at this result of recent publicity.

Dr. Wallace was speaking to the Lions on the Hall royal commission report on medical care.

He said all doctors support the bulk of the report in its case for better medical services.

But he does not agree that the government should be given the complete control of financing.

The result: Situations like the one at Jubilee.

"This is the deadly form of political pressure I refer to when politicians hold the purse strings and if it can happen to the hospital, it can happen to the individual patient and the individual doctor," he said.

Student Accepted For Ministry

John Alian Speer, 19-year-old first-year student at the University of Victoria, will be accepted as a candidate for the United Church ministry Sunday.

He will be received by Rev. E. Laura Butler, chairman of the Victoria Presbytery, at a special service in Gordon Head United Church, Torquay Drive, at 3 p.m.

Mr. Speer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Bruce Speer, 2065 Paul's Terrace, Gordon Head. He will take his theological training at Union College, Vancouver.

44,000 Increase In Union Members

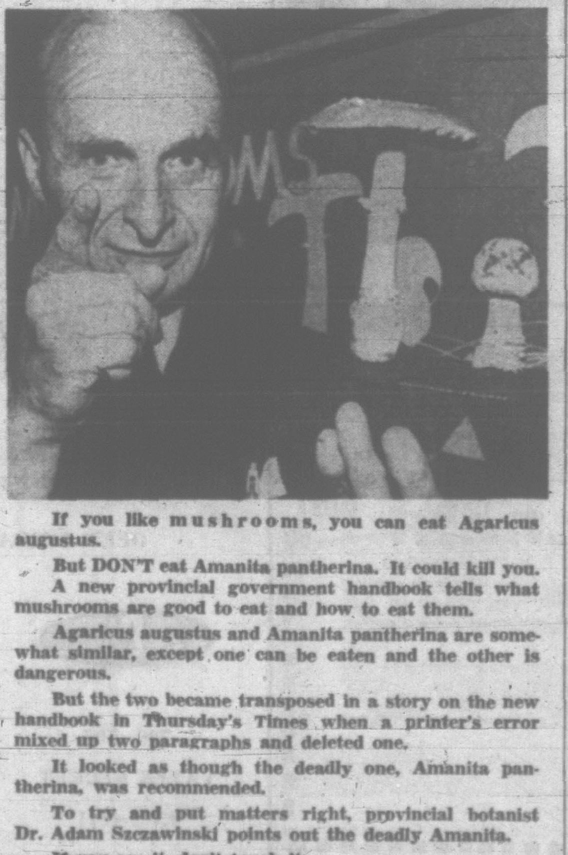
Trade union membership is edging upward, figures from the federal labor department show.

At the beginning of 1964, active membership numbered 1,493,000, up 44,000 on the previous year.

The figure represented 29.4 per cent of the non-agricultural paid workers.

The survey showed 74 per cent of union members were represented by unions affiliated with the Canadian Labour Congress, an increase of 26,100.

IF YOU SEE IT DON'T TOUCH!



If you like mushrooms, you can eat Agaricus augustus.

But DON'T eat Amanita pantherina. It could kill you.

A new provincial government handbook tells what mushrooms are good to eat and how to eat them.

Agaricus augustus and Amanita pantherina are somewhat similar, except one can be eaten and the other is dangerous.

But the two became transposed in a story on the new handbook in Thursday's Times when a printer's error mixed up two paragraphs and deleted one.

It looked as though the deadly one, Amanita pantherina, was recommended.

To try and put matters right, provincial botanist Dr. Adam Szczawinski points out the deadly Amanita.

If you see it, don't touch it.

'NO QUOTA —NO END' TO APPEAL

Extension of the United Appeal campaign in Victoria, "until the job is finished," was announced today by deputy campaign chairman, Graham E. McCall.

The drive to raise $410,000 for 24 local agencies was originally scheduled to end Saturday.

As of noon today the campaign total stood at $293,551 or 71.6 per cent of the objective.

Mr. McCall said: "We can't stop until the job is finished. There is still a lot of money waiting to be collected and I urge all canvassers to complete their calls as soon as possible and report results to campaign headquarters, 1951 Cook Street."

And for many more Halloween will be celebrated tonight. A hootenanny will be held in Claremont Senior Secondary School starting at 8:15, and a hard-times party will start at 8 in First United Church. At Metropolitan United Church the Merry-Mates will start their fun at 8.

Saturday afternoon a group of Oak Bay children will hold a party in the Oak Bay High School Scout Hall from 2 to 5 p.m. for youngsters affected by cerebral palsy. The school club, which supports the cerebral palsy clinic, each year holds a Halloween party.

RCMP SHOCKER

Bonner Plans To Protest 'Profoundly'

The federal government wants B.C. to double its payment for police protection and Attorney-General Robert Bonner is hopping mad.

Mr. Bonner said today he had been notified that Ottawa wants to increase the cost of providing RCMP services from $2 million to $4 million a year.

He said he will make "a profound protest" when he meets Justice Minister Guy Favreau in Ottawa next Monday.

All provinces will be represented at the meeting.

Mr. Bonner said the extra cost would not mean increased services.

He declined to say what B.C. will do if Ottawa holds firm.

Mr. Favreau already has told all the provinces that RCMP contracts will terminate next May.

Chamber Chief Back to Winnipeg

John Coppinger, manager of Victoria Chamber of Commerce for the last six years, is resigning.

His resignation was accepted by the chamber's executive committee this morning with "a great deal of regret," said president David Lawson.

"He has done a very good job here and we wish him every success," he said.

The resignation is effective Nov. 30 and Mr. Coppinger, 41, will leave shortly after that to become assistant manager of the Winnipeg Chamber of Commerce.

BACK HOME

He was an assistant secretary of the chamber for three years before coming to Victoria in September, 1958.

It will also be a return to his hometown. Born and educated in Winnipeg, he graduated from the University of Manitoba with a bachelor of commerce degree.

In his letter of resignation, he said the new position offered greater opportunity for personal development and more scope for advancement.

He was sorry to leave Victoria, which he described as one of the best cities in the country in which to live.

Mr. Coppinger, married with two children, was chosen from 100 applicants for the Victoria post to succeed Arnold Webb.

Ask The Times

Q — Does the motor-vehicle branch give out names and addresses to automobile firms, and if so why? R.L.

A—Unlike most other provinces, the B.C. branch provides a service by which a potential car buyer can trace a vehicle's previous owners, and holders of liens and encumbrances, if any. The fee is 25 cents.

Dealers and individuals also can obtain a daily list of new registrations and transfers. Finally, there is a "general list" compiled by a private concern which charges for the service.

Q—Could you please give me the name and address of the United Nations' office in Toronto? A.M.W.

A — The national office for the United Nations in Canada is located at 329 Bloor West, Toronto, Ont.

Here Are Some Tricks For Treat 'Haunters'

By PENNY SAVER

Penny awoke with a terrible shock this morning. She hadn't prepared for the onslaught of weird and wonderful creatures who will storm her doors with the "haunting" cry of "trick or treat" tomorrow night. And recently, several frantic ladies have phoned who are in the same predicament, including one who wants different candy ideas for a party she is having. Armed with good intentions, Penny went shopping for treats for "trick or treaters" and for parties.

Party-wise, Penny found a wide range of Czechoslavakian suckers which, with a little imagination, can be used to make a decorative centre-piece for a Halloween dinner or for favors for a party. Take a sterofoam ball and stick the ends of the suckers into it for party favors. These suckers have faces of clowns and witches of colored candy printed on them, and the flavor is like a sweet meringue. Suckers are 2 cents each.

French suckers in the same design, only a little larger, sell for 6 cents each.

These European sweets with Halloween faces also come in a plain candy form. Cut and hollow a pumpkin and cut a face from the shell. Stuff it with candies for party favors or to use at your door for "trick or treaters". Candies cost 69 cents a pound.

Orange and black candy sticks or suckers make a wonderful centre-piece when stuck in a Halloween cake. Both sell for 5 cents each.

A good idea for a mother who wants to buy treats in bulk is packages of miniature chocolate bars. Packages of 36 bars sell for 49 and 59 cents.

If you're not prepared for the massed gathering of ghouls tomorrow night, give Penny a call at 382-3131 and she'll tell you where to shop.

When Walking Do You Sound Like a Crowd?

(THE QUESTION BOX)

Lowman

Q. I weigh only 125 pounds, but if you could listen to me when I walk you would think I weighed four times that much. My sister is slimmer than I am and she walks the same way. How can we correct this?

A. Is your weight over your heels or do you throw it ahead of you? Try to centre it in the middle of your arches, if anything a little forward. Do not have your body weight over your heels. This is one thing to remember.

What about this? Do you throw your weight from side to side by stepping slightly to the side. This makes one waddle like a duck. When you walk place one foot in front of the other as though you were walking a straight line. Swing your legs forward from the hips.

Your knees should not be bent but they should be relaxed. The long-known habit of walking with a book on your head is still a good one. If it doesn't topple off, you are walking with a smooth gait.

Q. I have some moles on my face which look terrible. How can I remove them? Friends have told me about some remedies but I don't know whether or not I should follow their advice. What is your advice?

A. Not to follow their advice. You should not try to remove moles. See a skin specialist. These can be removed easily, but it should be done by an expert.

Q. Is there an exercise which is slimming to the abdomen and also corrective to constipation? They are my two problems.

A. Do this exercise. Lie on the floor on your back, arms slightly away from your sides. Bend both knees up close to your stomach. Make large circles with your knees. Straighten your legs as you swing across the centre of your body.

Q. My skin is dry and my brows and lashes are very dry. What treatment can I give them?

A. Use cold cream or petroleum jelly on the lashes and brows. Many women use a light coating of petroleum jelly on the brows to keep them in line and give them sheen. Use an eyebrow brush afterwards to sweep the hairs into line.

Q. Is it safe to exercise while nursing a baby or should I wait until the baby is weaned?

A. Unless there is some special condition there is no reason for not exercising while nursing a baby. Just be sure to avoid fatigue. Use good judgment. You should feel refreshed rather than tired after exercise. Otherwise you are doing too much.

Educators Attend Mainland Meet

Mrs. Roberta Emery of the Goosey Gander kindergarten, Miss Mary Saich, primary consultant in Victoria schools, and Mrs. Marion Lineham, a teacher at Macaulay School, will travel to Vancouver this weekend to attend the third British Columbia conference of the Association for Childhood Education. Miss Saich and Mrs. Emery will act as discussion leader and resource person. Mrs. Lineham will assist Dr. Vera MacKay with the primary program.

MISS JOY PHILLIPS

Round of Parties Held for Bride-Elect

The Pinewood Avenue home of Mrs. P. C. Henze and her daughter, Joan, was decorated in a nautical theme recently when they entertained at a shower in honor of Miss Joy Phillips.

A corsage of yellow chrysanthemums was presented to the guest of honor and bronze chrysanthemums to her mother, Mrs. J. Phillips.

Invited guests included Mrs. C. Coleman, Mrs. M. C. Johnson, Mrs. G. A. McMillan, Mrs. W. Nygaard, Mrs. L. Pastro, Mrs. D. Thompson, Mrs. J. A. Henry, Mrs. D. Jacobson, the Misses Margaret Ashford, Diana Martin, Pam McMillan, Carol and Ida Young and Grace Henze.

Gifts were contained in a decorated suitcase when the bride-elect was feted at a surprise shower given by Mrs. H. Sherman. Ribbon corsages were presented to the guest of honor and her mother.

Guests included Mrs. H. Connor, Mrs. K. Cotton, Mrs. S. Fox, Mrs. C. Jorgenson, Mrs. J. B. McCance, Mrs. D. Martin, Mrs. D. Newhook, Mrs. H. Sherman, Mrs. I. Young, Mrs. R. Zeitz, Mrs. L. Chamberlain, Mrs. E. Charles, Mrs. C. Dalsin, Mrs. M. P. Grant, Mrs. G. Willner, the Misses Sandra Jorgenson, Carol Kirkendale, Doneen Martin, and Carol and Ida Young.

The Bank Street home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. McCance was scene of another surprise shower.

The honor guest received a ribbon corsage made by Mrs. H. Neff. Gifts were contained in a decorated umbrella. A shower cake representing a bride centred the refreshment table.

Those attending included the bride-elect's parents and brother, Mr. and Mrs. J. Phillips and John; Mr. and Mrs. G. Giddings, Mrs. M. MacPhail, Mr. and Mrs. H. Neff and Linda and Mr. and Mrs. F. Perraton of Duncan.

Mrs. F. Waters and her daughter, Mrs. C. Andrews, were co-hostesses at a shower held in the Irma Street home of the former.

Chrysanthemums en corsage were presented to Miss Phillips and her mother. Gifts were contained in a wishing well. A miniature wedding cake centred the refreshment table.

Invited guests included Mrs. E. Defty, Mrs. L. Henrickson, Mrs. J. McCance, Mrs. J. McGowan, Mrs. E. Newbigging, Mrs. T. Scarff, Mrs. H. Sherman, Mrs. G. Willner, Mrs. R. Davis, Mrs. L. Yule, the Misses Colleen Henrickson and Edith Scarff

TODAY'S RECIPE

RAISIN-APPLE PIE

One cup sugar, 1½ cups hot water, 15-oz. pkg. seeded raisins (2 cups, packed), ½ cup cold water, ¼ cup flour, pinch of salt, 3 cups coarsely-grated peeled apples, 1 tbsp. vanilla, pastry for 2-crust 9-inch pie, 1½ tbsp. butter.

Put sugar in large heavy skillet. Set over moderate heat and cook, stirring constantly, until caramelized and well browned. Remove from heat. Add hot water slowly, stirring constantly. Return to heat and cook and stir until smooth and blended.

Put raisins in bowl and pour hot caramel syrup over them. Let stand several hours or overnight. Put raisin mixture in saucepan, set over high heat and bring to a boil. Turn down heat, cover and simmer five minutes.

Measure cold water into a jar with a tight lid. Add flour and salt and screw on lid. Shake together until smooth and blended. Add to hot raisin mixture gradually. Cook over moderate heat until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Cool to lukewarm. Stir in apples and vanilla.

Heat oven to 425 degrees. Line pie pan with half of pastry. Pour in raisin-apple mixture. Dot with butter. Roll out remaining pastry and lay on top of pie, folding top crust under lower crust and fluting edge well to keep juices in.

Wrap a double thickness of foil around edge of pie to keep fluting from getting too brown. Bake about 45 minutes or until apples are tender and crust is well browned. Serve cold or slightly warm.

BE SMART—

One of the most attractive fashion looks is the coupling of opposite fabrics. A case in point: a marvelous white satin blouson top goes with a beige tweed skirt and stole, and with a white satin side-wrapped slim skirt as well.

Sew Jackets Resembling Expensive Ready-Mades

How would you like to make outdoor jackets for your teenage girls for less than $2—the ready-made ones like it cost about $25? Gather together scraps of wool left over from almost anything. The colors, prints, checks and plaids aren't important. I have seen the most unbelievable combinations!

Cut the wool scraps into pieces about 4 inches square and join together in a long strip, enough to go from shoulder to hem of jacket. Then, piece strips together until you have the correct width. The jackets are hip length, with a long front zipper closing and an attached hood. Make yours reversible by lining it with a water-repellent twill cotton.

Sounds wild doesn't it, but my 17-year-old thought it was the greatest. You might even surprise your girls and make them for Christmas presents. It would be fun to get together with your friends and have sort of a quilting bee! See what interesting colors and types of weaves you can combine. The sky's the limit!

Couple Will Live in Victoria After Trip to Salt Lake City

Following a honeymoon motoring trip to Salt Lake City, Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Burgess will make their home at 728 Middleton Street.

Rev. C. Scott heard the vows exchanged between Shirley Kathleen McFarlan, daughter of James W. McFarlan, Courtenay, and the son of George A. Burgess, 2377 Central Ave., Victoria.

White and bronze chrysanthemums decorated St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church for the ceremony. Organist was C. C. Warren.

WHITE BROCADE

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white rose-embroidered brocade that was fashioned with a fitted bodice, lily point sleeves and a belled skirt. Her illusion veil misted to shoulder length from a lace headpiece. Only jewelry was an Alexandria pendant, gift of the groom, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses. She entered the church on the arm of her father.

Identical street-length bell-skirted gowns of green crystal charm were choice of matron of honor, Mrs. P. Burgess, Nanaimo, and bridesmatron, Mrs. R. Berg, Vancouver.

COLONIAL BOUQUETS

They complemented their gowns with matching loose-fitting jackets and headpieces en tone. White chrysanthemums with bronze ribbons formed their colonial bouquets.

Best man was Gordon Scott and guests were ushered to their pews by Const. C. McFarlan, RCMP, and C. A. Burgess, brothers of the principals.

At a reception that followed in the kirk hall, the bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake made by her cousin, Mrs. R. Wood, and decorated by her aunt, Mrs. E. Millard, both of Denman Island. Small crystal vases of chrysanthemums completed the decorations.

F. L. Mitchell proposed the toast to his niece.

The bride's going-away outfit was an apricot silk shantung, two-piece semi-fitted dress with a matching pill box hat, black patent accessories and corsage of white carnations.

Women Join Ranks of Bus Drivers In City of Paris

PARIS (Reuters) — Girls in trim grey trousers and jaunty caps are driving big public buses through central Paris. There are 43 such chosen women along with 6,000 male drivers who weave through the dangerous traffic in their single-decker buses.

Women taxi-drivers have been a common sight here in the last decade, but lady bus drivers are comparatively new.

Tests held four years ago proved so successful that the ranks of women bus drivers are growing fast.

Even the most irascible drivers of private cars admire the pert girls behind the wheels of the big buses. Officials of the transport service say women bus drivers show nerves of iron and can cope with traffic problems as well as men.

Bus driving is one of the few jobs in France which pays a woman a salary equal to that of a man. Women ticket takers were encouraged to train as drivers after the men turned to higher-paid jobs in offices and industry.

Most of the women bus drivers are between the ages of 20 and 30. They work a 47-hour week for 822 francs, about $164, monthly.

Red-haired Marguerite Lasserre, the first woman to be hired, says it is far easier to drive a bus than a car.

"One is so vulnerable in a car," she says. "They are so small and fragile in an accident. My bus is as protected as a fortress."

DEAR ABBY . . .

Age-Old Problem!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it is fair for a school to give a girl an "F" if she refuses to take a shower in the nude with eight other girls and the gym teacher standing there watching? I raised my daughter to be modest, and I don't think the school has any right to try to change her upbringing in this respect. Our schools have money for everything else. They didn't ask the taxpayers if they wanted lounges for the teachers, they just went ahead and built them. I think a few showers with curtains or doors should be provided for the child who has been taught at home to keep her body sacred. I would like some comment on this from you and other parents, please.

ONE MOTHER'S VOICE.

DEAR VOICE: This complaint has been voiced in my column before by parents and students themselves. I agree with you. I realize that my opinion will win me few friends on school boards, but it seems to me that some arrangements could be made for those children who desire privacy. Petition your local school mothers, and more power to you!

DEAR ABBY: I am 29, single and (I'm told) attractive. I have a little problem with my milkman. He has often left me more milk than I have asked for and he doesn't charge me for it. The other day he knocked on my door. When I answered it he asked me if I was alone. I asked him why he wanted to know and he said he gets lonesome when he delivers in this area because it is a rural route, and he wanted to know if he could eat his lunch with me on my porch. I have seen him eating his lunch in his truck while I eat mine in the kitchen. He can see me through the window. Would it be wrong for me to invite him to eat his lunch with me. He seems such a nice man.

DOUBTFUL IN PETALUMA.

DEAR DOUBTFUL: So far, all you know about him is that he is generous, lonesome, and interested in you. Is he married? If so, don't let him get any chummier. If not, you couldn't order a better set-up.

DEAR ABBY: I have two problems. One, when I take my wife to work in the morning (she teaches school) she doesn't let me kiss her for fear someone she works with might see her. I say to heck with them. She is my wife and it is only a peck on the cheek. Second, we've been married almost a year and she still refuses to use my name. She goes by "Miss" as though she were single. I was born in New York and have lived here all my life. Many immigrant Puerto Ricans have the same name and I think that is what bothers her. She is putting me through graduate school, so naturally I don't want to upset anything by making any demands right now. Can you advise me?

WITHHOLD MY NAME.

DEAR WITHHOLD: You are saying that since your wife is putting you through college, you are in no position to make any demands right now. Your complaint is justified but your restraint is wise. Perhaps you can call the signals some day—but don't count on it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SISSIE IN ITHICA: It has been said that before you can train a dog, one must know more than the dog.

Queen Dubs Knights In Historic Ceremony

LONDON (Reuters)—A richly-robed Queen created 14 new Knights of the Ancient Order of the Bath in an historic Westminster Abbey ceremony Thursday.

The primarily military order, founded in 1725, ranks fourth in precedence in Britain's awards of knighthood. It was the first such installation in four years.

The new knights included Field Marshal Sir Claude Auchinleck, former supreme commander in India and Pakistan; Admiral Sir Harold Burrough, British naval commander for Germany at the end of the Second World War; RAF Marshal Lord Douglas of Kirtleside; Sir John Maud, former British ambassador in South Africa; Lord Normanbrook, former secretary to the British cabinet; RAF Marshal Sir John Slessor and South African-born Admiral Sir Neville Syfret.

CLUBWOMEN'S NEWS

Projects—The sum of $200 was voted to assist with the Jaycee Christmas party for underprivileged children when the Victoria Jaycee-Ettes met recently. Money was also voted to buy material for a Santa Claus suit for the project. It was also decided to help with the Christmas ship project. Membership director, Mrs. D. Mathison, introduced prospective members, Mrs. J. Hooper and Mrs. N. MacDonald. Guest speaker, Helen Beirnes, spoke on "Fashion Through the Ages." She was introduced by Mrs. H. Taylor and thanked by Mrs. J. Fraser. Mrs. T. Barlow gave a hospitality report and Mrs. T. Nex moved that Christmas gifts, valued at $15, be sent to the group's adopted Korean orphan. Past president, Mrs. M. Shepherd was presented with an album.

Shows Slides — At the recent meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, special guest, Mrs. E. Baxter, gave a brief talk and showed slides of life in Jerusalem and Damascus as the wife of a member of the United Nations Forces. Mrs. Baxter recently returned from the Middle East and is now assistant physiotherapist at the clinic in St. Joseph's Hospital. It was announced that a sum of $270 was realized from the recent rummage sale and will be used to further the work with arthritic patients.

Spinning — Mrs. W. van de Weerd conducted a spinning session, attended by 20 members, as main project of the Victoria Hand Weavers' Guild during the month of October. At recent meeting, held with Mrs. W. C. Winkel presiding, Mrs. G. L. Robertson showed samples of the members' work, using the "rose path" technique for decorative borders. Mrs. K. Porter showed mounted samples of nature-dyed wool, received from a Michigan weaver. These will be added to the guild's library. Mrs. P. Townsend, formerly of the British Columbia Weavers' Guild in Vancouver, was welcomed as a new member. A discussion was held on the Portland conference on handweaving, to be held in the Oregon city next May. A "question box" completed the meeting, with Mrs. Porter answering questions on weaving problems.

Raise $445.84 To Aid Blind

A sum of $445.84 was realized by HMS Ganges Chapter, IODE, at the recent Salt Spring Island annual tag day for the blind. General conveners, Mrs. O. L. Stanton and Mrs. Ed Richardson were assisted by Mrs. G. A. Maude at Fulford Harbor and Mrs. H. T. Minchin at Vesuvius Bay. Also assisting were members of local groups.

Auxiliary Plans Another Festival

The Georgian Lounge of the Empress Hotel will once again take on a festive air on Wednesday, Nov. 25, for the Festival of Christmas Decorations, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary to the Family and Children's Service.

Co-conveners are Mrs. S. B. Smith and Mrs. A. E. Cooper, auxiliary president.

As well as the usual Christmas dinner table, mantel and door decorations and trees and parcels, there will be arrangements in goblets, coal hod and religious theme.

Conveners include: Tickets, Mrs. H. A. Brown; table planning and raffle, Mrs. R. R. Forbes; trophies, Mrs. M. Webb; gifts, Mrs. M. Emerson, and publicity, Mrs. R. R. Wilde.

Entries will be judged by official judges and prizes awarded by Mrs. George R. Pearkes.

For further information contact Mrs. J. P. Fawcett, EV 4-5134, adult entries; Mrs. L. E. Booth, GR 9-5498, student entries.

Club Awards Scholarship

At a recent meeting of the Comitas Club, held in the Falkland Road home of Mrs. Hugh C. Molyneaux with Mrs. R. C. Newby presiding, it was announced that the club scholarship has been awarded to Miss Terese Poisson, a student at the University of Victoria.

At another meeting held in the Upper Terrace Road home of Mrs. J. Tysoe, guest speaker, Richard Bower, spoke on the history and growth of the press and explained changes in printing newspapers.

It was announced that $150 has been donated to the University of Victoria to purchase a piece of furniture for the lounge in one of the women's residences.

Mr. Vincent Smith and Mrs. Wilfred Pendray will represent the club at the next production of the Victoria Theatre Guild.

Mrs. Ivan Flett reviewed "Woodsman of the West" by Martin Allerdale Grainger, and Miss Ella Creighton read excerpts from books by Emily Carr.

Members and guests recently attended a showing of slides of Naples and Pompeii by Mrs. Mellis Mair in the Bonair Place home of Mrs. Allan Leith.

Society Realizes $600 at Bazaar

The sum of $600 was realized by Job's Daughters and DeMolay Temple Society at a recent bazaar held in the K of P Hall.

The affair was opened by Alderman Mrs. Lily Wilson. She was introduced by convener, Mrs. J. E. Wellings.

Tea convener was Mrs. Jack Hilliard. Other conveners included Mrs. Jack Mantell, Mrs. G. Hebden, Mrs. Gordon F. Grant, Mrs. N. Knutsen and Mrs. E. King.

Mrs. Evans was in charge of the home baking stall; Mrs. K. Campbell, Miss Mia Prentiss, Mrs. King, Mrs. M. Simpson and Mrs. F. Stade, raffles, and Mrs. L. Wicks, turkey draw.

One Sure Way to Happiness.

Many young people, frantically running in pursuit of happiness, are never going to capture it. Both Wary But Adamant

Foreign Policy Fight In U.S. Hurts Barry; Helps Johnson

NEW YORK (CP)—The day is gone, says President Johnson, when "all we need to do is push a button and determine everybody's foreign policy."

Communist is just like the neighborhood tough guy, says Republican challenger Barry Goldwater. "Let him push you around and eventually you'll have to fight."

The two statements point up fairly well the part foreign policy has played in the campaign for next Tuesday's presidential election.

Both candidates have tended to shy away from setting up their foreign policies on specific issues.

But on the broad question of the United States' posture with respect to the Communist world, the differences have been deep and heated.

This despite the fact that at times both candidates have appeared to be presenting the same general aims.

Both insist that they want above all to maintain peace; to keep the United States strong and prevent Communist expansion; to forge a stronger Western alliance and support the United Nations.

Same Goal; Plans Differ

The difference lies in the way the two men propose to carry out their programs.

Johnson has attempted to project the image of a strong, steady statesman who won't give in to the Communists but will explore every possible avenue for lessening cold war animosities.

Goldwater says the Johnson government has been taken in by the soft-sell co-existence policies of Nikita Khrushchev, the ousted Soviet premier; that the U.S. has not been tough enough in Viet Nam and Cuba; that it has helped the Communist world by selling it wheat.

The Democrats reply that Goldwater is trigger-happy and might set off a nuclear war.

Goldwater, denying this, says the real danger is that the United States will drift into war if it is weak and vacillating. He calls the "trigger-happy" accusation an "outright lie," but concedes it has been the single issue most damaging to his campaign.

Policy Would Mean UN End

Democrats charge that Goldwater's policies would mean withdrawal from the United Nations, cutting diplomatic links with the Communist world, reducing foreign aid, cancellation of the partial nuclear test-ban treaty and fighting to roll back the Iron Curtain.

Goldwater, on the other hand, says the present government has led NATO into disunity and disarray and that if elected he would hold a "conclave" to "rebuild our grand alliance."

He says the United States needs a "more discriminating and practical foreign aid policy" but denies he is an isolationist.

He says he would continue American backing for the United Nations — although he once brushed it off as a "debating society." And he no longer advocates a break in relations with Russia, although he says the threat of such a break might be used as a bargaining device.

Sudan's Army Ruler Retains Most Powers

CAIRO (AP)—Sudan got a new civilian government today, but President Ibrahim Abboud remained chief of state and his power appeared only slightly diminished.

A communique broadcast by Omdurman radio said Abboud would exercise "all the constitutional powers" but with the "approval of the cabinet."

It said he also was entrusted with "handling affairs related to the armed forces." Abboud commanded the army before leading the coup six years ago that installed a military government in the big country south of Egypt.

Elkhatem Khalifa was named premier and head of a 15-man cabinet. In a broadcast he announced the abolition of martial law and the post of military governor.

The broadcast said the cabinet would be a transitional government that would hold free elections not later than next March. It said the new Parliament would draw up a constitution and a government would be elected.

POLICY NON-ALIGNED

The premier said his government was adopting a foreign policy of non-alignment.

A broadcast from Omdurman, a Nile River community adjoining Khartoum, the capital, said Thursday the Sudanese armed forces and the leading civilian political group had agreed on steps to restore peace to the East African country.

Nine days of student riots prompted Abboud Monday to assume full power and pledge an end to the six years of military rule. He and a group of other army generals took over in a bloodless coup in 1958, abolishing the faction - ridden Sudanese Parliament which had governed in the two years since Sudan achieved independence.

The recent unrest resulted from conflict between the Moslem Arabs of the north who control the country and pagan black tribesmen who populate the south.

Quake Scares Czechs

PRAGUE (Reuters)—People fled from their homes in Bratislava Tuesday night when strong earth tremors lasting up to nine minutes rocked buildings there and in other parts of Czechoslovakia, Ceteka new agency reported. The earthquake also shook parts of Austria and Hungary.

AREA ZONING

Survey Reveals Many Problems

INTO SIBERIA, the color film record of a dangerous journey from Samarkand to the Sea of Japan, will be shown by explorer Raphael Green at Oak Bay Junior High School auditorium tonight and Saturday at 8 p.m. This is the first in a series of adult education films entitled The World Around Us.

Capital Region Planning Board staff are assembling data and recommendations for zoning the Colwood - Langford - Metchosin area at the request of Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell.

House-by-house surveys have been made and CRPB director A. H. Roberts Thursday indicated some of the problems brought out by the findings.

He said there is considerable "wasted land" in some subdivisions because islands of property are cut off from roads and can't be developed.

He also said there is no northbound road to Langford for a distance of 1¾ miles along Sooke Road, between Colwood Corner and Jackling Road.

"This is an extremely long distance for an urban area," he said. "Looking at the road system, it is abundantly clear there is a need for a major north-south road connection between these two points."

An advisory planning commission established for the area will tour trouble spots next week and recommendations will be worked out later in a meeting between the commission and CRPB.

Death Ruled Accident In Car-Loader Mishap

A coroner's jury Thursday ruled Brian Henry, 4991 Prospect Lake Road, died accidentally Oct. 6 when his car crashed head-on with a heavy loader on the Pat Bay Highway.

Driver of the loader, which broke a steering tie rod and veered across the centre line, was Barry T. Rushworth, 2545 Graham.

Testifying under protection of the B.C. and Canada Evidence Act, driver Rushworth explained the operator of a loader faces away from the steering wheel when the machine is proceeding in reverse as it was at the time of the accident.

He said he turned to get a firmer grip on the wheel when his machine lurched and jarred.

"I saw pieces flying by from the Henry car," he said.

He told the jury he was driving along the shoulder of the road to allow traffic to pass but had to pull on to the travelled portion of the highway at Dieppe Road because the shoulder narrowed.

Witness Edward Lum, 4879 Cherry Tree Bend, said the impact of the collision almost lifted the Henry car off the ground.

Saanich police Sergeant Les Ledson said the loader did not have a permit to move along the highway.

RUSSIA-RED CHINA

Attempts to Heal Split Seem Headed for Failure

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A world Communist meeting—with Red China attending—is a probability in the near future. But an attempt to heal the split in the global revolutionary movement seems headed for failure.

The new Soviet regime in all likelihood will be unwilling and unable to pay Peking's high price for peace.

Nikita Khrushchev's scalp was only the first installment the Chinese demand for muffling communism's internal warfare.

Khrushchev's successors — party chief Leonid Brezhnev and Premier Alexei Kosygin—seems anxious to mute the noisy criticism from Red China and its allies. But if they are going to get anywhere, they must eventually show a tougher policy toward the United States and even risk new tensions.

DIFFICULT JOB

This would be difficult. It is doubtful the new regime wants to alarm the Soviet people with a prospect of a turn backward toward Stalinism. It does not want to alarm the European Communist satellites, which have had a faint taste of independence. It does not want to alarm West European Communists, whose only prospects for gains lie in lulling the opposition.

Khrushchev's successors claim to support his policies of peaceful co-existence and higher living standards at home. At the same time they claim to stand for restoring world Communist unity.

Brezhnev and Kosygin can not have all these things. The best they can hope for is a lull in the wordy battle with Peking. A lull is in effect now. Since Khrushchev's fall the Soviet press and the Chinese have been silent about differences with Moscow.

The Chinese seem interested now in a meeting with Moscow. They had rejected Khrushchev's call for a preparatory meeting Dec. 15 intended to lead to a world conference of 90 parties in mid - 1965, but things have changed.

A conference, now likely, would be welcomed by Peking, anxious to probe Soviet intentions and seek tokens from Moscow that it has mended its ways.

Reactions to the Soviet upheaval from Red China's allies —parties like the Albanian, Japanese, Indonesian and others — indicate there is an exorbitant price on world communist unity. They seem to want:

—A more thorough Soviet housecleaning to oust all "modern revisionists," a term the Chinese applied to Khrushchev.

—Abrogation of the limited nuclear test ban treaty, which the U.S.S.R. still seems to value. Instead, the Chinese want an enormous propaganda drive keyed to total destruction of all nuclear weapons. This could be a cloak behind which Red China might build more nuclear weapon effectiveness.

—Scuttling of the Soviet party's relationship with Tito of Yugoslavia, whom the Red Chinese still call a "modern revisionist."

—Reshaping of Soviet economic aid policy. This would mean more help to China and more help to Communist parties, less help to such countries as India and Egypt.

—Unconditional Soviet support of all revolutionary movements, regardless of risk.

—Abandonment of the notion that the Soviet party, as the leader and model for all Communist parties, has the right to dictate the course of Communist revolution everywhere.

—Above all, the Chinese will want a more warlike brand of peaceful co - existence, which would single out the United States as the main enemy of all Communists. This means Khrushchev's theories of war and peace must be denounced.

The Chinese will not buy the idea that nuclear weapons outdate the theory that war is inevitable, nor will they buy the Khruschev idea that nuclear war would annihilate all humanity. They will not buy, either, Khrushchev's notion that Communists can climb to power peacefully.

With the Soviet developments of the past decade, this price looks far too high for Moscow.

MORE SHOTS EXCHANGED IN CYPRUS

SALONIKA, Greece (AP)—Greek and Turkish border patrols exchanged shots for 30 minutes Thursday night across the River Evros, a Greek military spokesman said today.

No casualties were reported on the Greek side. The spokesman said the prefect of Greek Thrace lodged a strong protest with Turkish border authorities.

Greek border officials said a 13-man Turkish patrol penetrated 120 yards into Greek territory at Peplos village and withdrew after a Greek border patrol fired warning shots.

The Greek spokesman said the Turks opened fire on the Greeks after retreating. The shooting ended when Greek reinforcements arrived.

Canadians 'Suckers' In Gaza UN Force

OTTAWA (CP)—New Democrat MP Colin Cameron said Thursday Canada must bargain for the right to seek a permanent solution when it agrees to enter future United Nations peace forces.

Mr. Cameron told the Commons during an interim supply debate that following a trip to the Middle East he has concluded Canadians on the UN emergency force there "are being made suckers of."

The force is only maintaining the status quo established during the Suez crisis eight years ago, he said, and wondered whether it would still be there in 80 years.

Canada should use economic aid to help the Arab states and pressure at the UN to force Israel to take responsibility for the plight of Arab refugees he said were forced from their homes when the state of Israel was established.

Mr. Cameron, member for Nanaimo - Cowichan - The Islands, said his visit left him "profoundly depressed" because the area needs integrated development by the Israelis and Arabs.

He said a guilt complex within the Western world caused by the atrocities committed in Europe against the Jews had clouded judgments about the political situation in the Middle East.

With great difficulty he had persuaded some Israelis to admit "savage destruction and slaughter" were committed against Arabs when the state was established.

He said it was tragic that persons who had suffered at the hands of the Nazis could be capable of similar conduct.

'GOVERNMENT WON'T LET US DIE'

Drug-Users Stage Sit-In

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sit-in group of Krebiozen drug users who "do not believe our government will abandon us and let us die" sent a personal plea today to President Johnson.

The 17 keeping a vigil in the outer office of Anthony J. Celebrezze, secretary of health, education and welfare, want the president to lift the federal ban on interstate shipment of the controversial drug which the government has ruled is worthless against cancer.

Most of the 17 keeping the vigil have cancer, a few do not.

Through the long night, some of the more ill patients in the group slept on mattresses just outside Celebrezze's office.

The demonstrators came to Washington after the developer of the drug, Dr. Stevan Durovic, and his brother Marko were indicted in Chicago by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiring to put the drug into interstate commerce with intent to defraud.

The Durovics surrendered Thursday to federal authorities, and U.S. District Judge Sam Perry set bond at $500,000 each.

Mrs. Laine Friedman of Flushing, N.Y., leader of the sit-in group, said the demonstration was necessary because jailing of the Durovic brothers would make it impossible for cancer patients using the drug to obtain it.

The Food and Drug Administration has ruled that Krebiozen is actually the common body chemical creatine and is worthless against cancer. Backers of the drug contend it has a different chemical makeup and can control malignancies.

The Power Women Have Over Men.

Is it simply the power to say "NO!"—as one man claims? Is giving praise the secret of women's power?...Or is it solely a matter of sex? Remember when Bonded Stock came in that plain old bottle?

Well it doesn't anymore.
That fine old bottle has launched its last sip.
We've designed a new container for Gooderham's Bonded Stock. Tall and refined with classic lines. (Our whisky's now in the best shape ever.)
And we age Bonded Stock longer now as well.
To make every drop just a little more mellow.
One thing though. Bonded Stock's smooth lightness we don't change. Our blenders know a good thing when they taste it.
Judging from the number of people who buy Bonded Stock Whisky, so does the rest of the country.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

In modern bidding, there are all sorts of cue bids. Some actually show first-round control; others merely show a strong hand.

North's two-heart bid was of this latter class. He was interested in a slam after his partner's takeout double of the opening heart bid and wanted to start proceedings at a low level.

Opening lead—♥ 2.

His eventual five-spade bid asked South to go on to six if he could take the second heart and South obliged.

While this hand is taken from "Morehead on Bidding" it is fully as interesting as a problem in play as it is on bidding.

South ruffed the second heart, led a trump to dummy, ruffed dummy's last heart, and played two more rounds of trumps. He discarded a diamond on the last trump lead. Then he played dummy's king of clubs, led a club to his ace and ruffed a club.

He had hoped to drop both queen and jack of clubs, but did not succeed.

Then he paused to count the hand. East had shown up with six black cards and either five or six hearts depending on whether West's deuce had been from a three or four-card suit. Hence East did not hold more than two diamonds.

This did not disturb South at all. He was ready for a squeeze against West. He led dummy's last trump and discarded a diamond from his own hand. West was down to three diamonds and the high club. He could not throw the high club and when he let a diamond go it established declarer's third diamond as the key trick.

149 LISTINGS WANTED

WANTED FOR TITLED LADY ARRIVING FROM SUSSEX.
My client is anxious to escape the ordeal of living under the new Socialist Government in Great Britain. She seeks a medium sized residence with character, charm and all the usual amenities that a rather fussy English Lady would expect. Two bedrooms sufficient, but two or three extra rooms could be used to accommodate her rather large Mastiffs. She likes beamed ceilings and leaded windows but is reconciled to the fact that these features are not always readily obtainable in this area. If you have a house for sale, please contact me immediately. My client is very flexible as to purchase price and area. Will pay all cash. Eric Charman, EV 5-9765, Fairfield Realty.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

The influential Nielsen ratings for the two weeks ending Oct. 11 were released this week and showed ABC-TV is still holding better than its own against the other networks.

The ratings were taken even while regular schedules were disrupted by paid political broadcasts and news specials.

Stephen

Nielsen's top 15 shows were: "Bonanza," "Bewitched," "Gomer Pyle," The World Series (Sunday game), "My Three Sons," "The Fugitive," Dick Van Dyke, "Petticoat Junction," "The Addams Family" and "Combat" (tie), Red Skelton, Ed Sullivan, World Series (Saturday game), Andy Griffith and "The Munsters."

Missing, to the surprise of many, is Peyton Place, the sex-filled night time soap opera on ABC. Peyton Place had been highly rated in earlier reports from other rating services.

The list includes four new programs — Bewitched, Gomer Pyle, The Addams Family and The Munsters. Another surprise is that Pyle beat out Jack Benny. Makes a person wonder, doesn't it?

Also in the top pack though not among the top 15 are The Beverly Hillbillies and Lucille Ball. Two other shows which also showed strong are Gilligan's Island and Broadside.

It is also to be noted that the ratings show a clear victory of comedy over other program formats. The exceptions are The Fugitive and Combat, both considered as serious.

The death of Sammee Tong came as quite a shock. He was found dead in his Hollywood-area home Tuesday, an empty bottle of sleeping pills nearby.

Police say Tong gave no explanation for the suicide in several notes left in the apartment. One note, addressed to police, said he had taken his own life and that no one was to blame for his death.

It came as a shock because he was an accomplished actor. His career spanned many years including both films and television.

Tong was currently appearing in the ABC-TV series "Mickey." His performance in this situation comedy lifted it above the ordinary series presentations.

He entered television in 1959 playing the role of the wise-cracking houseboy in "Bachelor Father."

A native of San Francisco, he attended schools in Palo Alto, California, and Honolulu before beginning his Hollywood career. He appeared in such films as "Oil For the Lamps of China," "The Good Earth," "Mr. Moto," The Charlie Chan Series and "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World."

CHARGE REDUCED

Horse Trainer To Stand Trial For Car Deaths

Burnaby horse trainer Barry McGillivray today was committed for trial at the Fall Assizes which open Monday.

He'll stand trial for dangerous driving, a charge reduced from criminal negligence.

McGillivray, 24, was charged after James Worrall, 4½, of Sidney, and his grandmother, Mrs. Frances Daniels, 72, of 1317 Pandora Ave., were killed in a Patricia Bay Highway accident five weeks ago.

The boy's mother, Mrs. Frances Worrall, remains in hospital with severe injuries.

Magistrate William Ostler made the committal order and arranged for $1,000 bail, after a preliminary hearing concluded Thursday in Saanich court.

The crash occurred on a straight stretch of Patricia Bay Highway near Wells Road at about 9 p.m. Sept. 24.

Final sitting of the hearing heard lengthy expert opinion of a hypothetical question on alcohol consumption framed by Saanich prosecutor Kenneth Murphy.

EVIDENCE RULED OUT

Magistrate Ostler ruled the evidence inadmissable, saying he felt it had insufficient weight as to place, although an element of time was included.

Mr. Murphy, who did not press the issue, said the only known factor as far as the Crown was concerned was the amount of alcohol. He said he might be able to lead evidence as to place, but Mr. Ostler said he would not allow an "exploring expedition."

The question was asked of Dr. E. L. McNiven, who had examined McGillivray at St. Joseph's Hospital shortly after 9 p.m., Sept. 24.

Earlier, Dr. McNiven said the accused had several minor injuries and a suspected broken arm. (He appeared in court with a plaster cast on his right arm.)

At the hospital, McGillivray was in pain, his face was flushed and he vomited, Dr. McNiven said.

The smell of alcohol had been detected by the doctor. He said since 90 per cent of alcohol reaches the bloodstream within an hour of being drunk, it was "a fair inference to say alcohol had been consumed within an hour of vomiting."

NO OPINION

On cross examination by defence counsel Donald Anderson, Dr. McNiven said he "wouldn't venture an opinion as to degree of shock . . . or the degree of sobriety."

Saanich fire captain Hector McNeil said he reached the accident at 9:07 p.m. He asked the accused who was seated in his car in a front yard 15½ feet off the pavement, if he had any passengers and if he was hurt.

"'I have no passengers and I'm all right'," he quoted the accused.

When he asked McGillivray to step out of the car he slumped over.

"We put him on a stretcher and took him to St. Joseph's Hospital," Capt. McNeil said.

Calvin Campbell, 1873 Graham; John Lamb, 10454 All Bay Road, and Vernon Recknagle, 10425 Wilson, each testified having seen or spoken to McGillivray at Sidney Legion club between 8 and 8:45 p.m.

Mr. Campbell said the accused told him he was late for supper and expected to be "bawled out" when he reached home.

Fireman Harold Gaines said it took about 10 minutes with crowbars to free the two women occupants of the other car and get the child from under its dashboard.

Cons. Stanley Krastel told of seeing a small child's shoe on the pavement at the accident scene.

Awaiting rescue gear, he looked closer into the women's car and saw another little shoe between the back of the front seat and the dashboard, where it was jammed.

"That was all I could see, but I surmised there was a child there," the officer said.

The right front of the Worrall car was pushed into the driver's position. The drive mechanism was shattered and torn from mountings.

Cons. Krastel said the transmission was gone.

He found a cluster gear from the transmission lying on the roadway, along with broken cast iron, steel shafts, bearings and oil.

There were deep gouges in the pavement, one of them 10½ feet long and appearing to have been caused by undercarriage of the Worrall car, which stood near the middle of the highway. It was 18½ feet from the end of the big scar.

Point of impact appeared to be the start of this gouge, Cons. Krastel said on cross examination.

Both cars were entered as exhibits.

Mr. Murphy said he did not call Mrs. Worrall, the other driver, because she was not expected to be able to give evidence until February.

(The hospital described her condition Thursday as "fairly good," an improvement, and said she was out of the intensive care unit.)

VD Rate Soars In Prince George

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP)—This booming city 320 miles north of Vancouver has the highest incidence of venereal disease in Canada, Dr. J. M. Robinson, its public health officer, said Wednesday.

The number of cases has increased "dramatically" since 1963, he said.

Ten per cent of the total cases in the district are among teenagers.

He said a study here indicates one out of every 100 persons in the health unit area has venereal disease, a rate that compares with a provincial average of one in 300, and a national average of one in 500.

JOB OFFICIAL:

Tax Doesn't Worry Valley Lumbermen

DUNCAN — Cowichan lumbermen are not too concerned about the United Kingdom's new 15 per cent surcharge on imports.

Robert Robinson, manager of Duncan NES office, told a winter employment committee on Thursday:

"It's a little too early to assess but it should not affect our district too much as we export mostly unfinished lumber which is not taxed."

Mr. Robinson said the district is as near to full employment as possible.

If MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. could get the logs, they were to start another shift at their Chemainus mill and employ an extra 25 men, he said.

For the first time in several years, sawmills in the district are breaking an unwritten law in taking on under-18 workers because of the labor shortage.

One contrary sign was at Crofton newsprint mill where B.C. Forest Products had switched from a seven to a five-day week.

Mr. Robinson said this was considered temporary due to a "softening" of the market.

Coun. Reg Clegg indicated North Cowichan will have a $29,800 winter works program. Duncan will make no decision until New Year.

William Chappell said no program was anticipated in the Lake Cowichan area because there was no unemployment problem.

Harold Whitfield of the NES said a questionnaire revealed that last November-March in the Cowichan district winter works projects were valued at $451,000 and employed an additional 240 men.

City Sailor in U.S.; Cubans Retain Friend

A Victoria sailor, shipwrecked in the Bahamas two weeks ago, arrived in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, Thursday, the same day his parents Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Walker, 138 St. Giles Street, received their first letter.

Mr. Walker said today he was surprised that his son did not fly directly home, and he still does not know when he will arrive.

The 43-year-old son, Fergus, was picked up by a Russian ship last week from a reef in the Bahamas and taken to Cuba.

In the letter to his parents, he wrote that their yacht had been cut down at 2 a.m. while his American friend, Stanford Smith, was asleep.

BACK INJURED

He said that Stanford had injured his back when he was thrown out, but that he had not suffered any injuries.

He also said it was most likely that the unknown vessel was not even aware of the fact that they had cut into the yacht.

At the time he wrote the letter Fergus expected that both he and Stanford would be put on board a British diplomatic plane and flown to Nassau.

In Florida, Thursday, Fergus said, "we were both ready to fly to Nassau on the British diplomatic flight from Havana, and then the U.S. state department stepped in and interfered and Smith could not go."

He said he did not know why, and neither did Smith. He said that after the arrangements for the flight from Cuba had been made, the Swiss embassy, which handles U.S. affairs in Cuba, informed Smith the state department did not want him to leave on the diplomatic flight—but wanted him out of Cuba as soon as possible.

The Victoria man flew aboard a regular commercial flight from Nassau to Florida and went to the home of Smith's fiance.

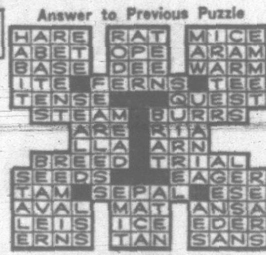
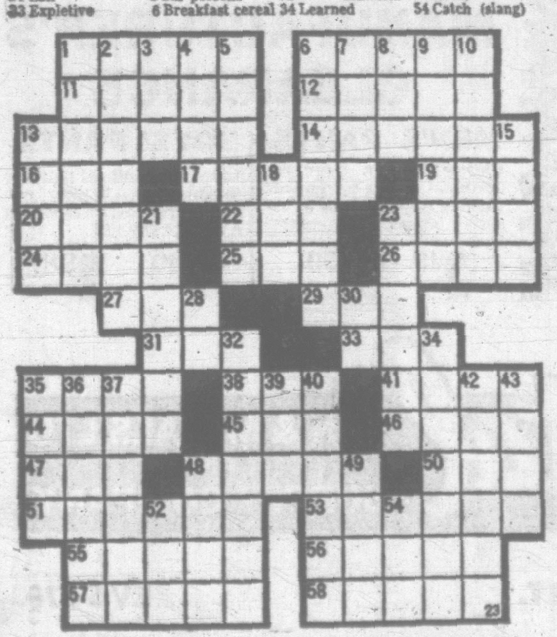
Answer to Previous Puzzle





HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Gary Smith, age 12, of Lawton, Ia., for his question:

Why Does Corn Have Tassels?

All our cereals and other crop plants are descended from wild ancestors that survived for long ages without the help of the farmer. The wild ancestor of our tall corn, however, has puzzled the experts, for corn, as we know it, has no way to scatter its own seeds. It could not reseed itself for many generations in the wild.

The fields of corn spread for miles and miles across the Great Plains, and the leafy green plants grow taller through the sunny summer days. At last, the straight stalks, bedecked with wide ribbons of foliage, reach their full height, which may be anything from six to 20 feet. Then the farmer surveys his fields and reports that his corn is tasseling-out. He means that the tip of each plant is now crowned with a tassel of long, droopy threads.

The tassel threads look somewhat like spiky seeds of grass, for they are crowded with tiny flowerets. A seed or kernel of corn develops from two parent cells, a male and female. The flowerets on the corn tassel produce pollen, and each grain of golden pollen contains two male or sperm cells. The tassel on the top of the tall corn plant, then, is a swarm of male flowerets.

Meantime, the female flowerets have formed lower down on the plant. A spike and perhaps two or more other spikes sprout from the straight stem, each enfolded in a sheltering leaf. Each spike grows neat rows of tiny germ cells up and down a central core, and the growing spike is sheathed in a husk of folded leaves. Each budding germ is an ovule containing an egg or female plant cell. When it is fertilized by a sperm cell from a pollen grain, the ovule develops into a kernel of corn. We can eat this delicious morsel, or we can separate it from the cob and plant it in the ground where it will produce a new corn plant.

Ancient Tribes Used Corn

The problem of fertilization is to get the pollen from the tassel to the ovules on the husked spikes. Each ovule grows a long thread of silk that fingers its way out into the air, and when the pollen is ready the breezes come to the aid of the ripening corn. The dusty grains are blown among the corn fields, and many of them are caught and stuck on the threads of silk. Sperm cells then grow long tubes down the silken threads to reach and fertilize the ovules. The spikes then grow into corn cobs, crowded with neat rows of juicy kernels.

Experts still argue about the origin of the corn plant. Some claim it is descended from Old World ancestors, and others claim its ancestors were native grasses of the New World. Recently the remains of early corn plants were unearthed in ancient sites in Central America. This evidence shows that an early type of corn was used by the Indians at least 7,000 years ago. There is so far no evidence that the Old World had corn at this time, so it seems likely that our fields of tall tasseled corn are descended from ancient native grasses of America.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Kathy King, age 12, of Eugene, Ore., for her question:

What causes the hiccups?

We have all suffered through a spell of hiccups or hiccoughs. Every friend has a helpful suggestion to cure the pesky attack which, as a rule, dies down by itself after a few minutes. The trouble starts in the diaphram, a large muscle that lies inside the body below the chest. Its duty is to aid the breathing lungs by contracting and relaxing. But sometimes the diaphram is irritated and goes into a series of sharp spasms. This is when you get hiccups.

In the throat is a flap called the glottis, which stops food from going down the windpipe. With each spasm, the diaphram contracts and closes the glottis. A jet of air is forced up and stops at the glottis with a jerk. In the windpipe it passes the vocal cords and forces them to say hic. When you have hiccups, you cannot help making a hic sound with each spasm of the contracting diaphram.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The world's so full of unhappiness. It seems a pity.

So, are you unhappy about something? . . . Dr. Wilson, the perennial Pollyanna, can help you.

Just concentrate on the comical aspects of the American scene. You'll feel better immediately.

Sammy Davis, furnishing the magic at a "Luau for LBJ" at the Lexington Hawaiian Room, announced that with the success of "Golden Boy," he hopes to live permanently at 3½ E. 93d St. and just "visit Hollywood."

"Where else would a cat like me live?" asked the kid from Harlem. "I was sorry I couldn't help Peter Lawford get an apartment. But give these actors an inch, they'll take a mile. You let one of them cats in and they'll all move in and mess up the neighborhood!"

* * *

Or take "The Rolling Stones," those non-haircut English singers on the Ed Sullivan show, of whom James Garner said, "The Roling Stones gathered a lot of moss on their heads."

"They were a little late for rehearsal," remarked Jack Jones. "They were still under the dryer."

* * *

There are so many things to be happy about . . . like . . . well, for example . . . payday . . . stretchpants . . . good cigars . . . "no-bra bras" when modeled by Louise Meyer, who says she never wears a bra . . . Jack Waldron, who said, "I'm going to be on the Ed Sullivan show . . . I'm not important enough to sit in the audience" . . . Van Johnson and his red socks at the Latin Quarter . . . readers like Sol Miller, Brooklyn, who writes in asking, "What happened to the man who was going to bury us?" . . . Abbey Lincoln, down at the Village Vanguard, who says, "The difference between men and boys is the cost of their toys."

* * *

Then there's Joe E. Lewis—whom the Lambs Club honored with great performances by Bert Wheeler, Archie Robbins, Jerry Bergen, Don Tanne, Bob Hall and Nancy Eaton. Kidding Eddie Arcaro, Joe E. said that a friend of his was pleased when Arcaro retired, and said, "Eddie always quits when he's ahead."

"Every time I bet on him, he did," replied Joe E.

Jim Nabors, star of CBS TV's "Gomer Pyle, USMC," told me before flying to Jamaica for a week's vacation, that he informed his discoverer, Andy Griffith, when he started, that he'd never acted or studied acting.

"Hell," Andy told him, "there ain't nuthin' to it!"

And Jim says, hell, there ain't, neither.

One final thought. Comedian London Lee appealed for "equal rights for teenagers"—defended their right to scream for the song "groups." But how about equal rights and screaming privileges for adults?

Will it be o.k. with you teenagers if your mothers and fathers, while reading the papers or watching TV, suddenly let out about 50 blood-curdling screams every night? It seems only fair that we be allowed to scream, too!

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A fellow announced that he and his wife decided it'll be just sensible personal gifts to each other this Christmas: ties and fur coats.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: The Catholic Digest reports that the men who carry Pope Paul into St. Peter's on the portable throne are called "Paul bearers."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Life is like a bank account. You only get back what you put in. Experience is the interest."—Jacob M. Braude.

UBC BRIEF

Out-of-Town Students May Get Help

The B.C. government is studying a request for grants to out-of-town university students, Education Minister Leslie Peterson said Thursday.

He said he has no comment on the request, made to a a cabinet committee by the Alma Mater Society of the University of B.C.

The brief asked for [illegible] grants and assistance in paying room and board at university residences.

The brief asked for travel grants and assistance in [illegible] room and board at university residences.

The requests were the result of a survey of student means conducted for the student council at UBC.

Victoria University was not represented in the brief, but its students have already asked the local board of governors to consider the results of the survey.

The UBC brief said the government should pay for two months room and board at university residences.

It also asked B.C. to press Ottawa for income tax concessions for students.

It said, that out-of-town students are forced to spend more money on their education than those who live in Vancouver.

At the same time, they are unable to earn more money than their city colleagues, and frequently are forced to borrow more heavily.

'Wise One' To Be Filmed By Disney

Walt Disney's film of "The Wise one"—a nature story by Frank Conibear of Victoria—will likely go into production early next year.

At his home at 1177 Fort Street, Mr. Conibear announced Thursday that he has decided to sign a contract with Walt Disney for the rights to "The Wise One."

The book will be used either as a TV feature or a full-length movie production. It was written in 1948 and tells the story of a black beaver in the northern Canadian forests.

"I understand the Disney studios already have an animal lined up for the role of the beaver," Mr. Conibear said.

His book has been published in England, Canada, the United States and Germany and still enjoys a good sale.

After signing the contract with Disney, Mr. Conibear said he will be getting married but he wouldn't disclose the name of the bride.

"I'll let her make the announcement," he said.

Before coming to Victoria, Mr. Conibear spent many years trapping in the Canadian Northwest Territories. From this experience he developed a humane trap for fur-bearing animals which is now widely used in Canada, the United States and European countries.

HOME GARDEN

Cherish Those Ashes

By JACK BEASTALL

All hard stems, roots, woody prunings, and plant material known to carry disease or pest eggs, is best consigned to the bonfire, but the ashes should be carefully preserved.

Jack

When plant material is burned the ash invariably contains a good proportion of potassium.

Potassium in plant ash indicates potassium in the plants themselves, although the part it plays is not very clear.

Experiments show it is involved in the formation of carbohydrates (sugars, starch and cellulose) within the plants. Although potassium is not a constituent of carbohydrates, plants starved of potassium lack carbohydrate reserves and show stunted growth.

Unfortunately, potassium is readily removed from ashes with water. Washing wood ashes with water, boiling the solution to dryness, and heating the residue in iron pots produces potassium carbonate or "pot-ash."

To be of use to the home gardener the bonfire ash must be protected from rain until it is perfectly cool, and then stored in metal containers in a dry place.

There are many crops that benefit from applications of wood ash, especially carnations, pinks, and onions.

Where storage is inconvenient, the cooled ash can be added to the compost heap, preferrably as a sprinkling betweens layers of plant waste, or between layers of oak leaves.

Rapist Allowed to Talk Before Giving Self Up

35 Hours of Negotiations Climax Vancouver Hunt

VANCOUVER (CP) — Convicted rapist Larry Kanester protested his innocence to a newspaperman Thursday night then meekly allowed himself to be taken back to the mental hospital from which he had escaped Sept. 2.

Kanester's surrender to city editor Bruce Larsen of the Vancouver Sun came only a short time after he had eluded police by a matter of seconds.

And Wednesday he evaded two police stakeouts after boasting that he could not be caught.

He had been object of a search since he escaped from the British Columbia government hospital at Essondale, 40 miles east of here, Sept. 2 with two others. Two girls were forced to drive one of the escapees to Vancouver at knife point. The two others have been recaptured.

Erwin Swangard, managing editor of The Sun, said Kanester protested in talks with Larsen his innocence of charges of raping two Victoria university girls last January for which he was serving two consecutive 10-year sentences.

He was sentenced June 13 after Mr. Justice T. W. Brown said in Supreme Court that the attack on the girls was a case of "sexual savagery."

Kanester gave a detailed account of his 57 days of freedom. And he recalled a traumatic experience 22 miles west of Revelstoke, B.C., when he came upon a wrecked car and found David Aronitz, 27, of New Westminster, B.C., and Robert James Thomas, 29, of Toronto, dying inside.

He talked to Aronitz, who lay with bones sticking out of both arms near the shoulder.

"He asked me to pull him out," Kanester said. "I said I couldn't, it might hurt him more . . .

"I remember getting a real selfish thought. I looked at the guy and wished we could trade places."

To Appeal Convictions

Larsen, in a copyright story, says Kanester plans to appeal his two rape convictions. He also faces a charge of escaping lawful custody and of being a criminal sexual psychopath, which carries an indefinite sentence upon conviction.

Kanester was transferred to Essondale from Oakalla provincial prison last July after an apparent suicide attempt.

Mr. Larsen said Kanester telephoned the Sun Tuesday offering his story for $500 cash. He arranged another call for Wednesday and this time demanded $1,000.

"He was told we were not interested in buying any story but we were prepared to facilitate his return to custody," Mr. Larsen said.

"I said I did not believe the community would respect the Sun if it handed any cash to an escaped rapist who had been branded dangerous by authorities."

An agreement reached after 35 hours of dealing among Sun executives, police, Kanester and an unnamed woman friend of the escapee, proved that Kanester would give himself up at the Sun Building Thursday evening.

FOUND WINDOW CUT OUT BY ANOTHER INMATE

'I Stole Somebody's Way Out'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Larry Kanester, who fled a mental institution while serving 20 years for raping two Victoria co-eds, said in a copyright story in the Vancouver Sun today that he stole his escape from another man.

Kanester surrendered to Sun editorial employees Thursday, stating he plans to appeal his convictions.

Prior to his Sept. 2 escape from Essondale Hospital 40 miles from here — where he had been sent after an apparent suicide attempt in prison—he had been "cut in" on plans for two other escape attempts but turned them down.

"I knew about these other tries. I knew in advance they were going to be done and I was not interested. I did not want to run. I did not feel there was anything in it for me. I didn't want anything, really. I just wanted to sit in a corner," he wrote.

"The night I took off I did not know there was an escape on. I was not cut in on it. I don't know why, maybe because I'd refused the other ones."

Kanester wrote that he went into a mop room. Some mops were hanging out a window to dry.

"When I removed the last one, the window fell out. Somebody had cut it out already to go and I went.

"I actually stole some other guy's way out. I don't know whose."

Two other men fled Essondale the same night. They were recaptured almost immediately.

NEARLY CAUGHT

Kanester said he was almost caught at an RCMP roadblock on his way into Vancouver, but escaped into some brush.

Later, "I got a little bold and I started walking down the middle of the road and these three male nurses came up there and spotted me. I thought they were going to get me for sure because I couldn't run any more."

He stumbled between some houses, doubled back and lay behind a fence. The nurses kept right on going.

In Vancouver he picked up a

Achoo, Achoo, Achoo! Mail Must Go Through

CHICAGO (AP) — "Arf," "bow-wow," "woof-woof" and now "aaaacho." The canine vocabulary has been extended.

With weepy eyes, an explosive nose and a yellowing hide, dogs began avoiding Thursday that previously irresistable hunk of bag and bone—the mailman.

Equipped with a red-white-and-blue, five-by-one-inch aerosol tube loaded with a mixture of cayenne pepper and mineral oil, U.S. mailmen are spraying their way around their routes.

"Over 7,000 postmen are bitten by dogs every year," Chicago Postmaster Harry H. Semrow says. "We developed this repellent to give our men a fighting chance with unfriendly dogs."

According to an instruction pamphlet issued with the repellent, after the peppery liquid is sprayed at an attacking dog it will, "without a whimper, put his tail between his legs and retreat."

"The liquid also leaves a yellow residue on the animal's coat. "This will make for easier identification in case a postman is bitten," Semrow said.

However, others are not happy with the method. J. J. Shaffer, director of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said: "We want our mail delivered too, but I don't think this is how to do the job."

Liberals Mum After Caucus

By Victor Mackie and Joyce Fairbairn
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Election talk was swirling around Parliament Hill today with the Commons in the throes of a new flag crisis and Liberals emerged from an emergency caucus close-mouthed but determined to face a showdown with the Conservative opposition.

Two controversial questions were scheduled to be discussed at the Liberal caucus held before the Commons opened.

They were the new flag recommended by the Commons committee and the proposed formula for patriation of the constitution.

Several Liberals are alarmed over the adverse reaction in many sections of the press to the government's constitutional formula. They are convinced that Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker intends to make this a major issue in the Commons and in the election if a snap election is called.

Liberals grimly declared themselves ready to go to the country charging obstruction by the Tories if the official opposition persisted in parliamentary manoeuvres that would stall business in the House.

SURPRISE MOVE

The Liberals outmanoeuvred the Conservatives this morning, however, when Grant Deachman (L—Vancouver-Quadra), as soon as the House opened said that in view of the criticism levelled at him for his first-person account of the activities of the flag committee he requested the matter be referred to the privileges and elections committee. The Conservatives had been prepared to launch a new attack against Mr. Deachman and his request appeared to blunt that attack.

Liberals were taking heart from the head-on clash between Conservative Leader Diefenbaker and his Quebec lieutenant, deputy leader Leon Balcer. Thursday night the Quebec Conservatives held a caucus and Mr. Balcer issued afterwards a special communique calling for the immediate adoption of "this distinctive new Canadian flag."

At the same time Mr. Diefenbaker was speaking over the long distance telephone from his centre block office to Regina. He addressed the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Progressive Conservative Association. He denounced the flag committee report as just another two-flag policy.

WANTS PLEBISCITE

Mr. Diefenbaker contended that there had to be a plebiscite held on the flag issue. He said his party would not support any flag that did not recognize Canada's past. He said the Conservatives were the party of Confederation and the Conservatives would be the party to save Confederation.

Meanwhile, Social Credit Leader Thompson said he doesn't foresee a mid-winter election resulting from the latest flag controversy.

Mr. Thompson, who leaves

Liberal Requests Inquiry

OTTAWA (CP)—Grant Deachman, Liberal MP under fire in the Commons for breaking secrecy on the flag committee's recommendations, asked today for a special inquiry into the matter by the Commons privileges committee.

However, when the Commons was asked a few minutes later whether the matter should be sent to the committee there were scattered calls of "No". Procedural authorities said unanimous consent would be required for such an inquiry since no formal motion had been presented.

Conservative House Leader Gordon Churchill said the Opposition was under the impression it had been arranged to give unanimous consent. Before acting further, precedents for a formal motion would have to be examined.

Mr. Deachman, MP for Vancouver Quadra and a member of the Commons flag committee, made a brief statement on a question of privilege as the Commons met.

He said that in view of the fact that an article by him and been published before the committee's report was made to the Commons and that his actions had been attacked by the Opposition, he requested that the whole matter be referred to the Commons privileges committee.

Birth Control 'New Look' Protested

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Leading Conservative prelates argued today against a new look at birth control by the Roman Catholic Church. They told the Vatican ecumenical council that married couples should trust in divine providence.

Two Vatican curia cardinals—Alfredo Ottaviani and Michael Browne—rose in the council in St. Peter's Basilica to oppose demands by other prelates for fearless re-examination of all aspects of marriage morality. Cardinals and bishops, many of them leading progressives, said Thursday the problem must not be avoided in the current council debate on its schema on modern world problems.

NAMED government House Leader for the remainder of the session today was Privy Council president George McIlraith. He succeeds Justice Minister Guy Favreau who had asked to be relieved due to other duties. Mr. McIlraith, 56, represents Ottawa West riding.

As expected, th' new flag has caused a new flap.

Crack Opens In Red Wall

BERLIN (AP) — Thousands of happy West Berliners streamed into the Soviet sector today to visit relatives after the Communists opened the Berlin wall for the second time in three years.

A few hours after Red guards raised the candy-striped steel barriers and unlocked the steel gates, the official East German news agency reported that 6,000 West Berliners had crossed over.

This was far more than expected. On the first day of last year's visiting period, the first the Reds had allowed since they built their anti-refugee wall in August 1961, only about 4,000 crossed all day.

The wall will remain open to persons with the necessary passes until Nov. 12—over the All Saints' holiday. It is the first of four visiting periods within the next 12 months.

Most of those crossing over were older people since today is a working day. Only persons working for government offices were given the day off.

The visitors carried big shopping bags filled mostly with such items as butter, coffee, cocoa and fresh fruit. They are scarce or very expensive in the East.

Passes through the wall were good for only one day, until midnight.

The East German guards, who usually have only sour looks for the West, were all smiles. But they were backed by huge propaganda signs.

Three-Leaf Designer Supports New Symbol

OTTAWA (UPI) — Commons amateur flag expert John Matheson, one of the original designers of the Liberal three maple leaf flag, is all in favor of the new single leaf design.

"No flag expert in the world can criticize this flag for design, concept or proportions," Matheson said today.

"It meets all the tests for a distinguished flag," he enthused.

Matheson was a member of the Commons committee that recommended to Parliament Thursday Canada's national flag be a single red maple leaf on a white background with red stripes on the sides.

"It is a flag of dignity and grace, worthy of a great sovereign nation," said the man who helped in the design of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's favored flag of three maple leaves on a white background with blue vertical bars.

UNIVERSAL SYMBOL

"On principle alone, what better could we do than fly our colors and our maple leaf, which is accepted universally as the symbol of Canada?"

He said that since 1868 the maple leaf, "in one form or another, has by overwhelming consensus been accepted as emblematic of Canada."

Matheson said that Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker was "rudely inaccurate" in saying the design looked like the flag of Peru.

Diefenbaker has been "entirely destructive and his influence upon his own followers demoralizing."

"In effect what he claims is the right to veto any choice not of his personal liking."

Cat Burglar Takes N.Y. Museum Jewels

NEW YORK (UPI)—A sure-footed cat burglar broke into the American Museum of Natural History last night and made off with 22 jewels from the J. P. Morgan collection including the world's largest star sapphire and the renowned De Long ruby.

The museum said the jewels were not insured.

The gems were valued at $200,000 when the financier gave them to the museum in 1905. Museum officials were at a loss to know their present market value, but they probably would be worth many times their original evaluation.

Prices to Rise

TORONTO (CP) — Manufacturers of evaporated milk, whole milk powder and other milk products say they are examining price structures with a view to increasing them. Labor costs, greater use of additives and greater shipping costs are contributing factors in the expected increase.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Small Gains Scored

The stock market scored fractional gains today at Toronto.

Prices climbed higher in Montreal and a New York selective investment demand produced a slightly higher trend.

AT TORONTO among industrials, Alberta Gas Trunk A, CPR and Moore Corp. each rose ½ to 34¼, 52¼ and 56½, while B.C. Telephone added a point to 66½ and Interprovincial Pipe Line ½ to 93 ¼. Levy Industries was ahead ⅝ to 16⅞.

Among smaller winners, Price Brothers, Industrial Acceptance and Imperial Oil each advanced ¼ to 46, 24½ and 56⅛, while Aluminum and Anthes Imperial A each tacked on ⅛ to 32 and 28.

AT MONTREAL speculative mines were lower. Industrials were up. Asbestos gained ¾ and Imperial Tobacco ⅛.

Banks also made slight gains. Nova Scotia added ⅛.

In food and beverage issues Canadian Breweries and Walker-Gooderham both advanced ⅛.

Utilities were fractionally better. Trans-Canada Pipe Lines advanced ¼.

In primary metals Stelco picked up ¼.

Papers were slightly off. Fraser lost ½. MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River advanced ¼.

AT NEW YORK most gains and loses of key stocks were small.

Bethlehem, alone among the top four steelmakers, showed a fractional gain following its profits report. The others were down fractionally.

Pre-election caution combined with the normal pre-weekend dullness.

Among Canadian issues, Canadian Pacific was up ⅞, Granby Mining and Hudson Bay Mining ¼ each.

Distillers Seagrams was down ½, Dome Mines ¼ and Walker Gooderham ⅜.

AT LONDON stock markets ended the week on a quiet note. Incentive was lacking today and there was a general disposition to hold off in advance of the speech from the throne next Tuesday when parliament resumes.

Gilt-edged issues were down at first as a precaution against possible selling but, when this failed to materialize, there was some recovery.

Steels were generally easier while engineering shares were mixed, with Babcock and Wilcox and John Brown showing small gains. Tube Investments and Vickers were among those to ease. British Aluminium was a firm market, and ICI was firm on good chemical sales reports and news of booming nylon sales.

AT VANCOUVER trading was moderate. Bethlehem Copper was up at $8.20, and Copper Soo at .33. Utica was up at $2.16 and Futurity at .44. Torwest dropped to .87, and New Imperial to $1.67.

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most prices moved fractionally on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange in moderately active trade which saw futures spreading involving today's closing of October contracts.

Flax captured much of the action, rallying from slight recessions under the influence of strong Chicago soybean prices.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD JACOBY

In modern bidding, there are all sorts of cue bids. Some actually show first-round control; others merely show a strong hand.

North's two-heart bid was of this latter class. He was interested in a slam after his partner's take-out double of the opening heart bid and wanted to start proceedings at a low level.

Opening lead—♥ 2.

His eventual five-spade bid asked South to go on to six if he could take the second heart and South obliged.

While this hand is taken from "Morehead on Bidding" it is fully as interesting as a problem in play as it is on bidding.

South ruffed the second heart, led a trump to dummy, ruffed dummy's last heart, and played two more rounds of trumps. He discarded a diamond on the last trump lead. Then he played dummy's king of clubs, led a club to his ace and ruffed a club.

He had hoped to drop both queen and jack of clubs, but did not succeed.

Then he paused to count the hand. East had shown up with six black cards and either five or six hearts depending on whether West's deuce had been from a three or four-card suit. Hence East did not hold more than two diamonds.

This did not disturb South at all. He was ready for a squeeze against West. He led dummy's last trump and discarded a diamond from his own hand. West was down to three diamonds and the high club. He could not throw the high club and when he let a diamond go it established declarer's third diamond as the key trick.

Surrendering Rapist Allowed To Tell Story

VANCOUVER (CP) — Convicted rapist Larry Kanester protested his innocence to a newspaperman Thursday night then meekly allowed himself to be taken back to the mental hospital from which he had escaped Sept. 2.

Kanester's surrender to city editor Bruce Larsen of the Vancouver Sun came only a short time after he had eluded police by a matter of seconds.

And Wednesday he evaded two police stakeouts after boasting that he could not be caught.

He had been object of a search since he escaped from the British Columbia government hospital at Essondale, 40 miles east of here, Sept. 2 with two others. Two girls were forced to drive one of the escapees to Vancouver at knife point. The two others have been recaptured.

Erwin Swangard, managing editor of The Sun, said Kanester protested in talks with Larsen his innocence of charges of raping two Victoria university girls last January for which he was serving two consecutive 10-year sentences.

He was sentenced June 13 after Mr. Justice T. W. Brown said in Supreme Court that the attack on the girls was a case of "sexual savagery."

Kanester gave a detailed account of his 57 days of freedom. And he recalled a traumatic experience 22 miles west of Revelstoke, B.C., when he came upon a wrecked car and found David Aronitz, 27, of New Westminster, B.C., and Robert James Thomas, 29, of Toronto, dying inside.

He talked to Aronitz, who lay with bones sticking out of both arms near the shoulder.

"He asked me to pull him out," Kanester said. "I said I couldn't, it might hurt him more . . .

"I remember getting a real selfish thought. I looked at the guy and wished we could trade places."

To Appeal Convictions

Larsen, in a copyright story, says Kanester plans to appeal his two rape convictions. He also faces a charge of escaping lawful custody and of being a criminal sexual psychopath, which carries an indefinite sentence upon conviction.

Kanester was transferred to Essondale from Oakalla provincial prison last July after an apparent suicide attempt.

Mr. Larsen said Kanester telephoned the Sun Tuesday offering his story for $500 cash. He arranged another call for Wednesday and this time demanded $1,000.

"He was told we were not interested in buying any story but we were prepared to facilitate his return to custody," Mr. Larsen said.

"I said I did not believe the community would respect the Sun if it handed any cash to an escaped rapist who had been branded dangerous by authorities."

An agreement reached after 35 hours of dealing among Sun executives, police, Kanester and an unnamed woman friend of the escapee, proved that Kanester would give himself up at the Sun Building Thursday evening.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Tackle Bill Frank has not succeeded in bolting an agreement between British Columbia Lions and Dallas of the National Football League, Lions announced today.

The club said it has been informed that Joe Foss, commissioner of the American Football League, has refused to register Frank's new contract with San Diego of the AFL.

Britain Blasted at Geneva Parley

GENEVA (UPI)—A full-scale international storm broke out tonight over Britain's decision to try and correct its worsening trade situation by slapping a 15 per cent surcharge on imports.

Britain was attacked by its trading partners in Europe and developing countries for making other nations suffer for its own economic troubles and for not having taken internal corrective measures to help itself.

'I Stole Plans' For Escaping

VANCOUVER (CP)—Larry Kanester, who fled a mental institution while serving 20 years for raping two Victoria co-eds, said in a copyright story in the Vancouver Sun today that he stole his escape from another man.

Kanester surrendered to Sun editorial employees Thursday, stating he plans to appeal his convictions.

Prior to his Sept. 2 escape from Essondale Hospital 40 miles from here—where he had been sent after an apparent suicide attempt in prison—he had been "cut in" on plans for two other escape attempts but turned them down.

"I knew about these other tries. I knew in advance they were going to be done and I was not interested. I did not want to run. I did not feel there was anything in it for me. I didn't want anything, really. I just wanted to sit in a corner," he wrote.

"The night I took off I did not know there was an escape on. I was not cut in on it. I don't know why, maybe because I'd refused the other ones."

Kanester wrote that he went into a mop room. Some mops were hanging out a window to dry.

"When I removed the last one, the window fell out. Somebody had cut it out already to go and I went.

"I actually stole some other guy's way out. I don't know whose."

Two other men fled Essondale the same night. They were recaptured almost immediately.

NEARLY CAUGHT

Kanester said he was almost caught at an RCMP roadblock on his way into Vancouver, but escaped into some brush.

Later, "I got a little bold and I started walking down the middle of the road and these three male nurses came up there and spotted me. I thought they were going to get me for sure because I couldn't run any more."

He stumbled between some houses, doubled back and lay behind a fence. The nurses kept right on going.

In Vancouver he picked up a

Meningitis Suspected

Two students at Strawberry Vale public school today were admitted to the isolation wing of Royal Jubilee Hospital with suspected infectious meningitis.

The students, Brian De Fries, eight, and his sister, Lila, seven, of 3852 Wilkinson Road, are in grades 2 and 3. As a precautionary measure public health officials are recommending that the parents of all children in these two grades see that their children are given sulfonamides.

Dr. G. P. Evans, public health officer for Saanich, said the incubation period is short and if no new cases are reported by Monday the school would not be closed.

The parents may obtain the sulfonamides through their own physician or through the public health office.

One case of meningitis was transferred to Victoria from Duncan earlier this year but there have been no cases of the disease reported in this area for a number of years, said Dr. Evans.

As expected, th' new flag has caused a new flap.

TEARS FLOWED as a mother and daughter were reunited today in East Germany, minutes after the Communists opened the Berlin Wall for the second time in three years. The girl's father was also expected but he died last night. (AP Wirephoto.)

6,000 CROSS

Crack Opens In Red Wall

BERLIN (AP) — Thousands of happy West Berliners streamed into the Soviet sector today to visit relatives after the Communists opened the Berlin wall for the second time in three years.

A few hours after Red guards raised the candy-striped steel barriers and unlocked the steel gates, the official East German news agency reported that 6,000 West Berliners had crossed over.

This was far more than expected. On the first day of last year's visiting period, the first the Reds had allowed since they built their anti-refugee wall in August 1961, only about 4,000 crossed all day.

The wall will remain open to persons with the necessary passes until Nov. 12—over the All Saints' holiday. It is the first of four visiting periods within the next 12 months.

Most of those crossing over were older people since today is a working day. Only persons working for government offices were given the day off.

The visitors carried big shopping bags filled mostly with such items as butter, coffee, cocoa and fresh fruit. They are scarce or very expensive in the East.

Passes through the wall were good for only one day, until midnight.

The East German guards, who usually have only sour looks for the West, were all smiles. But they were backed by huge propaganda signs.

NAMED government House Leader for the remainder of the session today was Privy Council president George McIlraith. He succeeds Justice Minister Guy Favreau who had asked to be relieved due to other duties. Mr. McIlraith, 56, represents Ottawa West riding.

Three-Leaf Designer Supports New Symbol

OTTAWA (UPI) — Commons amateur flag expert John Matheson, one of the original designers of the Liberal three maple leaf flag, is all in favor of the new single leaf design.

"No flag expert in the world can criticize this flag for design, concept or proportions," Matheson said today.

"It meets all the tests for a distinguished flag," he enthused.

Matheson was a member of the Commons committee that recommended to Parliament Thursday Canada's national flag be a single red maple leaf on a white background with red stripes on the sides.

"It is a flag of dignity and grace, worthy of a great sovereign nation," said the man who helped in the design of Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson's favored flag of three maple leaves on a white background with blue vertical bars.

UNIVERSAL SYMBOL

"On principle alone, what better could we do than fly our colors and our maple leaf, which is accepted universally as the symbol of Canada?"

He said that since 1868 the maple leaf, "in one form or another, has by overwhelming consensus been accepted as emblematic of Canada."

Matheson said that Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker was "rudely inaccurate" in saying the design looked like the flag of Peru.

Diefenbaker has been "entirely destructive and his influence upon his own followers demoralizing."

"In effect what he claims is the right to veto any choice not of his personal liking."

Liberals Ready For Showdown

By Victor Mackie and Joyce Fairbairn
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Election talk was swirling around Parliament Hill today with the Commons in the throes of a new flag crisis.

Liberals emerged from an emergency caucus close-mouthed but determined to face a showdown with the Conservative opposition.

Two controversial questions were scheduled to be discussed at the Liberal caucus held before the Commons opened.

They were the new flag recommended by the Commons committee and the proposed formula for patriation of the constitution.

Several Liberals are alarme over the adverse reaction i many sections of the press t the government's constitutiona formula. They are convince that Opposition Leader Joh Diefenbaker intends to make thi a major issue in the Common and in the election if a sna election is called.

Liberals grimly declared them selves ready to go to the countr charging obstruction by th Tories if the official oppositio persisted in parliamentary ma noeuvres that would stall busi ness in the House.

SURPRISE MOVE

The Liberals outmanoeuvre the Conservatives this morning however, when Grant Deachma (L—Vancouver-Quadra), as soo as the House opened said that i view of the criticism levelled a him for his first-person accou of the activities of the flag mittee he requested the ma ter be referred to the privilege and elections committee.

Liberals were taking hear from the head-on clash betwee Conservative Leader Diefen baker and his Quebec lieuten ant, deputy leader Leon Balce Thursday night the Quebec Con servatives held a caucus an Mr. Balcer issued afterwards special communique calling fo the immediate adoption of "thi distinctive new Canadian flag.

At the same time Mr. Diefen baker was speaking over th long distance telephone fro his centre block office to R gina. He addressed the annua meeting of the Saskatchewa Progressive Conservative Asso ciation. He denounced the fla committee report as just a other two-flag policy.

WANTS PLEBISCITE

Mr. Diefenbaker contende that there had to be a plebis cite held on the flag issue. H said his party would not sup port any flag that did not recog nize Canada's past. He sai the Conservatives were th party of Confederation and th Conservatives would be th party to save Confederation.

Meanwhile, Social Cred Leader Thompson said h doesn't foresee a mid-winte election resulting from the la est flag controversy.

Mr. Thompson, who leave

FLAG REPORT

Liberal Requests Inquiry

OTTAWA (CP)—Grant Deachman, Liberal MP under fire in the Commons for breaking secrecy on the flag committee's recommendations, asked today for a special inquiry into the matter by the Commons privileges committee.

However, when the Commons was asked a few minutes later whether the matter should be sent to the committee there were scattered calls of "No". Procedural authorities said unanimous consent would be required for such an inquiry since no formal motion had been presented.

Conservative House Leader Gordon Churchill said the Opposition was under the impression it had been arranged to give unanimous consent. Before acting further, precedents for a formal motion would have to be examined.

Mr. Deachman, MP for Vancouver Quadra and a member of the Commons flag committee, made a brief statement on a question of privilege as the Commons met.

He said that in view of the fact that an article by him and been published before the committee's report was made to the Commons and that his actions had been attacked by the Opposition, he requested that the whole matter be referred to the Commons privileges committee.

DUNCAN — Duncan and North Cowichan have jumped on the band wagon of municipalities discussing amalgamation.

The suggestion that "now might be a good time to look into the question" was made this week by Reeve Donald Morton, of North Cowichan, in an address to Duncan Jaycees.

He declined to make a firm statement "until it has been thoroughly investigated".

Questioned today, Reeve Morton made it clear he isn't pushing amalgamation "at this time".

He said he's not convinced it would be wise right now.

"There are a number of services which should be operated jointly for the benefit of the people in the city and surrounding area."

'PREMATURE'

"But full amalgamation would not necessarily be of advantage to either party.

"I think it is premature."

Duncan Mayor Jack Dobson agreed.

"We in the city have been concentrating on providing services and amenities.

"When the other area gets into line will be time enough to get together regarding amalgamation," he said.

He said there is an unfortunate duplication of services which multiplies the cost to ratepayers.

"I'm not saying amalgamation can't be discussed. We are negotiating in several fields and this is a step in the right direction.

"However, after months of negotiating regarding an extension of city water into the municipality and joint operation of Pioneer Park, we can't seem to reach agreement.

"Amalgamation would certainly not be easy."

BROADER OUTLOOK

Present negotiations with Cowichan Indian band regarding land development south of the city are advancing far more rapidly than those with North Cowichan, said Mayor Dobson.

He added: "I don't want to throw cold water on it, but for successful amalgamation both parties must take a broader look at the issue and forget parochialism."

Discussions are going on over a proposal to merge North Cowichan and the unorganized area of Saltair.

Other places discussing amalgamation include Nanaimo and nine outlying districts, and Courtenay-Comox. Port Alberni and Alberni have already voted to amalgamate in 1967.

Funeral Today For Former Magistrate

NANAIMO (CP) — Funeral services were held today for William Henry Jones, 85, a Boer War veteran who had lived here for 58 years.

Mr. Jones died Wednesday. He was a member of the Third King's Own Hussars Cavalry Regiment and served with Lord Kitchener in the Sudan and the South African War.

He worked on the spiral tunnels at Field, B.C., before moving to Nanaimo where he was for many years coroner and stipendiary magistrate. He was also magistrate of small debts court here.

He is survived by four sons.

Achoo, Achoo, Achoo! Mail Must Go Through

CHICAGO (AP) — "Arf," "bow-wow," "woof-woof" and now "aaaacho." The canine vocabulary has been extended.

With weepy eyes, an explosive nose and a yellowing hide, dogs began avoiding Thursday that previously irresistable hunk of bag and bone—the mailman.

Equipped with a red-white-and-blue, five-by-one-inch aerosol tube loaded with a mixture of cayenne pepper and mineral oil, U.S. mailmen are spraying their way around their routes.

"Over 7,000 postmen are bitten by dogs every year," Chicago Postmaster Harry H. Semrow says. "We developed this repellent to give our men a fighting chance with unfriendly dogs."

According to an instruction pamphlet issued with the repellent, after the peppery liquid is sprayed at an attacking dog it will, "without a whimper, put his tail between his legs and retreat."

"The liquid also leaves a yellow residue on the animal's coat. "This will make for easier identification in case a postman is bitten," Senrow said.

However, others are not happy with the method. J. J. Shaffer, director of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said: "We want our mail delivered too, but I don't think this is how to do the job."

Nanaimo Indian Trials Held Up

NANAIMO—At least two trials are being held up here by a long awaited decision of the B.C. Supreme Court.

Wilson Bob, Jr., pleaded not guilty Thursday to a charge of being illegally in possession of salmon at Nanoose Creek Oct. 17.

Magistrate Eric Winch adjourned the case until February, in hopes the Supreme Court decision, regarding the aboriginal rights of Indians, will be handed down by then.

Another case pending in Nanaimo is that of Samuel and Emily Bob who face charges of having deer meat out of season.

Juveniles Sentenced For Theft

GANGES — Two Brentwood juveniles were sentenced to indefinite terms at Brannen Lake School recently when they appeared in juvenile court here.

The boys pleaded guilty to theft from homes on Pender and Mayne Islands.

Meanwhile, RCMP are investigating recent reports of break-ins at two summer homes on Galiano Island.

They are also looking into first reports on Salt Spring Island of car thefts.

One was taken from the Cenotaph parking area in Ganges and later found abandoned with minor damages at Fernwood. Owner was Larry Cruikshank, of Ganges.

And Mrs. B. Davis, of Ganges, reported the attempted theft of her car from the ferry parking lot at Long Harbor.
